Similar bills introduced by Kessler have passed the Senate in 2008, 2009, and 2010 but have stalled in the House of Delegates.	2/4/14

Program Title: FOX OV NEWS*Duration: 10PM-11PM

ISSUE	DESCRIPTION	DATE
Healthcare/Political	The West Virginia House of Delegates has passed legislation to establish a regulatory system for nurses who collect forensic evidence after sexual assaults. Bill sponsor, Delegate Barbara Fleischauer says the bill would develop a structure where evidence can be removed properly and later used in court.	2/5/14
Healthcare	Here in the Ohio Valley, The American Red Cross raises money and awareness through several events each year, one of those is coming up in just a few weeks. The Heart Ball is planned for February 22 nd at Belmont Hills Country Club.	2/7/14
Education	In Ohio County, School administrators are asking the public for their opinion on the Ohio County Schools calendar for the first time ever. Superintendent Diana Vargo opened the meeting by stressing there is no academic calendar set for next year. Several changes imposed by the WV Board of Education has the district revising their calendar, and the public hearings are a part of those requirements.	1/10/14
Education/Health	He was an NBA Basketball player whose career was cut short due to drugs. Now he's coming to the Ohio Valley to hopefully prevent students from making the same mistakes that he did at their age. Chris Herron created the "Project Purple" initiative where he speaks to kids across the nation about what his addiction to drugs did to his life and career.	2/11/14
Economy/Political	Across the Mountain State, The House of Delegates in West Virginia is set to vote on a proposal to increase the minimum wage by a $1.50 by 2016. The increase would occur in steps. The House is scheduled to vote on the bill today.	2/12/14
Education	A study shows West Virginia is behind when it comes to making sure low-income students have access to advanced placement classes. The number of low-income students taking Advanced Placement courses around the nation has more than quadrupled in the last decade, according to the College Board.	2/15/14
Political	Nearly decade-old voting technology used in Ohio and elsewhere is raising concerns among election officials who say the machines may be nearing the end of their life spans and at risk for problems in the next few years. Many Ohio counties can't afford replacement machines. Ohio's secretary of state says the technology concerns aren't cause for panic but must be addressed.	2/17/14
Political	The West Virginia Senate has passed a bill to make drugs used in the production of methamphetamine available only by prescription. The bill will make pseudoephedrines a Schedule 4 prescription drug and exempt medicines that can't easily be converted to meth.	2/18/14

ISSUE	DESCRIPTION	DATE
Economy	The shutdown of Ormet has affected thousands across the Ohio Valley and even become a hot topic during the race for the governor's office in Ohio. Democratic candidate Ed Fitzgerald met with out of work Ormet employees this morning in Hannibal. Fitzgerald believes visiting the empty plant and its workers helps him understand what Ormet means to the community.	2/23/14
Political	Ohio Governor John Kasich, in his State of the State address this evening, proposed a new round of tax cuts to drive the state's overall rate below 5 percent. Kasich says he wants to cut Ohioans' personal income taxes and the taxes paid by small businesses.	2/24/14
Political	In his annual State of the City Address today, Wheeling Mayor Andy Mckenzie outlined the direction he intends to take the city in the next year. But in doing that, he also takes a look back at accomplishments and challenges the city has seen since over the past twelve months.	2/25/14
Economy/Education	The West Virginia Senate has passed a bill increasing teacher and school personnel salaries. The bill increases those salaries by $837 a year. Originally, Gov. Earl Ray Tomblin announced it was his intention to present a 2 percent increase to the state's teachers. However, through committee the bill was changed by senators to a $1,000 across the board increase in teacher and school service personnel.	2/26/14
Crime	The case against the man who allegedly raped and murdered a 92-year-old Bellaire woman will begin Monday in Belmont County. Officials say the jury for the Devon Fuller trial was officially seated today. Fuller is charged with the rape, aggravated robbery and murder of Lydia Ashworth in her home. If convicted, hw could face the death penalty.	2/27/14
Economy	While the snowfall caused typical problems on the roads, some businesses actually do very well during the winter weather. Coffee shops sell hot drinks and hot soup, while hot sandwich business is picking up. Truck stops tell us many drivers are in need of repairs. But this winter weather seems to be wearing on everyone.	3/3/14
Crime	We have new information tonight on a pre-trial phone conference held today for Mike McVey and William Rhinaman. Both men were indicted by the grand jury investigating the Steubenville Rape Case. Back in December, Superintendent Mike McVey entered a not guilty plea on all counts he faces. Former Director of Technology, William Rhinaman, has also pleaded not guilty to evidence tampering and other charges. Officials say McVey's next pre trial conference is March 26, and then his trial date could be set. Rhinaman's trial is set for April 7 but officials expect it to be continued.	3/4/14

ISSUE	DESCRIPTION	DATE
Education	Developing out of Marshall County, all schools may be under the same calendar when the new school year rolls around. Officials say if the new proposal for the 2014-2015 academic year is approved, the modified schedule Cameron was under will be gone. John Marshall High Schools Assistant Principal Jason Marling told us about another change being eyed. In West Virginia school districts may make up calamity days until June 30 th , 2015. That would be a lot longer than this year, considering the county's last day is June 11.	3/5/14
Political	A bill that would ban anyone in WV from owning a "dangerous, wild animal," is getting criticism from pet enthusiasts and pet shop owners, because it's not clear yet what a "dangerous wild animal" is. West Virginia House Bill 43-93 passed the full legislature yesterday.	3/7/14
Education	With students using technology more and more everyday, the abuse of technology becomes greater. That's why prevention resource officers from Ohio County Schools and the Wheeling Police Department recently went to a national bullying prevention conference. Sgt. John Schultz and Sgt. Tom Howard were recently in Orlando for the conference and got to learn from some of the nation's leaders for bullying awareness.	3/10/14
Crime	The gruesome details of autopsy photos in the case of a WJU student allegedly beaten to death were the topic of discussion in a court hearing for the man facing murder charges. The relevancy and shocking nature of some of the photos were argued between the defense and the state. Craig Peacocks attorney argued some of the photos were too gruesome to be shown to the jurors and gave the potential for unfair prejudice. The hearing is still going on right now, the case is set to go to trial in April.	3/11/14
Crime	After a grueling four weeks, from jury selection to sentencing, the trial of Devon Fuller concluded today as the judge told Fuller he will spend the rest of his life behind bars. In fact, Judge John Solovan thanked him for showing respect for the court. But it was that same silence, that complete lack of expression, that may have gotten him life in prison because the judge said Fuller never showed any remorse.	3/13/14
Healthcare	It started off as a small gathering of pharmacists learning about the ever-changing medications and patient care, 40 years later the Ohio Marshall County Pharmacist Association's education seminar has become the largest gathering of pharmacists in West Virginia. Today's event at Oglebay brought together 175 pharmacists from across the tri-state area to help continue their education about current and upcoming changes at pharmacies.	3/16/14
Education/Political	West Liberty University welcomes Rep. Shelly Moore Capito to the campus today for a seminar series. The Gary E. West College of Business seminar begins at 2pm in College Hall. They say 35 to 40 riders will compete in the first round, then the top ten will go back for the progressive round.	3/21/14
Economy	It's one of the lowest budgets Brooke County Commissioners have passed in 10 years and with the lack of revenue coming into the county, it will only get more difficult as the years pass. Today, commissioners passed their 2015 budget of 6.6 million dollars. Commission President Tim Ennis says they've turned over every stone in search for money and now they're looking towards the state auditors office for help.	3/25/14
Crime	Wheeling police just released this surveillance footage to us from bank security cameras. The video shows a man with a hooded sweatshirt, but the footage doesn't give you a good look at his face. Police have been searching for this man ever since the bank was robbed, shortly before 1 yesterday afternoon, he took off on foot and eventually got away in a car.	3/26/14
Healthcare	A new push is underway to clean the air in several Ohio County businesses. A couple years ago a first ever smoking ban prevented anyone from lighting up indoors, but there were exemptions like Wheeling Island Hotel Casino, video gambling parlors, and gaming parlors inside of bars. Now Dr. William Mercer with the board of health believes that exemption should be lifted because worker safety could be in jeopardy.	3/27/14
Economy	Good news for the city of Wheeling, the Pittsburgh icon, Primanti Brothers, has applied for a business license in the Friendly City according to the Secretary of State's Office. The Pittsburgh sandwich chain is famous for its overstuffed selections featuring fries and coleslaw on top of the sandwich.	3/31/14
