

KANN Issues & Programs List

1st Quarter 2020

1/1/2019 – 3/31/2020

Programming related to the Covid–19 Quarantine

Obviously, the greatest issue/challenge to life, health and financial security facing the entire World during the 1st quarter of 2020 was the COVID-19 Global Pandemic.

As events relating to the onset and spread of the virus began to unfold around the World and reach the US and Utah, our newscasts and DJ's kept listeners informed as details and developments were made available.

By March 9th, our on-air team was sharing the latest information during their live show every day that included the latest information being released to the public on sheltering in place and how to keep your family safe during this frightening time; the latest in how to plan for essential shopping for provisions and care for the people in your home; what to watch for in determining the risks, signs and status of your own health and of the people in your family or care; encouraging listeners to participate in the transition the local churches made to on-line services and consistent social distancing; encouragement and support as well as practical provisions of meals & PPE for First Responders and Frontline Medical workers; how to stay healthy both physically and mentally/emotionally in frightening and locked-down times; and so much more.

The historic events the World is still experiencing have brought tremendous opportunities for personal and community contribution in helping one another in so many ways. Every day that we're on the air, our programming is intentionally and strategically crafted to be a consistent source of encouragement and overcoming life's challenges. Our staff is well experienced and was positioned to continue bringing programming for such a time as this. Our team continues in our commitment to serve our listeners the encouragement to get through this time with hope and strength.
