Section I. Issues

The stations have identified the following topics as significant issues facing our community in this quarter:

- Community Awareness: The Hudson Valley community has made strides to recover since the COVID-19 pandemic, but there are ongoing issues that have been present before the pandemic that still need attention. This quarter we spoke with organizations that are available to the community to offer support. Various groups discussed their purpose in the community, and how they strive to better the lives of the community around them through their events and missions.
- Health Awareness: May was Mental Health Awareness Month, and a major focus on our program. We focused on organizations that are working in the community to create awareness when it comes to health issues. Mental health was a major talking point with the organizations we spoke to this quarter. We covered a grand survey of mental health-related topics ranging from substance abuse, mental illness, caregiving, burnout, and more. The organizations we spoke with dove into how they are spreading awareness of mental health, breaking down stigmas, and making conversations easier.
- Local Economy: This quarter was a great quarter for highlighting the local economy. This quarter, we spoke to small business owners, and taught our listeners ways to save money towards things they do and use every day. We also focused on the importance of tourism in the area as the weather got nicer for the spring and leading into summer. We talked about programs that encouraged the public to get involved and become local leaders.
- Arts & Education: The Hudson Valley has a very strong cultural base that includes Arts and Entertainment. It factors into a lot of areas in the region including economic and community wellness. Over the pandemic this part of our region was affected drastically. Now that things are re-opening, local artists, performers, venues, and organizations have been working to re-engage the community.
- Legislation: Besides highlighting programs and legislation at the moment that they are passed, we also look back to see the effect that the legislation has had on the community. We focused on some of the policies that had a direct effect on the residents, especially those which pertained to the physical and mental health of our residents. We revisited previous topics such as substance abuse and better speech and hearing, and the effects that the legislation had on our region since programs were passed and enacted.
