The Houston County Planning Commission made a decision on a proposed amendment that if later approved by the county board, could lead to an all-out ban of frac sand mining in the county. But before the vote a 4 hour, heated and dramatic debate that required law enforcement. The ordinance would call for three changes, banning frac sand mining, shutting down non-compliant mines, and speeding up the complaint process. The public discussion became heated; a planning commissioner ordered a sheriff's deputy to remove several people they found unruly. Voices from both sides were heard, as they each had their own concerns about Houston County's mining industry.

Slug: WALKER

Governor Walker has been critical of Hillary Clinton's use of a personal email server while she was Secretary of State. Walker has said repeatedly his staff has been instructed to use their official state email whenever possible, but now an investigation suggests some state business was conducted through personal emails.

Time: First Aired: Shows:
:47 10/19/15 6PM

Slug: ADOPTIONS

A couple of northeast Wisconsin families are pushing for a change in state law after what they call "nightmare" experiences trying to adopt children in the state. Carrie and Adam Madson and Addie and Brian Teeters both wanted to become parents and decided to try adopting a child in Wisconsin. That's where both say the problems began. For the Madsons, they brought home Jax as a newborn. Under current Wisconsin law, birth parents have around 30 days, sometimes much longer, to relinquish their rights to the child. They are also required to make a court appearance and answer questions in front of a judge.

Slug: DEMS

Wisconsin lawmakers set to vote on a bill that some democrats say would impact how acts of corruption are investigated. If passed, the bill would end so called John Doe investigations into political events. That's what was used to look into work done by Governor Walker and other conservative groups during his recall campaign.

Time: First Aired: Shows:
:19 10/20/15 5AM

Slug: VOTER ID

Wisconsin's voter ID law will not be expanded to cover other forms of photo identification. The American Civil Liberties union wanted technical college IDs, out-of-state driver's licenses and veteran's photo IDs to be accepted at the polls. But US District Judge Lynn Adelman refused the group's request. The ACLU is now considering an appeal.

Slug: JOHNDOE

Elected officials suspected of political corruption could soon be exempt from John Doe investigations under a republican bill that passed the assembly tonight. Democrats refer to this bill as the Corrupt Politician Protection Act, but republicans say it simply narrows the focus on John Doe probes to more serious crimes.

Time: First Aired: Shows:
:20 10/21/15 5AM

Slug: WALKER

Governor Walker is calling on state lawmakers to release hundreds of millions of dollars to fund a delayed road project in the Janesville area and several others around the state. The Governor asked the Joint Finance Committee to borrow 350-million dollars over the next two years for the five projects. Walker says the money is critical for south-central Wisconsin.

Slug: BATS

A new bridge, a bit of a re-route of the current path and a new stretch of highway, all part of the I-90 construction project. But building the highway is not the only issue construction crews have to be concerned about. Today the focus is what's under the bridge. About 3-thousand small brown bats typically live under the bridge set for demolition next year. Because bats are legally a protected species something needed to be done.

Time: First Aired: Shows:
:16 10/22/15 6PM

Slug: HEROIN

A state assembly health committee signed off on a package designed to combat heroin use. The panel also approved a bill clarifying a state law allowing pharmacists to dispense the overdose antidote Narcan without specific prescriptions. The vote clears the way for a full assembly vote.

Time: First Aired: Shows:
:25 10/27/15 5AM

Slug: MN STANDARD TEST

Minnesota lawmakers are discussing reducing the number of mandatory standardized tests students must take from kindergarten through high school. State Senator Charles Wiger says students are required to take dozens of Minnesota comprehensive assessment exams. He says students and teachers are spending too much time preparing for the tests. If Minnesota eliminates some of these exams, Wiger says it will have to get approval from the federal government.

Time: First Aired: Shows:

Slug: MAYOR PAY

Despite a veto by the mayor this summer some city council members are proposing a pay raise for the mayor. In mid-August the city council approved a proposal to raise the mayor's salary from 77-thousand a year to 85-thousand a year beginning in 2017. Council member Martin Gaul says the pay raise isn't about attracting candidates but about fairly compensating city employees including the mayor. He hopes to see about a 1-percent increase for all city employees in the next budget. The proposal would raise the mayor's salary by 1.2-percent for four years which comes to 79-thousand and 5-hundred dollars each year. Gaul says city employees deserve even higher raises but says the number reflects raises of people in the community.

Time: First Aired: Shows:

Slug: BUSSES

The school year began with a number of glitches, buses were late picking up and dropping off students, sometimes even skipping scheduled pick up locations altogether. The district contracts with Ohio based First Student Incorporated to provide bus services. Now the district says the issues are nearly resolved. If you're one of the many parents of students in the district frustrated with the inconsistencies of your child's bus schedule you're in luck. The district says it will go back to its old bus routes in order to make sure its students are safe and parents aren't inconvenienced. After long talks with the First Student Bus Company and feedback from parents the district says resorting to old bus routes from years past is the best solution to the problem. So why the change in routes to begin with? Superintendent Randy Nelson says the district wanted to determine what kind of efficiencies would come of it, but after a lack of drivers and routes that were too long the district quickly realized it needed to make a change.

Slug: HOLMEN FIRE

We could learn more tonight about the future of Holmen Fire Chief Doug Schober. Criticism of the Chief has reached the point where a member of the village board called for his resignation. During a previous fire district meeting board member Chuck Olson asked Schober to resign citing lack of leadership. The fire board will address the state of Schober's employment at a special meeting tonight. Debate is likely to grow heated and the board is likely to go into closed session to discuss personnel matters. Another topic on the agenda is an agreement among Holmen and the towns of Onalaska and Holland for fire protection.

Slug: TIRE SAFETY

Experts say maintaining tires properly can be what prevents an accident. Do you know how to check them? The question is when is it time for new tires? But the problem is not everyone knows what to look for. Cracks like this even though the tire's tread is still good, make this tire un-fit for the roads. And as winter approaches winter tires may be something you want to think about. Don Steckly from Don's Towing in north La Crosse says winter tire can increase your traction anywhere from 25 to 50 percent.

The Chief of Staff of the troubled Tomah Veterans Affairs Medical Center who was placed on leave last January has now been fired. The Veterans Administration placed David Houlihan on leave while it investigated allegations of over-prescribing of pain medication and retaliatory behavior. The Center's Director, Mario Desanctis, was fired in September. The scandal was uncovered in January after patients and health workers at the Tomah VA came forward with the allegations. After extensive and fair investigation the VA has formally removed Dr. Houlihan from their employment. This is an important step in moving forward at the Tomah VA and ensuring our veterans receive the care they earned and deserve."

PUBLIC AFFAIRS PROGRAMMING

UPFRONT WITH MIKE GOUSHA

AIRS SUNDAY MORNINGS 6:30-7:00AM

Upfront with Mike Gousha

October 4, 2015: This Sunday on "UpFront with Mike Gousha," the coming debate over civil service reforms. The reform bill's Assembly sponsor, Republican Majority Leader Jim Steineke of Kaukauna, and an opponent of the bill, state Rep. Diane Hesselbein, D-Middleton, discuss the need for changes to the 110-year-old system for hiring state employees. Then, the vacancy on the state Supreme Court. Former Justice Janine Geske, who was appointed to the court in 1993, explains why she thinks the governor is laying the groundwork for appointing a judge who is currently running for the seat. And, layoffs at a Waukesha engine plant. BizTimes Milwaukee executive editor Andrew Weiland on whether there will be ripple effects on other businesses.

October 11, 2015: This Sunday on "UpFront with Mike Gousha," is it the beginning of the end for Government Accountability Board? Republicans plan to split the GAB into separate commissions, led by partisan appointees. "UpFront" gets perspective from Assembly Speaker Robin Vos, R-Rochester, and GAB director and general counsel, Kevin Kennedy. Then, enormous pressure on U.S. Rep. Paul Ryan, R-Janesville, to become speaker of the House. ABC Political Director Rick Klein on what's at stake for Ryan, politically and personally.

October 18, 2015: This Sunday on "UpFront with Mike Gousha," Mike sits down with Wisconsin's newest Supreme Court justice -- Rebecca Bradley. Does being appointed to the court now give her an advantage in the upcoming election? Then, the House speaker scramble, and calls for U.S. Rep. Paul Ryan to run. Wisconsin Republican U.S. Rep. Glenn Grothman on what he thinks Ryan should do. Plus, the Milwaukee County gun case drawing national attention. WISN 12 News reporter Colleen Henry on whether the Badger Guns case could open the door for lawsuits against other gun sellers.

October 25, 2015:

This Sunday on "UpFront with Mike Gousha," big changes to state elections, ethics and campaign finance laws. Is it a protection of individual rights and free speech, or an open door to corruption? "UpFront" asks Senate President Mary Lazich, R-New Berlin, and Sen. Tim Carpenter, D-Milwaukee. Plus, U.S. Rep. Paul Ryan will run for House speaker. Republican U.S. Rep. Sean Duffy on what Ryan will have to do to help unite the party. And, some Wisconsin land owners are fed up with foul water. Kim Wright, director of Midwest Environmental Advocates, explains why they are turning to the federal EPA for help.

November 8, 2015: This Sunday on "UpFront with Mike Gousha," the next Republican presidential primary debate will be held in Milwaukee. Party chairman Reince Priebus on why the Wisconsin debate Tuesday is so important, and how the party plans to prevent what he calls another debate disaster.

Then, state lawmakers are moving toward separate, partisan-led agencies to oversee elections and ethics. "UpFront" asks former GAB chairman David Deininger what he thinks this means for Wisconsin's future. And, a suburban Milwaukee school district nearly eliminates the racial academic achievement gap. Brown Deer Schools Superintendent Dr. Deb Kerr on what the district is doing right.

November 15, 2015: This Sunday on "UpFront with Mike Gousha," Battleground Wisconsin. "UpFront" looks at the ground game Republicans and Democrats are putting together for 2016 with Republican strategist Mark Graul, and former Obama campaign communications director, Joe Zepecki. Then, some struggling Milwaukee Public Schools will be placed under control of the county executive. "UpFront" asks the new Opportunity Schools commissioner, Dr. Demond Means of the Mequon-Thiensville District, about his goals for the schools.

November 22, 2015: This Sunday on "UpFront with Mike Gousha," Congress wants to pause the flow of Syrian refugees into the United States with tough new screening procedures. Sunday, Homeland Security Committee chairman, U.S. Sen. Ron Johnson, R-Wisconsin, on what to do about the Syrian refugees, and how the U.S. should respond to the ISIS Paris attacks. Plus, state Sen. Chris Larson, D-Milwaukee, on his bid to unseat Milwaukee County Executive Chris Abele. And, an angry electorate appears to be driving the campaigns of the "outsider" candidates. What are voters so angry about? Marquette Law School Poll director Charles Franklin has hard data to answer that question.

November 29, 2015: This Sunday on "UpFront with Mike Gousha," what should be done with the Wisconsin Economic Development Corporation? Some lawmakers have suggested rebranding it, others say scrap it and start over. Mike asks state Rep. Dale Kooyenga, R-Brookfield. Then, a retired Democratic state senator has written a book about the changes he's seen over 40 years in politics. Sunday, former state Sen. Tim Cullen on Wisconsin's political divide, and why he says much of the bitterness over Act 10 could have been avoided. Plus, Wisconsin's strong housing market. Mike Ruzicka of the Greater Milwaukee Association of Realtors on why now is a good time to buy.

December 6, 2015: This Sunday on "UpFront with Mike Gousha," another mass shooting in the United States. A suburban Milwaukee mayor calls on elected leaders to move beyond politics and start looking for ways to reduce mass shootings. "UpFront" talks to Mayor Steve Scaffidi, who led Oak Creek through the Sikh Temple shooting in August 2012. Then, high numbers of layoffs in Wisconsin, but a low state unemployment rate. Brian Jacobsen of Wells Fargo Funds Management in Menomonee Falls on why this is happening, and what it says about the state's economy. And, "UpFront" begins a series of interviews with the candidates for Wisconsin Supreme Court. Madison trial attorney Claude Covelli on what he says sets him apart from his opponents.

December 13, 2015: This Sunday on "UpFront with Mike Gousha," Gov. Scott Walker drops a hint about possibly seeking a third term. Mike asks political insiders -- Scot Ross of One Wisconsin Now, and Brian Fraley of Edge Messaging -- if Walker could run, and win. Plus, Appeals Court Judge JoAnne Kloppenburg on her second bid for state Supreme Court. And, state Rep. Rob Hutton, R-Brookfield, on a new plan to rein in state spending.

December 20, 2015: This Sunday on "UpFront with Mike Gousha," state Sen. Jennifer Shilling, D-LaCrosse, the Democratic minority leader, on what Democrats and Republican can work together on in the year ahead. Plus, state Rep. Rob Hutton, R-Brookfield, with a new plan to check the growth of state spending. And, Supreme Court candidate, Milwaukee County Circuit Court Judge Joe Donald, on what he'd bring to the court.

December 27, 2015: This Sunday on "UpFront with Mike Gousha," what a year in politics. From Gov. Walker's short-lived campaign for president, to the rise of Donald Trump, it's been a year like no other. Our political panel -- John Nichols of The Capital Times, and Christian Schneider of the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel -- will analyze it all, Sunday on UpFront.

UNFRIENDING

Social media is supposed to connect people. When an online feud erupted between Jenelle Potter and a newly engaged couple, Billie Payne and Billie Jean Hayworth, the young couple ended up dead. Potter, a 30-year-old inhabited a twisted, social media-riddled world of her own creation. There she created a different persona for herself, befriending complete strangers, engaging in many online relationships. She also fueled hate, feuding with many online, the most bitter of these feuds with Billie Payne and Billie Jean Hayworth. Prosecutors say Potter had a crush on Billy Payne and openly agitated against Billy Jean. The couple was found dead; it is a twisted murder plot which lands not only Janelle, but both her parents, behind bars.

AFFLUENZA

It was a story that made national headlines – Ethan Couch, a privileged 16 year old with a troubled past, killed four innocent people while driving drunk. It was not the accident itself that catapulted the case into the national media; rather it was the teen’s defense team’s argument that Couch suffered from “affluenza”. At the sentencing, a prominent psychologist testified that Couch was a product of profoundly dysfunctional parents, who gave their son too much and never taught him the consequences of his actions. The strategy worked, and Couch did not go to jail – sparking a national outrage over privilege and accountability. Matt Gutman reports.

THE FOREVER FAMILY

Justin and Marsha Harris of Arkansas seemed like perfect adopters – they were pillars of their community. They fought to adopt three abused sisters. Unfortunately, they could not handle the girls. Their home erupted in chaos with the girls even making death threats to the family. The Harris’ say there was nothing else they could have done and had good intentions when they resorted to “re-homing.” In this case, the girls were handed to a man who turned out to be a pedophile. Elizabeth Vargas reports.

THE SEARCHERS

U.S. Army veteran Allen Thomas using social media to search for his twins, who disappeared from his life in Korea nearly half a century ago. His simple plea on Facebook: “My name is Allen Thomas and I am looking for my son and daughter... I have been searching for decades...” generated a worldwide response. Yet after over one million shares, retired Sergeant Thomas was no closer to solving the mystery “20/20” teamed up with investigative genealogist Pamela Slaton to work with Thomas on his quest. “20/20” follows the twists and turns that end with a miraculous reunion more than 40 years in the making. Elizabeth Vargas reports.

MYSTERY IN THE MATERNITY ROOM

Zella Jackson Price, 77, was completely shocked to discover the baby she thought died in 1965 at Homer G. Phillips Hospital in St. Louis was very much alive. After the reunion between Zella and her daughter Diane, almost 50 years after, triggered an avalanche of publicity, scores of other mothers who gave birth around the same time in that hospital in the 1960s came forward, wondering if the infants they too say they were told had died, are also alive. Was someone at the hospital stealing babies and then selling them? Debora Roberts reports.

THE WOMAN IN THE VIDEO

One of South Florida's most sensational trials is about to be replayed. Dalia Dippolito was recorded on video tape allegedly hiring a hit man to kill her newlywed husband – and then was convicted by a jury that needed only three hours of deliberation. But now, her lawyers have another chance as an appeals court has ruled the jury pool was tainted and Dippolito's case will be re-tried. Amy Robach reports.

Friday, December 11, 2015

THE SEARCHERS

U.S. Army veteran Allen Thomas used social media to search for his twins, who disappeared from his life in Korea nearly half a century ago. His simple plea on Facebook generated an immediate and overwhelming worldwide response. Yet after over one million shares, retired Sergeant Thomas was no closer to solving the mystery of what happened to his son and daughter, born to his former Korean wife. That is when "20/20" teamed up with investigative genealogist Pamela Slaton to work with Thomas on his emotional quest.

THE PLIGHT OF IRAQI CHRISTIAN REFUGEES

Former U.S. counter-terrorism officers Michele and Joe Assad are taking matters into their own hands, planning the evacuation of 560 Iraqi Christian refugees fleeing the atrocities of ISIS. Working with Father Douglas and building off their own professional expertise, the Assads have designed what they believe is a vetting/backgrounding process to determine that these refugees are not a security threat to any prospective new home country. After petitioning several nations, the Assads have convinced the Republic of Slovakia to take them in.

FAMILY SECRETS

Three people looking for lost loved ones – Louise, who was left in a New York City phone booth two days after she was born; John, abandoned with a brother in a Bronx apartment when they were babies; and Candy, a teenage mother who promised the baby she was forced to give up that she would someday find her again. Three people haunted by the mystery of their past, on a quest for the loved ones they yearn to know. "20/20" joins them as they turn to Pam Slaton for answers. Slaton, who was also adopted and tracked down her own birth mother, uses investigative genealogy to unlock family mysteries. Elizabeth Vargas reports.

Also, a young American hiker named Chris McCandless, the accomplished son of successful middle-class parents, was found dead in an abandoned bus in the Alaskan wilderness 23 years ago and became the subject of the best-selling book and movie "Into the Wild." The question remains: why did he sever all ties with his past, burn or give away all his money, and head into the Denali Wilderness? McCandless' own letters, released for the first time, as well as new and surprising interviews, probe the mystery that still lies at the heart of a story that so many find compelling to this day.
