Monday: The issue on this broadcast was an introduction to an upcoming growth conference for Christian women called, "SEW Women's Encounter." The creator and facilitator is Doctor Jeral A. Cloud, who described what she perceives is a need among women to become more confident and self-reliant as women of faith. The host was Anissa Porticelli.

Tuesday: The issue on this broadcast was the Middletown, Connecticut city ordinance which requires all city department heads to be actual residents within city limits. This includes the Chief of Police Erik Costa, whose conformity within the law has been questioned. General Counsel Brig Smith explained how the residency law reads. The host was Paul Kretschmer.

Wednesday & Thursday: The issue on these broadcast was whether or not there is respect and compliance with law enforcement officers & officials in America at present. Former law officer and current business owner Michael Letts described what he sees as a breakdown in society, which in turn results in greater violence and deaths on American streets. The host was Paul Kretschmer.

Friday: The issue on this broadcast was the upcoming conference for the development of men as Christian leaders and influencers within the wider society. The Reverend John Muratori described his observation of men and why he provides conferences to train men how to live out their personal faith convictions in the wider world. The host was Gerry Williams.

Saturday: The issue on this broadcast was the operation and presence of a ministry known as "Athletes in Action." The ministry uses sports and participation in sporting activities to build the confidence of Christian men and serve as a tool to reach men making personal decision to accept Jesus Christ as Lord & Savior. The guest was John Vampanella and the host was Gerry Williams.
