Violins of Hope - Sam Asher Virginia Holocaust Museum Director

On September 9th, Violins of Hope Richmond, in partnership with the Richmond Symphony, will host a feature concert at Cathedral of the Sacred Heart. Virginia Holocaust Museum, the Virginia Museum of History and Culture and the Black History Museum, joined by special guest Avshi Weinstein, Israeli violin maker and son of Israeli violin craftsman Amnon Weinstein, invite guests to come and hear the music that honors the musicians, the people and the stories of the Holocaust.

The Richmond Symphony is deeply honored to be a part of the Violins of Hope exhibition through their dedication to changing lives through the power of music. The Richmond Symphony's concerts will ultimately resonate with the times and places of their origin. In this way, the stories – and prayers, as respected violin maker Amnon Weinstein says – of their owners will be kept alive.

Violins of Hope has added a chamber music concert on Aug. 5th to the lineup in addition to the concert that will take place on Sept. 9th. Violins from the exhibit will be played during both events.

All the museums throughout Richmond will be promoting Violins of Hope.

Home Town Heros Jason Kovicka, A&A attorney and HTH, Josh Green

A community is so much more than just a group of people: it's the spirit created when neighbors help one another. Everywhere in Virginia are individuals who are driven to volunteer, motivate, create, and donate to their hometowns.

Josh Green, Vice President of Youth Development Operations at the Greater Richmond YMCA has been working with the organization for over 20 years. When the pandemic hit, he knew the YMCA could continue serving the community during unprecedented times.

Under his leadership, the Greater Richmond YMCA formed Camp Hope two weeks after schools had shut down due to COVID-19. Camp Hope provided childcare at five sites to the children of essential workers, so they did not have to make the impossible choice between working and caring for their children. When the school year ended, Josh and his team quickly pivoted to create safe summer camps for the families that needed them. The camps served over 1,000 children per day.

But Josh and the YMCA did not stop there. When school started virtually in fall 2021, they partnered with three school districts to create Student Success Centers, supporting virtual learning. Operating from 7am-6pm, they were able to offer full day virtual support in a safe space. They worked closely with principals and schools, so that the children were receiving the support they needed to be successful. Additionally, they found that staying open until 6pm ensured these young children were not going home alone.

Throughout his tenure at the YMCA, Josh has helped thousands of children. And when it was needed most, their team was able to stand up to adversity, allowing thousands of essential workers in central Virginia to keep working in the height of the pandemic, by creating safe spaces for their children.

“Looking back in several years, I will be very proud of how our team stepped up during the pandemic. Doing this work is not a job, it’s a passion,” says Green.

SEGMENT 1: THE LESSONS LEARNED FROM THE PANDEMIC

Time: 1:48

Duration: 10:16

Synopsis: It's that time of year already: back to school. After eighteen months of kids and teens learning remotely or on a hybrid schedule between in-person and remote, millions are returning back to classrooms full-time. While this may change as COVID-19 cases rise due to the Delta variant, for now, many schools are moving forward with plans to welcome students back with the caveat of requiring face masks while indoors. We discuss the highly anticipated return back to class and how some educators have changed their perspectives on learning over the past year. Host: Gary Price

Guests: Colleen Peluso, high school teacher, Valparaiso High School; Ron Chaluisan, former teacher, executive director, Newark Trust for Education.

Issues Covered: Education, Teaching, Career, Remote Learning, Parenting, Child Development, Technology, COVID-19 Pandemic

American Cancer -GET SCREENED Initiative

Dr. Waldholz

Physician discusses the "Get Screened" initiative. Interview about the importance of getting back to screenings and the challenges faced with the pandemic.

The American Cancer Society (ACS) has launched a Get Screened campaign that encourages people to schedule regular cancer screening tests. Regular screening for cancer can help save lives. Screening increases the chance of finding certain cancers early when they might be easier to treat. And, some screening tests can prevent cancer by detecting and treating pre-cancers or cell changes before they have a chance to become cancer.

The COVID-19 pandemic resulted in many elective procedures being put on hold, including cancer screenings. Delays in screening for breast, cervical, colorectal, prostate, and lung cancers could lead to cancers that are undiagnosed, untreated, and present at advanced stages, which makes them harder to treat. The ACS Get Screened campaign aims to increase cancer screening rates by raising awareness about the importance of recommended screenings and getting people back on track with their regular screening tests.

Screening is safe, effective, and accessible. Facilities that offer screening services have COVID-19 safety precautions in place. Many states have low or reduced-cost screening programs to help ensure that everyone has access, even people who don't have insurance or a primary care doctor.

Visit Get Screened to learn what cancer screening tests ACS recommends, when to get them, and how they are covered by insurance. ACS resources will help you understand the steps you can take to start or restart your own screenings or help someone else who needs to get screened.

Dogs on Call

Center for Human-Animal Interaction (CHAI) at VCU Health

J.T. Hosack Teams Coordinator for Dogs on Call

CHAI (<https://chai.vcu.edu/>) is an organization that is dedicated to improved health and well-being through interaction with companion animals with clinical, research, and educational programs which are made possible by supporters and volunteers. New research projects are geared towards loneliness (<https://www.mars.com/news-and-stories/articles/dog-therapy-benefits-for-lonely-seniors>) in aging adults and individuals diagnosed with a mental disorder.

Dogs on Call (<https://chai.vcu.edu/programs--services/dogs-on-call/>). Pre-pandemic, more than 90 Dogs On Call handlers and their therapy dogs made regular visits to the hospital, attended stress-relief events, and even visited satellite VCU Health locations to ensure our services were spread out into the community as far as they could reach. Dogs On Call is reactivating teams in the hospital, maintaining everyone's safety while also understanding that these services are desperately needed by both patients and health care staff alike in the wake of COVID-19.

Information about Forward Foundation's 2nd Annual GO FORWARD Team Ride.

Forward Foundation is a local nonprofit dedicated to assisting working single parents and their children who have encountered a life altering event which has resulted into a financial crisis. These events may include things such as divorce, death, illness, extended litigation, or taking on a caretaker role.

Qualified families are eligible to receive subsidized childcare assistance and educational services. This aid allows them the opportunity to earn an income; hence providing financial stability and independence for their family.

“Empowering Action to Move Forward” Strength, Perseverance, Persistence, Purposefulness

The Forward Foundation empowers single, working parents experiencing financial crisis to build an independent, secure, and healthy future for themselves and their children.

OUR WHY

One out of four homes in America are single parent households

Childcare is one of the largest expenses that parents face

Cost of full time care for an infant or toddler costs approximately $20k a year

OUR WHAT

Forward Foundation has thoughtfully designed a program that fosters the resilience and independence of the families we serve so they can “move forward.”

SUPPORT - Qualified working, single parents are eligible to receive subsidized childcare assistance and educational services.

EDUCATE - In conjunction with our collaborative partners, we equip our parents with vital resources and basic knowledge of the areas they need to best care for their children.

EMPOWER - Our goal is to provide the necessary tools needed to take our families from instability to stability.

BBB Says Employment Scams Hitting Hard

Leslie Blackwell, Director of Public Affairs

A new study released by the Better Business Bureau (BBB) finds nearly three-quarters of those who lose money to employment scams are already in financial crisis. Additionally, at least 53% reported being unemployed at the time they were scammed.

Employment scams were the #1 Riskiest Scam in 2018 and also 2019, according to the BBB Risk Index, which measures exposure, susceptibility, and monetary loss based on reports to BBB Scam Tracker. By late March 2020, COVID-19 was causing millions to lose their jobs or be laid off, and these people began seeking work elsewhere, especially via online platforms.

In response to the pandemic, BBB launched a new research project to better understand how employment scams are being perpetrated and the fallout from the scams.

“The research discovered more than half of scam targets were seeking work-from-home opportunities,” said Melisa Lanning Trumppower, executive director of the BBB Institute for Marketplace Trust, that produced the report. Work-from-home scammers crawled out of the woodwork in huge numbers.

The Employment Scams Report examines findings from an April 2020 survey of 10,670 U.S. and Canadian consumers reporting employment scams to BBB Scam Tracker. One surprising finding is that 65% percent of consumers reported their “job offer” was related to becoming a “warehouse redistribution coordinator” or some similar title involving the reshipment of packages (often involving stolen goods). In many cases, these scammers impersonated well-known retailers like Amazon and Walmart to seem legitimate, posting jobs on major online employment platforms.

The report also highlights those who are most at risk for employment scams. Students and individuals ages 25-34 were more susceptible and likely to be victimized, while those ages 45-54 and 65+ reported higher median dollar losses. In addition, military spouses and veterans were more likely to fall victim than non-military consumers, and the military-related reported losing significantly more money to employment scams than other categories.

“Ripping off anyone is reprehensible, but scamming those selflessly serving our nation is particularly repugnant,” said Barry N. Moore, President of the BBB serving Central Virginia, and also a military veteran.

Survey results reinforced that consumer education is a critical component of fighting back against these scammers. Those who avoided losing money were much more likely to report previous knowledge of employment scams and tactics (20% versus 7%).

For tips on how to avoid employment scams, visit BBB.org/EmploymentScams.

To report a scam, go to BBB.org/ScamTracker.

TECH FOR TROOPS ANNOUNCES A NEW DROPOFF LOCATION IN HOPEWELL, VA

Tech For Troops CEO, Mark Casper

Tech For Troops mission is to eradicate homelessness and unemployment among Veterans by providing fellow Veterans in need with the technology and job skills they need to rejoin the workforce and provide for their families. Now, with support from the American Legion Hopewell, they are one step closer to accomplishing this goal. In 2020, Tech For Troops supported 313 Veterans and over 86,000 pounds of e-waste recycling responsibly.

Tech For Troops is partnering with the American Legion Post 146 in Hopewell, VA to support the Veterans Community throughout the greater Richmond area. Local residents will be able to drop off working and non-working laptops, desktops, cell phones and flat screen monitors for reuse and refurbishment by Tech For Troops. The Hopewell American Legion drop off location is 217 E City Point Rd, Hopewell, VA 23860 and the hours for drop off are Monday – Friday from 8a-5p.

Tech For Troops CEO, Mark Casper states “We are proud to announce this partnership. This is a win-win-win for Veterans, T4T and the Hopewell American Legion!”

Post 146 Commander David Harless says “We are very pleased to be affiliated with such a great program as Tech For Troops. Refurbishing computers to support the Veteran Community makes sense and we want to be a part of that”.

Tech For Troops trains Veterans to use the tool of a refurbished laptop to create resumes, apply for jobs or telehealth their medical appointments. In doing so, they also created local jobs for fellow Veterans and helped keep countless tons of electronic waste out of landfills through their recycling programs.
