Broadcast on 2023-10-01 at 12:00PM; Duration: 29:00. TUC Radio: The Slow Motion Execution of Julian Assange

Chris Hedges in conversation with Craig Murray. Chris Hedges is the former Middle East bureau chief of the New York Times, a Pulitzer Prize winner and acclaimed author. Craig Murray was the British ambassador to Uzbekistan and now is one of Britain's most important human rights campaigners.

Thanks to The Real News Network for broadcasting Hedges' conversation with Craig Murray on September 15, 2023. That's a date of great importance as the extradition of Julian Assange from Great Britain to the US might be only weeks away.

Hounded by US law enforcement and its allies for more than a decade, Assange has been stripped of all personal and civil liberties for the crime of exposing the extent of US atrocities during the War on Terror. In the intervening years, it's become apparent that the intent of the US government is not only to silence Assange, but to send a message to whistleblowers and journalists everywhere on the consequences of speaking truth to power.

Broadcast on 2023-12-17 at 12:00PM; Duration: 29:00. TUC Radio: War and Peace, The Climate Toll

On Dec. 4th, 2023, at the COP28 in Dubai, Facing Futures TV hosted a press conference/panel on the impact of military operations on the climate. This panel of experts is concerned that, at a time when humanity needs to focus on the restoration of land and water, wars around the planet are destroying cities, lives, and ecosystems. Peace is essential, they say, for keeping the climate system from catastrophic failure.

Raya Salter and Carlos Garcia are co-hosts. Carlos Garcia is VP of Impact & Partnership for the Astra Project (which also hosted The COP28 Methane Reduction Intensive on December 10, 2023). Raya Salter is an energy justice movement attorney, activist, author and the founder and executive director of the Energy Justice Law & Policy Center.

The panelists/guests are:

Tamara Lorincz is a long-time environmentalist, feminist, peace activist and PhD candidate at Wilfrid Laurier University. She is a member of the Canadian Voice of Women for Peace and the Women s International League for Peace and Freedom-Canada. She is also on the advisory committee of the Global Network Against Weapons and Nuclear Power in Space and the No to NATO Network.

John D. Liu is a journalist, filmmaker, ecologist whose work documents that it is possible to restore natural ecological systems rather than simply accepting their loss. He has produced and directed dozens of films on Environment and Ecology that have aired on the BBC, National Geographic, Discovery, PBS, and other networks. Dr. Amara Enyia is a Strategist and Public Policy Expert on city and state policy as well as international affairs with expertise in Africa, Latin America, and Central Asia. She also serves as Senior Advisor for the Institute on Race, Power, and Political Economy at The New School.

This week on Talk World Radio we re talking about making peace in place of the wars in Gaza and Ukraine. Our host, David Swanson, interviews guest, Mairead (Corrigan) Maguire, who is a Member of the Advisory Board of World BEYOND War. She is based in Northern Ireland and is a Nobel Peace Laureate and Co-founder of Peace People Northern Ireland 1976. Mairead was born in 1944, into a family of eight children in West Belfast. At 14 she became a volunteer with a grass-roots lay organization and began in her free time to work in her local community. Mairead s volunteerism, gave her the opportunity to work with families, helping to set up the first center for disabled children, day care and youth centers for training local youth in peaceful community service. When Internment was introduced by the British Government in 1971, Mairead and her companions visited Long Kesh Internment camp to visit prisoners and their families, who were suffering deeply from many forms of violence. Mairead, was the aunt of the three Maguire children who died, in August, 1976, as a result of being hit by an IRA getaway car after its driver was shot by a British soldier. Mairead (a pacifist) responded to the violence facing her family and community by organizing, together with Betty Williams and Ciaran McKeown, massive peace demonstrations appealing for an end to the bloodshed, and a nonviolent solution to the conflict. Together, the three co-founded the Peace People, a movement committed to building a just and nonviolent society in Northern Ireland. The Peace People organized each week, for six months, peace rallies throughout Ireland and the UK. These were attended by many thousands of people, and during this time there was a 70% decrease in the rate of violence. In 1976 Mairead, together with Betty Williams, was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for their actions to help bring about peace and put an end to the violence arising out of the ethnic/political conflict in their native Northern Ireland. Since receiving the Nobel Peace prize Mairead has continued to work to promote dialogue, peace and disarmament both in Northern Ireland and around the world. Mairead has visited many countries, including, USA, Russia, Palestine, North/South Korea, Afghanistan, Gaza, Iran, Syria, Congo, Iraq.

This week on Talk World Radio we re talking about making peace in place of the wars in Gaza and Ukraine. Our host, David Swanson, interviews guest, Mairead (Corrigan) Maguire, who is a Member of the Advisory Board of World BEYOND War. She is based in Northern Ireland and is a Nobel Peace Laureate and Co-founder of Peace People Northern Ireland 1976. Mairead was born in 1944, into a family of eight children in West Belfast. At 14 she became a volunteer with a grass-roots lay organization and began in her free time to work in her local community. Mairead s volunteerism, gave her the opportunity to work with families, helping to set up the first center for disabled children, day care and youth centers for training local youth in peaceful community service. When Internment was introduced by the British Government in 1971, Mairead and her companions visited Long Kesh Internment camp to visit prisoners and their families, who were suffering deeply from many forms of violence. Mairead, was the aunt of the three Maguire children who died, in August, 1976, as a result of being hit by an IRA getaway car after its driver was shot by a British soldier. Mairead (a pacifist) responded to the violence facing her family and community by organizing, together with Betty Williams and Ciaran McKeown, massive peace demonstrations appealing for an end to the bloodshed, and a nonviolent solution to the conflict. Together, the three co-founded the Peace People, a movement committed to building a just and nonviolent society in Northern Ireland. The Peace People organized each week, for six months, peace rallies throughout Ireland and the UK. These were attended by many thousands of people, and during this time there was a 70% decrease in the rate of violence. In 1976 Mairead, together with Betty Williams, was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for their actions to help bring about peace and put an end to the violence arising out of the ethnic/political conflict in their native Northern Ireland. Since receiving the Nobel Peace prize Mairead has continued to work to promote dialogue, peace and disarmament both in Northern Ireland and around the world. Mairead has visited many countries, including, USA, Russia, Palestine, North/South Korea, Afghanistan, Gaza, Iran, Syria, Congo, Iraq.

Broadcast on 2023-12-17 at 12:00PM; Duration: 29:00. TUC Radio: War and Peace, The Climate Toll

On Dec. 4th, 2023, at the COP28 in Dubai, Facing Futures TV hosted a press conference/panel on the impact of military operations on the climate. This panel of experts is concerned that, at a time when humanity needs to focus on the restoration of land and water, wars around the planet are destroying cities, lives, and ecosystems. Peace is essential, they say, for keeping the climate system from catastrophic failure.

Raya Salter and Carlos Garcia are co-hosts. Carlos Garcia is VP of Impact & Partnership for the Astra Project (which also hosted The COP28 Methane Reduction Intensive on December 10, 2023). Raya Salter is an energy justice movement attorney, activist, author and the founder and executive director of the Energy Justice Law & Policy Center.

The panelists/guests are:

Tamara Lorincz is a long-time environmentalist, feminist, peace activist and PhD candidate at Wilfrid Laurier University. She is a member of the Canadian Voice of Women for Peace and the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom-Canada. She is also on the advisory committee of the Global Network Against Weapons and Nuclear Power in Space and the No to NATO Network.

John D. Liu is a journalist, filmmaker, ecologist whose work documents that it is possible to restore natural ecological systems rather than simply accepting their loss. He has produced and directed dozens of films on Environment and Ecology that have aired on the BBC, National Geographic, Discovery, PBS, and other networks. Dr. Amara Enyia is a Strategist and Public Policy Expert on city and state policy as well as international affairs with expertise in Africa, Latin America, and Central Asia. She also serves as Senior Advisor for the Institute on Race, Power, and Political Economy at The New School.

Our fossil fueled economy is destabilizing the planet. But a renewable economy as it is designed now makes unsustainable demands on minerals and materials of the earth.

Host, Rachel Donald, runs one of the world's top-rated podcasts on the poly-crisis and systems change. Planet: Critical uncovers the big picture of the climate crisis by mapping the energy, economic and political crises. Each episode is a critical interview with the world's best scientists, economists, academics, activists, politicians and journalists battling to save our planet.

Guest, Simon Michaux, is an associate professor at the geological survey of Finland. He is a problem solver in the mining industry and now the industrial recycling industry. Most of his current scientific papers deal with the tasks to completely phase out fossil fuels in Finland.

Hounded by US law enforcement and its allies for more than a decade, Assange has been stripped of all personal and civil liberties for the crime of exposing the extent of US atrocities during the War on Terror. In the intervening years, it's become apparent that the intent of the US government is not only to silence Assange, but to send a message to whistleblowers and journalists everywhere on the consequences of speaking truth to power.

Community Affairs

Broadcast on 2023-10-01 at 12:00PM; Duration: 29:00. TUC Radio: The Slow Motion Execution of Julian Assange

Chris Hedges in conversation with Craig Murray. Chris Hedges is the former Middle East bureau chief of the New York Times, a Pulitzer Prize winner and acclaimed author. Craig Murray was the British ambassador to Uzbekistan and now is one of Britain's most important human rights campaigners.

Thanks to The Real News Network for broadcasting Hedges' conversation with Craig Murray on September 15, 2023. That's a date of great importance as the extradition of Julian Assange from Great Britain to the US might be only weeks away.

Hounded by US law enforcement and its allies for more than a decade, Assange has been stripped of all personal and civil liberties for the crime of exposing the extent of US atrocities during the War on Terror. In the intervening years, it's become apparent that the intent of the US government is not only to silence Assange, but to send a message to whistleblowers and journalists everywhere on the consequences of speaking truth to power.

Broadcast on 2023-12-24 at 12:00PM; Duration: 29:00. TUC Radio: The Unsustainable Green Transition Simon Michaux, part 1

Rachel Donald interviews Simon Michaux on the YouTube channel PlanetCritical.

Our fossil-fueled economy is destabilizing the planet. But a renewable economy as it is designed now makes unsustainable demands on minerals and materials of the earth.

Host, Rachel Donald, runs one of the world's top-rated podcasts on the poly-crisis and systems change. Planet: Critical uncovers the big picture of the climate crisis by mapping the energy, economic and political crises. Each episode is a critical interview with the world's best scientists, economists, academics, activists, politicians and journalists battling to save our planet.

Guest, Simon Michaux, is an associate professor at the geological survey of Finland. He is a problem solver in the mining industry and now the industrial recycling industry. Most of his current scientific papers deal with the tasks to completely phase out fossil fuels in Finland.

This week on Talk World Radio we're talking about making peace in place of the wars in Gaza and Ukraine. Our host, David Swanson, interviews guest, Mairead (Corrigan) Maguire, who is a Member of the Advisory Board of World BEYOND War. She is based in Northern Ireland and is a Nobel Peace Laureate and Co-founder of Peace People Northern Ireland 1976. Mairead was born in 1944, into a family of eight children in West Belfast. At 14 she became a volunteer with a grass-roots lay organization and began in her free time to work in her local community. Mairead's volunteerism, gave her the opportunity to work with families, helping to set up the first center for disabled children, day care and youth centers for training local youth in peaceful community service. When Internment was introduced by the British Government in 1971, Mairead and her companions visited Long Kesh Internment camp to visit prisoners and their families, who were suffering deeply from many forms of violence. Mairead, was the aunt of the three Maguire children who died, in August, 1976, as a result of being hit by an IRA getaway car after its driver was shot by a British soldier. Mairead (a pacifist) responded to the violence facing her family and community by organizing, together with Betty Williams and Ciaran McKeown, massive peace demonstrations appealing for an end to the bloodshed, and a nonviolent solution to the conflict. Together, the three co-founded the Peace People, a movement committed to building a just and nonviolent society in Northern Ireland. The Peace People organized each week, for six months, peace rallies throughout Ireland and the UK. These were attended by many thousands of people, and during this time there was a 70% decrease in the rate of violence. In 1976 Mairead, together with Betty Williams, was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for their actions to help bring about peace and put an end to the violence arising out of the ethnic/political conflict in their native Northern Ireland. Since receiving the Nobel Peace prize Mairead has continued to work to promote dialogue, peace and disarmament both in Northern Ireland and around the world. Mairead has visited many countries, including, USA, Russia, Palestine, North/South Korea, Afghanistan, Gaza, Iran, Syria, Congo, Iraq.

This week on Talk World Radio we re talking about making peace in place of the wars in Gaza and Ukraine. Our host, David Swanson, interviews guest, Mairead (Corrigan) Maguire, who is a Member of the Advisory Board of World BEYOND War. She is based in Northern Ireland and is a Nobel Peace Laureate and Co-founder of Peace People Northern Ireland 1976. Mairead was born in 1944, into a family of eight children in West Belfast. At 14 she became a volunteer with a grass-roots lay organization and began in her free time to work in her local community. Mairead s volunteerism, gave her the opportunity to work with families, helping to set up the first center for disabled children, day care and youth centers for training local youth in peaceful community service. When Internment was introduced by the British Government in 1971, Mairead and her companions visited Long Kesh Internment camp to visit prisoners and their families, who were suffering deeply from many forms of violence. Mairead, was the aunt of the three Maguire children who died, in August, 1976, as a result of being hit by an IRA getaway car after its driver was shot by a British soldier. Mairead (a pacifist) responded to the violence facing her family and community by organizing, together with Betty Williams and Ciaran McKeown, massive peace demonstrations appealing for an end to the bloodshed, and a nonviolent solution to the conflict. Together, the three co-founded the Peace People, a movement committed to building a just and nonviolent society in Northern Ireland. The Peace People organized each week, for six months, peace rallies throughout Ireland and the UK. These were attended by many thousands of people, and during this time there was a 70% decrease in the rate of violence. In 1976 Mairead, together with Betty Williams, was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for their actions to help bring about peace and put an end to the violence arising out of the ethnic/political conflict in their native Northern Ireland. Since receiving the Nobel Peace prize Mairead has continued to work to promote dialogue, peace and disarmament both in Northern Ireland and around the world. Mairead has visited many countries, including, USA, Russia, Palestine, North/South Korea, Afghanistan, Gaza, Iran, Syria, Congo, Iraq.
