The company stated they would fund travel expenses for any employee who needed to travel out of the state for an abortion. Mr. Cain wrote that Citicorp's officers and employees will face criminal prosecution of Citigroup doesn't immediately stop this unlawful activity. Date: 4/8/2022

Program Name: The Point

Issue: Free Speech, Religious Freedom

Time Aired: 12:45 PM

Duration: :60

Description:

Recently Kristen Waggoner, an attorney with the Alliance Defending Freedom, was invited to join a panel at Yale Law School. Ironically, during her talk about free speech, a mob of Yale students—future lawyers, mind you—tried to shut down the conversation, yelling obscenities and pounding on the classroom walls, all because ADF defends the reality of sexual difference.

Kristen wrote about the volatile situation at WORLD Opinions. An anonymous student gave her a note before the event with the words “keep the faith.” She did.

The best argument for free speech is speaking freely and truthfully, with respect for those who disagree. Kristen showed how important free speech really is by her boldness and calm in the face of a group temper tantrum. Her demeanor sent the message even louder than her words, and also represented Jesus, who before the Sanhedrin, also offered a quiet and confident disposition that spoke louder than words.

To close, John explains how unique it is that archeological findings continue to support the historical occurrences in the Bible. After the attempted abortion, her birthmother then chose life. She was born prematurely and suffers from cerebral palsy. Terri adopted Hope when she was three months old. Date: 4/29/2022

Issue: China, Starvation, World Issues

Time Aired: 12:45 PM

Duration: :60

Description: A recent viral video shows thousands of people in Shanghai screaming in unison into the night to protest the Chinese government's brutal "zero-COVID" policy.

Entire high-rises of people are confined to their rooms, locked in with green fencing that appeared overnight. Children, including babies, are separated from their parents in massive government quarantine centers, some of which lack basic medical equipment or even beds. Other videos show hundreds of pets being collected and euthanized as supposed carriers of the disease.

In the meantime, many of the city's 25 million people find themselves on the brink of starvation, with government food deliveries unable to keep up with demand.

If we're looking for a culprit, it's not just the lockdown. It's not even COVID-19. It's the ideology of China's ruling elites, which rejects the sacred value of the individual in the name of the "common good." Human dignity is a deeply Christian idea, one that China's communist leaders have been at war with for decades.

On today's edition of Family Talk, the pastor of McLean Bible Church in Washington D.C. shares the value of our prayers, in an address given at the 2019 National Day of Prayer. Quite the contrary. Earlier this year I told you about a New York Times report that these tests are widely used but have an average failure rate of a whopping 85%. The FDA press release stated parents were making “inappropriate health care decision regarding their pregnancies.” We’re talking about abortions. Women are killing their unborn babies based on fraud. Between nursing your infant to having your toddler mistake you for a jungle gym, it's normal to long for some personal space. Apparently these acts of domestic terrorism were in response to the leaked Supreme Court opinion reversing Roe v Wade. In Wisconsin the thugs left a threatening message on the building, "If abortions aren't safe, then neither are you." The battle to save unborn babies and protect their mothers has turned violent and menacing. But we cannot. We will not be intimidated into silence. While each day that nearly 2,500 babies are brutally killed in abortion chambers throughout the nation, we must and we will continue to advance our cause and a culture of LIFE. Please keep all those in the pro-life movement in your prayers.

Issue: Abortion Pill

Time Aired: 12:30 PM, 5:25 PM

Description: The abortion industry is making a killing – in more ways than one. First, there's the death of the unborn child. Second, they're making huge profits from selling unsuspecting women the chemical abortion pill. Two years ago, the going price for a chemical abortion was $560.00 while the actual cost of the pills can be $75.00. It's even worse when you realize Planned Parenthood and the rest of the abortion industry cut out almost all overhead. Thanks to Biden, they're no longer required to have an in-person medical exams, ultrasounds, or other crucial tests to lessen the danger of these pills. An online abortion business with only a phone, computer, and a source of the pills can make a huge profit – a recipe for disaster for women everywhere.

Issue: Abortion, Politics

Time Aired: 12:30 PM, 5:25 PM

Duration: :60

Description: The House Pro-Choice Caucus in Congress consists of members in DC who're dedicated to advocating abortion throughout pregnancy and forcing it on the American public. They recently came out with some language dos and don'ts. For example, don't use the word "choice." Instead, it's now to be called a "decision." Don't refer to conscience protections for medical professionals who don't want to do abortions as a "refusal or denial of care." It makes the medical practice of protecting babies sound like a cold-hearted act against patients. Critics quickly pointed out the title of this group of legislators betrays its memo since they're called the "House Pro-Choice Caucus." Regardless of the words they use, they're advocating for the killing of defenseless children.

Millennials in America are not only redefining sexuality, but our national values as well. On today's edition of Family Talk, researcher George Barna explains to co-host Dr. Tim Clinton that the reason why people ages 25-40 are spiritually adrift is because nine out of ten grew up in households without a biblical worldview. No wonder 75 percent don't have a clear purpose, and only 20 percent believe all life is sacred. Due to their secular experiences, Millennials are prone to give up on marriage, on having kids, and even on life itself. An abortionist at the West Alabama Women's Center botched an abortion so badly they had to do an emergency hysterectomy to save her life. In spite of the patient's pleas for them to call an ambulance, the abortion mill staff did so only when they couldn't detect her pulse. This botched abortion occurred just seven months after another woman with similar injuries died at the abortion mill. Despite the pleas of concerned citizens to the Alabama Department of Public Health to investigate, little has been done. If this had been any other outpatient surgical center, health officials would have been all over that place. These tragic events are not isolated outcomes. It's the real face of the legal abortion industry.

This past February, three women were maimed by botched abortions and ambulances were called for uncontrolled bleeding. Two of them happened less than six hours apart. Later that same week the third crisis occurred. During the past three years there've been nine medical emergencies at this center of death. Last October a woman told police they did an abortion on her without her permission.
