They came up with a medical type of skateboard the baby can use to acquire motor skills. This can counter the delayed development many premature babies experience. These skills include things like crawling, walking, and later, catching a ball. The babies lie on the skateboard with stabilizers and learn to push themselves along. Babies born very prematurely miss out on practicing these skills during pregnancy because prematurity gives them less time to develop muscles used for these motor skills. This research breakthrough is yet another reminder how beautifully God knits us together in our mothers' wombs. Let's protect the unborn.

Duration: :60

Description: Euthanasia was legalized in Canada in 2016, and the so-called safeguards have fallen like flies. What's especially tragic is when businesses exploit people being victimized by euthanasia. A funeral home in Quebec is offering what they call a "turnkey" package to those who want to die by euthanasia. They can pay $700.00 to die in the showroom of the funeral home and then have their lifeless body prepared for burial. A staffer at the funeral home said, "We were a little cautious at the start, because it may seem opportunistic..." Ya think?! This is an ugly attempt to normalize the intentional killing of people who now don't even have to be terminal. Those with disabilities and others suffering from mental illness can now be euthanized.

At minimum, this abortion conglomerate thinks they can kill at least 42,000 babies in one year's time. Those involved are pretty cocky about what they're doing. Description: A presidential candidate – I won't share his party or name. What's important is understanding he's wrong. While describing himself as "unapologetically pro-life," he said, "I would not support a federal abortion ban of any kind." The candidate claims the constitution says abortion's only a state's rights issue. It's true the Supreme Court reversed Roe and returned abortion to the states. But the Court did not say the constitution forbids congress from enacting legislation protecting the unborn. If we are to protect the babies in blue states like California, Illinois, and Maryland, we need federal legislation that'll protect all American citizens, born or unborn. Always be discerning when candidates talk about abortion. The babies deserve better than those who compromise our efforts.

As our culture continues to trend toward sin and destruction, Christians need to prepare for the imposition of a radical agenda. On today's edition of Family Talk, best-selling author David Horowitz, once himself an adherent of liberal policies, reveals why leftist doctrine is a bankrupt worldview. In his book, Dark Agenda: The War to Destroy Christian America, Horowitz warns that if the culture is allowed to kill off American Judeo-Christian values, then our freedoms could be next. Program Name: Life Issues

Issue: Religious Discrimination, Pro Life

Time Aired: 12:30 PM, 5:25 PM

Duration: :60

Description: Massachusetts is desperate to find homes willing to take in foster children. It's reported children sleep in social workers' offices, in hospitals and emergency rooms because there's no homes available. Mike and Kitty Burke, he an Iraq war veteran and Kitty experienced with special needs children, easily passed training, extensive interviews, and a home evaluation. But the Massachusetts Department of Children and Families rejected the Burkes because their religious faith rightly so rejects same-sex relationships and gender transitioning. The Department ignores it's on record prohibiting discrimination against prospective foster parents "on the basis of religion." The Burkes have taken their case to the courts for blatant discrimination.

Issue: Building a Stronger Family

Time Aired: 7:30 PM

Duration: 30:00

Description:

"Duck Dynasty" stars Willie and Korie Robertson laugh at duck call tales, dive into their movie "The Blind," and explore faith, forgiveness, and family. Don't miss their ideas on actively building a culture-changing family legacy.

I think a lot of times you look at the story, and you focus on Phil's repentance because Phil's change was significant. But also, Kay's forgiveness was so significant; and both of those things had to happen for this family to stick together. If Phil had not repented, it's done. If Phil had not changed his life, the family [would be] over. If Kay had not chosen forgiveness and taken Phil back—it changed everything. -- Korie Robertson

Program Name: Life Issues

Issue: Homicide, Euthanasia

Time Aired: 12:30 PM, 5:25 PM

Duration: :60

Description: Wesley Smith, an expert on medical ethics said, “Euthanasia is not the practice of medicine. It just puts a ‘medical’ patina on homicide.” That applies to what a physician did in Belgium. He gave a terminally ill patient a lethal injection at her request. When she didn’t die, he finished the job with a pillow. An autopsy confirmed suffocation. This was apparently a bridge too far for officials in Belgium, one of the most popular one-way tourist destinations for euthanasia. Smith said, “The use of medications and the doctor’s presence is just a veneer that hides the harsh truth of what is being done. [It’s] solely about making the patient dead.” The pillow worked. The family’s suing. Their attorney said they want to ensure “that sick rooms do not turn into crime scenes.”

Program Name: Life Issues

Issue: Euthanizing Children

Time Aired: 12:30 PM, 5:25 PM

Duration: :60

Description: It's a disturbing situation of history repeating. The horrific memories of the holocaust should still be present in the minds of Europeans, yet they're advancing the cause of euthanasia in ways eerily similar to the path followed by Hitler. The Netherlands announced they'll soon begin to euthanize children under the age of twelve to, "end the child's hopeless and unbearable suffering." Their definition of hopeless and unbearable should send chills up the spines of Holland's citizens. The new protocol also allows euthanasia for newborns who may experience "possible future suffering." Each case of euthanizing children will only be reviewed after the child's death. Here's another appalling reality. Hundreds of citizens were euthanized because they suffered from dementia.
