Program Name: Life Issues

Issue: Satanic Abortion Center

Time Aired: 12:30 PM, 5:25 PM

Duration: :60

Description: The Satanic Temple is opening an abortion facility in New Mexico. They're giving away free chemical abortion consultations by video, itself an unsafe protocol for women. These mothers will have to pay for the pills at a pharmacy that peddles them. The satanists are doing this as an "abortion ritual" and naming the center "The Samuel Alito's Mom's Satanic Abortion Clinic." This is meant to mock Supreme Court Justice Alito who wrote the opinion overturning Roe. The real motive is to further pursue their so-far failed strategy claiming abortion's a religious sacrament, protected under the First Amendment. This underscores the spiritual warfare we face in the pro-life movement. Please pray for all of us working to save unborn babies and protecting their parents. We need your prayers every day.

Program Name: The Point

Issue: Abortion, Down Syndrome

Time Aired: 12:45 PM

Duration: :60

Description:

As best defined, the pro-life movement aims to make abortion not merely illegal but unthinkable, swept into the dustbin of history along with legalized slavery, child sacrifice, and other evils. This means learning to see differently those often considered burdens.

Back in 2017, Special Olympian Frank Stephens testified before Congress: "I am a man with Down Syndrome, and my life is worth living."

In the U.S., babies born with Down Syndrome are aborted 85% of the time. Yet according to a 2011 study, which Frank cited in his testimony, children with Down Syndrome, as well as their friends and family members, rank significantly higher on levels of happiness and personal fulfillment.

Advocates of abortion claim to limit suffering by killing the sufferers. Every premise of that idea is wrong.

As Frank said elsewhere, "I want to fix the fact that sometimes people don't always look at us with love. ... When you fully get to know us, that's when you can fully learn to love us."

Well said, Frank.

Program Name: Life Issues

Issue: Education, Unions

Time Aired: 12:30 PM, 5:25 PM

Description: Teachers are being schooled in Washington state's largest school district. They're looking at closing schools and laying off teachers because of dropping enrollment. Things are even worse in Portland. Less students, less funding. We shouldn't be surprised. Teachers' unions have long and aggressively promoted abortion on demand until birth. Somehow they haven't connected more aborted babies with less demand for their services. But it's more than that. Parents are fed up with extreme political agendas of wayward teachers, boys in girls' locker rooms, excluding parents in decisions, and unnecessary school closings with the pandemic. Parents have alternatives. Many are reconnecting with their children through home schooling. Others choose private schools with biblical values. The exodus has only just begun.

Program Name: The Point

Issue: Church, Community, relationships

Time Aired: 12:30 PM

Duration: :60

Description:

Recently, David Leonhardt of The New York Times described an often overlooked factor in upward social mobility. Among other factors such as good healthcare, schools, and parents who stay married, kids from lower-income households tend to do better if they have friends, family, or community members from diverse economic backgrounds.

How do those relationships form? After suggesting subsidized housing, more diverse K-12 schools, and access to public parks, Leonhardt arrives at, wait for it, the church.

Although many churches are socioeconomically homogeneous, those with some diversity tend to foster more cross-class interactions than most other social activities. Churches[sic] have lower levels of what the researchers call socioeconomic “friending bias.”

Churchgoers tend to be more willing to associate with people outside of their immediate economic bracket. Because of this, and other reasons, the Church is one of the best drivers of human flourishing that God created. As Chuck Colson said, the world needs the Church to be the Church.

Program Name: Life Issues

Issue: Abortion, Tax Dollars

Time Aired: 12:30 PM, 5:25 PM

Duration: :60

Description: The Biden administration is attempting to throw a one-two-punch against America's unborn babies and their mothers. First, Defense Secretary Lloyd Austin is directing the Department of Defense to pay for soldiers elective abortions. Our tax dollars would fund abortions up to five months during pregnancy and likely kill over 4,000 babies a year. Second, the administration is working quietly to twist the meaning of the medical privacy law called HIPPA. They want to add a restriction that women who have abortions are covered by HIPPA protection, even in states defending the unborn. This could frighten doctors from cooperating with police who want to prosecute the abortionist, not the woman. As long as he is in office, President Biden will do all within his power to kill America's unborn babies.

Program Name: The Point

Issue: Euthanasia, Medical Aid in dying

Time Aired: 12:45 PM

Duration: :60

Description: Since so-called Medical Aid in Dying was legalized in Canada, those with severe medical conditions have been increasingly in danger. Care is becoming harder to find, while the option to die is quick, cheap, and always available.

One woman recently told her story on Twitter,

I am the face of [assisted-death] in Canada. As a 42-year-old woman with a rare complication of lupus [and] iatrogenic injuries, I will only cost the "system". I want to live but can't get the care I need [and] have been approved for MAiD.

This is what opponents of MAiD warned of all along. The so-called "right" to die with dignity quickly becomes a "duty" to die, as vulnerable people are crushed beneath economic, social, and medical pressures.

Description: Legal abortion is dangerous abortion. A Florida abortion facility is paying thousands in fines for failing to follow the state's informed consent law. An initial inspection by the Florida Agency for Health Care Administration found seven violations of the law. So, upon further investigation it found dozens more. Informed women are less likely to choose abortion, so the center flagrantly violated the informed consent law. A Pensacola abortion center nearly killed three women, maiming them so badly they required life-saving surgery that left one woman requiring resuscitation, another without parts of her colon and yet another without her fertility. A late-term abortion center in New Mexico has already maimed four women in the first two months of the year. Legal abortion hurts women.

Program Name: The Point

Issue: Pro Choice, Prolife, Meidical Issues

Time Aired: 12:45 PM

Description:

The ideological takeover of American medical institutions continues. Last month, pro-life doctors were banned from setting up an exhibit at an annual medical education conference hosted by the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists (ACOG). The pro-life group, American Association of Pro-Life OB-GYNs (AAPLOG), was notified of the ban just days before the conference began.

ACOG denies that unborn children can feel pain prior to 24-25 weeks and claims that using terms like “baby” and “unborn child” wrongly “center(s) the language on a future state of a pregnancy,” as if there isn’t a baby in a womb throughout a pregnancy. Oh, they also reject the word “womb” since it could be used to “apply emotional value.”

Ironically, the theme of their conference this year was “Building Bridges.” Instead, they chose to silence critics.

ACOG’s exclusion of pro-life professionals is an example of Romans 1: those who “by their unrighteousness suppress the truth.”

Late last month, 18-year-old Chloe Cole sued medical provider Kaiser Permanente for surgically and chemically altering her body. Put on puberty blockers at age 12, Chloe started testosterone at 13 and underwent a double mastectomy at 15. By 16, Chloe realized the mistake she'd made and has now "detransitioned."

No one warned her to pause, reconsider, or take more time.

Chloe is one of countless girls today pressured by doctors, teachers, peers, and media to believe they were born into the wrong body. As Jordan Peterson noted in his interview with Cole, 80 to 90% of teens who experience gender dysphoria naturally grow out of it. Instead of helping girls navigate puberty and its challenges, many seek to pathologize it.

Chloe's story reaffirms that any ideas we have about our bodies will have consequences. Bad ideas will have victims, like Chloe. Let's pray that her story can help to expose the lie of so-called "gender-affirming care" and bring an end to this cultural nightmare.

One of the many misconceptions is people with Down syndrome can't have children. Jad not only fell in love and married, he also became a parent to Sader, who did not have the condition. Jad began saving money for college and gave Sader everything a loving and nurturing dad could give. Sader went on to become a dentist, and Jad couldn't be prouder. This dad, who enjoys much respect and notoriety in his community, loves to tell others, "My son is a doctor." But Jad isn't the only proud member of the family. Doctor Sader says he feels the same amount of pride for his dad. Please visit lifeissues.org for more information.

Description:

A Christian school in the Northeast has paid the price for standing by its convictions. When faced with the prospect of having its girls' basketball team play another school with a trans-identifying player, the Mid Vermont Christian School chose to forfeit. But it was not enough for authorities for the team to just take the loss. The entire school has now been banned from playing in any Vermont sporting event.

There are at least two lessons for the rest of us in this. First, we need to count the cost ahead of time if we are committed to "live not by lies." Doing so will inevitably mean losing favor and opportunities. This school apparently had what many of us need: a "theology of getting fired." Second, there is no way to reconcile Christian faithfulness—of loving God and our neighbor—with the new sexual orthodoxy.

The only way to combat lies is to speak and live what is true.

Description: I expect we're going to see more of this as America comes to terms with the human carnage inflicted by abortion. Arkansas Governor Sarah Huckabee Sanders signed a bill allowing a pro-life monument to be built on the grounds of the Arkansas State Capitol. It will commemorate the lives of Arkansas' unborn children lost to abortion. The bill establishes a trust fund so private donors can contribute toward the monument. No tax dollars will be used. It's an important location, so legislators will be reminded of the lives they were unable to protect while standing as a reminder this history should never be repeated. I sincerely hope other states will follow Arkansas' lead. America needs these poignant reminders of the huge price our nation has paid because of abortion
