Date: 4/3/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Family Talk
Issue: Women and the Draft
Time Aired: 1:00 PM
Duration: 27:00
Description: An alarming threat is looming over women in America. A decades-old fight may be lost, not only requiring women to go into direct combat to kill or be killed in some of the worst conditions on the planet, but also force women into draft registration. Dr. Dobson highlights the under-exposed danger in the details that are facing America's daughters.

Date: 4/4/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Breakpoint
Issue: Truth and the Transgender Movement
Time Aired: 10:25 AM
Duration: 3:59
Description: Two covers of the TIME magazine from 1966 and 2017 reflect the fact that our world is a living demonstration of the fact that no accurate understanding of reality can prevail when God is thought of as irrelevant. In 1966 the bold red letters asked, "Is God Dead?" This year they read, "Is Truth Dead?" Michael Schere in the latest article takes aim at President Trump and what is known as his "tenuous relationship with reality." John Stonestreet finds it ironic that journalism turns a blind eye to the fact that gender identity these days also has this "tenuous relationship with reality" as National Geographic featured a story of a nine-year-old boy with dyed pink hair and leopard print tights declaring, "The best thing about being a girl is that I don't have to pretend to be a boy."

Date: 4/4/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: The Point

Issue: Religious Persecution

Time Aired: 12:45 PM

Duration: :60

Description: Pastor Andrew Brunson was called in for a "routine visa check" after a failed coup attempt in Turkey. Instead, he was arrested. John Stonestreet calls listeners to contact the presiden, congressional representatives and senators on behalf of this pastor who is a U.S. citizen and who peacefully served the people of Turkey for more than 23 years with no issues with that government.

Date: 4/4/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Family Life Today

Issue: Marriage

Time Aired: 7:30 PM

Duration: 30:00

Description: What is the underlying reason for controlling behavior? Ron Welch describes the psychological profiles of a controlling husband and his wife.

Date: 4/5/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Breakpoint

Issue: Parenting

Time Aired: 10:25 AM

Duration: 3:59

Description: Quoting a recent book by Robert Putnam, Eric Metaxas begins by saying churchgoing kids "are less prone to substance abuse (drugs, alcohol, and smoking), risky behavior (like not wearing seat belts), and delinquency (shoplifting, misbehaving in school, and being suspended or expelled)." This is regardless of socioeconomic status. But. Metaxas states, "The problem is that regular church attendance is increasingly tied to socioeconomic status." The good news is that the Church knows how to reach out to the least, the last and the lost. He ends by saying followers of Christ need to freely give these disadvantaged kids what we have freely received.

Date: 4/5/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: The Point

Issue: Parenting

Time Aired: 12:45 PM

Duration: :60

Description: In the past, advocates of no-fault divorce would chirp, "Kids don't need married parents: they need happy parents." Well, in the wake of same-sex marriage, the new phrase is, "kids don't need a mom and a dad; they just need loving parents." But study after study after study demonstrates that's simply not true. Kids fare better when biological dad is at home. John Stonestreet believes deliberately re-engineering the family is morally and scientifically inexcusable and a bad idea with victims.

Date: 4/5/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Focus on the Family

Issue: Parenting

Time Aired: 7:00 AM; 7:00 PM

Duration: 30:00

Description: Discipling children is hard work! Listeners hear practical ways to convey God's love, even in the midst of misbehavior as well as four essential messages kids need to hear from their parents. Tips for how to become a calmer parent and how to make the most of teachable moments are shared.

Date: 4/5/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Family Talk

Issue: Depression

Time Aired: 1:00 PM

Duration: 27:00

Description: Author and pastor Tommy Nelson describes the scenario of feeling overwhelmed by endless tasks and a pattern of working too hard that led him down the path to depression. He shares what listeners can do to bring balance to their lives.

Date: 4/6/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Breakpoint

Issue: LGBT Rights

Time Aired: 10:25 AM

Duration: 3:59

Description: On Tuesday, the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which bars discrimination in employment on the basis of "race, color, religion, sex, or national origin," now covers alleged discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation. Though Title VII does not mention "sexual orientation," an earlier ruling in 1989 used the term stereotype, in a case involving a female employee allegedly denied a promotion because she wasn't "feminine enough." This opened the door to LGBT activists who used the term "sex stereotyping" to try to amend Title VII via the courts. But there is a problem. If Congress had intended to define sexual orientation as a protected class under the law, it could have amended Title VII at any time. But it hasn't. Three weeks ago the Eleventh Circuit came to the opposite conclusion of the Seventh Circuit so the issue is headed to the Supreme Court.

Date: 4/6/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Family Life Today

Issue: Parenting

Time Aired: 7:30 PM

Duration: 30:00

Description: Dennis and Barbara Rainey, the parents of six grown children ask the question, "Is your teen prepared for adulthood?" They identify four key areas of a child's life that parents must strive to develop before launching them into the big, wide world.

Date: 4/6/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Focus on the Family

Issue: Marriage and Faith

Time Aired: 7:00 AM; 7:00 PM

Duration: 30:00

Description: Lee Strobel's wife became a Christian, but he remained an atheist. He tells about his "spiritually mismatched marriage" and how their relationship survived.

Date: 4/7/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Breakpoint

Issue: Sanctity of Human Life

Time Aired: 10:25 AM

Duration: 3:59

Description: Amy Julia Becker states that the abortion rate in the United States for babies with Down syndrome, also known as trisomy 21, is about 50 percent and is likely to increase as prenatal testing becomes more available. As bad as that is, in Iceland, not one child with Down syndrome was born between 2008 and 2012. In Denmark, an estimated 98 percent of those diagnosed with Down syndrome are being aborted--deemed useless. Anyone who's actually been around people with Down syndrome knows, they're definitely not useless. They have individual personalities, likes and dislikes, and often possess a level of joie de vivre that puts the rest of us to shame. But, as Eric Metaxas put it, "the point is every human being is created in God's image and is precious to Him!" And that's what gives someone worth!

Date: 4/7/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: The Point

Issue: Transgender Surgery

Time Aired: 12:45 pm

Duration: :60

Description: Dr. Walter Freeman was a neurologist who, during the 1940s, convinced much of the medical community that using an ice pick to scramble the frontal lobe of the brain was a treatment for mental illness. He won praise from national newspapers like the New York Times, and the inventor of the procedure won the Nobel Prize. In a chilling piece at The Federalist, Renee Gardner shows the similarities between that lobotomy craze and the modern transgender one. Both lobotomies and gender reassignment surgery are irreversible acts promoted through desperation. Advocates for both point to suicide rates, and rush to surgically treat what are psychological problems. Both both lobotomies and gender reassignment surgery are irreversible acts promoted through desperation. Advocates for both point to suicide rates, and rush to surgically treat what are psychological problems. Both are also based on unproven theories, and often hurt the patient more than they help. Most frightening, both have been applied to children.

Date: 4/8/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Breakpoint This Week

Issue: Civil Rights for Homosexuals

Time Aired: 12:00 PM

Duration: 25:00

Description: Today hosts discuss a recent ruling by the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals that applied Title VII of the Civil Rights Act to a lesbian woman, making it illegal to consider sexual orientation in hiring and firing.

Date: 4/8/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: The Public Square
Issue: Health Care Reform and SCOTUS Confirmation
Time Aired: 5:00 AM
Duration: 60:00
Description: Listeners hear the recent news on health care reform and the nomination of Judge Neil Gorsuch.

Date: 4/8/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Washington Watch Weekend
Issue: Tyrannical Governments
Time Aired: 12:30 PM
Duration: 30:00
Description: President and founding member of the Army's elite Delta Force, Lt. Gen. (Ret.) Jerry Boykin, joins Tony Perkins with the latest news related to North Korea's long-range missile capabilities. Former Minnesota Congresswoman, Michele Bachmann, joins Tony to discuss a recent chemical attack allegedly perpetrated by the Syrian government against its own people.

Date: 4/10/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: The Point
Issue: Freedom of Religion/Speech
Time Aired: 12:45 PM
Duration: :60
Description: Writing in the Christian Post, Michael Brown explains how video sharing site Vimeo recently disabled the account of an ex-gay ministry called Pure Passion, which had over 800 videos. A Vimeo spokesperson told the Pure Passion director, who himself left that lifestyle for Christ--that his videos weren't OK, because they referred to homosexuality as "brokenness." Vimeo also objected to his statement that "God can transform the life of anyone caught in homosexual confusion." This is interesting as so many cheered when Christian bakers, florists and photographers were put out of business for "not sending messages that they deemed inappropriate.

Date: 4/10/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Family Life Today
Issue: Finances
Time Aired: 7:30 PM
Duration: 30:00
Description: Brad Hewitt, CEO of Thrivent Financial, challenges listeners to adopt a new money mindset in which God owns it all and we are merely stewards of His money.

Date: 4/10/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Focus on the Family
Issue: Stewardship
Time Aired: 7:00 AM; 7:00 PM
Duration: 30:00

Duration: 27:00
Description: Eben Fowler talks with Dr. James Dobson about steps to safeguarding your relationship with your spouse and also takes calls from listeners with hard questions and insightful stories.

Date: 4/11/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Breakpoint
Issue: Atheism and Evolution
Time Aired: 10:25 AM
Duration: 3:59
Description: John Stonestreet admires the work of BBC's "Planet Earth II" but finds this "feast for the senses" to be "strikingly dissonant." He says, "In the face of so much majesty and order that cries out in testament to a Designer, modern man offers only empty personification, as if creation created itself."

Date: 4/11/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Family Life Today
Issue: Consumerism
Time Aired: 7:30 PM
Duration: 30:00
Description: Brad Hewitt, CEO of Thrivent Financial, tells how consumerism thwarts one's walk with God. He reminds listeners that it isn't how much they have, but what their heart longs for that determines whether they will be content.

Date: 4/12/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Family Talk
Issue: Pornography
Time Aired: 1:00 PM
Duration: 27:00
Description: Pornography is a social toxin that destroys relationships, steals innocence, erodes compassion, breeds violence, and kills love. The issue of pornography is ground zero for all those concerned for the sexual health and well-being of our loved ones, communities, and society as a whole. Listeners hear where this public health crisis is taking America, but also the substantial progress of the hope that is taking back our nation's hearts and minds.

Date: 4/12/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Breakpoint
Issue: Euthanasia
Time Aired: 10:25 AM
Duration: 3:59
Description: Bills to legalize euthanasia "have done very poorly" in 2017, Rita Marker, executive director of the Patients Rights Council, told Baptist Press. "That has been a shock to those who are in favor of it because they thought that all of [a] sudden the dam had burst and everything would happen for them." Other states that have not buckled are Indiana, Mississippi, New Mexico, Tennessee, Hawaii, Maryland, Utah and Wyoming, although it's always possible the bills could be brought back. Eric Metaxas warns listeners that apathy is deadly and fellow Americans need to be educated about the beauty and dignity of life.

Date: 4/12/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: The Point
Issue: Cohabitation vs Marriage
Time Aired: 12:45 PM
Duration: :60
Description: John Stonestreet quotes new research by Brad Wilcox of the University of Virginia comparing cohabitation with marriage and which debunks major myths about cohabitation. He concludes by saying, "In marriage, couples publicly commit to life together. . . Cohabitation, however says to partners and children, "I'm not sure about you."

Date: 4/12/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Focus on the Family

Issue: Marriage and Life's Tragedies

Time Aired: 7:00 AM; 7:00 PM

Duration: 30:00

Description: Laura Story and her husband, Martin, share how a brain tumor shattered their hope and dreams of a perfect life, but also how God is using their situation to inspire others.

Date: 4/13/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Family Talk

Issue: Parenting

Time Aired: 1:00 PM

Duration: 27:00

Description: Raising kids is tough enough, but disciplining them and rearing them to be Godly men and women is even more of a challenge. Listeners hear practical steps about how to be intentional with their children and make the most of every moment by being real, Godly examples for young hearts.

Duration: 30:00

Description: Susan Yates, author of the book, "Risky Faith," talks about making a conscious choice to trust God each moment of the day. Yates, a mother of five grown children, remembers her first Christmas as an empty-nester and the lesson God taught her.

Date: 4/14/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: The Public Square

Issue: Immortality

Time Aired: 5:00 AM

Duration: 60:00

Description: It's Easter week--a celebration of the events that forever answer the question of true love on Earth. Yet, here in America, a group of famous Hollywood stars and Silicon Valley moguls are conspiring on how to live forever, here on earth. Listeners hear the conspiracy uncovered.

Date: 4/15/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Breakpoint This Week

Issue: Tension With Russia Over Syria

Time Aired: 12:00 PM

Duration: 25:00

Description: With rising tensions between Russia and the United States over the events in Syria and the contentious confirmation of a new Supreme Court justice here at home, it's easy to get distracted from the commemoration of what Jesus accomplished in His death, burial, and resurrection. Hosts review the major news of the last few days from a Christian perspective, but remind listeners that the greatest news is over two thousand years old: Jesus took the suffering and sin of this world onto His shoulders and triumphed over Satan, Hell, and the grave.

Date: 4/15/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Washington Watch Weekend

Issue: Religious Persecution and International Threats

Time Aired: 12:30 PM

Date: 4/18/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Breakpoint
Issue: Criminal Justice Reform
Time Aired: 10:25 AM
Duration: 3:59
Description: Approximately 2.3 million Americans are behind bars, more than any other nation in the world. With 5% of the world's population, the U.S. has nearly 25% of the world's prisoners. And many of these prisoners continue to be harshly punished after paying their "debt to society". Some of the continuing consequences include inability to vote, volunteer in the community, secure housing, and admission to institutions of higher education not to mention inability to secure employment. Prison Fellowship and a coalition of more than 60 Christian and secular organizations have declared April 2017 to be "Second Chance Month." The goal is "to remove unnecessary legal and societal barriers that prevent individuals with a criminal record from becoming productive members of society."

Date: 4/18/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Family Life Today
Issue: Parenting Teens
Time Aired: 7:30 PM
Duration: 30:00
Description: Even parents who do everything right to bring their kids up to have a strong faith have no guarantee it will "stick." Dennis Rainey tackles the tough topic of raising teens.

Date: 4/18/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Focus on the Family
Issue: Violent Sexual Crime
Time Aired: 7:00 AM; 7:00 PM
Duration: 30:00
Description: Two women share honestly about their worst nightmare--being raped--and their long recovery from fear, depression, and feeling unworthy. Listeners hear how God intervened in their lives, providing healing and hope for the future.

Date: 4/18/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Family Talk
Issue: Building A Family Legacy
Time Aired: 1:00 PM
Duration: 27:00
Description: Dr. James Dobson, his son Ryan Dobson, and Warren Cole Smith discuss the Building A Family Legacy film series and the impact it can have upon families.

Date: 4/19/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Breakpoint

Issue: Ethics

Time Aired: 10:25 AM

Duration: 3:59

Description: John Stonestreet speaks against an alarming trend amongst people such as Princeton Professor Peter Singer, who espouse "the greatest good for the greatest number," which is the basic premise behind the ethical theory called "utilitarianism", Mr. Singer feels that the justice system was too harsh on Anna Stubblefield, who was sentenced to 12 years in prison after she was convicted of aggravated sexual assault against a 30 year old man with cerebral palsy who has never spoken in his life. Peter singer and others who align to these theories "go on to claim that D.J. probably enjoyed the experience, so it wasn't that monstrous of a crime. In other words, because those with profound disabilities can't fully comprehend what's happening, assaulting them isn't the same as assaulting a person in possession of full mental faculties." Mr. Stonestreet profoundly states, "Ideas have consequences; bad ideas have victims."

Date: 4/19/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Family Talk

Issue: Marriage and Women

Time Aired: 1:00 PM

Duration: 27:00

Description: Keeping the initial interest and spark in a marriage can be difficult to do, but what is the mysterious "it" factor that everyone seems to be wanting? Dr. James Dobson explores the need for wives to maintain "feminine mystique" in marriage. He believes they can learn to develop a gentle and quiet spirit in the midst of everyday demands.

Date: 4/19/2017 Station: FM

Description: Adoptive parents, Paul and Robin Pennington, who have adopted five children, talk about the hard realities of adoption.

Date: 4/19/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Focus on the Family

Issue: Sanctity of Life

Time Aired: 7:00 AM; 7:00 PM

Duration: 30:00

Description: Brandon and Brittany Buell share their son Jaxon's powerful story about defying the odds, after many challenges, including being misdiagnosed medically a number of times. It's a compelling message about the immeasurable value of life.

Date: 4/20/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Breakpoint

Issue: Moral Relativism

Time Aired: 10:25 AM

Duration: 3:59

Description: Eric Metaxas finds it ironic that in a society that lives as if no one will hold them accountable and there is no one to define the difference between good and evil or truth and falsehood, people still feel burdened with guilt. Metaxas quotes columnist, David Brooks, in his New York Times article entitled, "The Strange Persistence of Guilt." He states our world has been left with "no clear framework or set of rituals to guide us in our quest for goodness. Worse, people have a sense of guilt and sin, but no longer a sense that they live in a loving universe marked by divine mercy, grace and forgiveness. There is sin but no formula for redemption." Metaxas ends by saying people need an introduction to "the Good Shepherd who has already shown how far He will go to love and forgive them."

Date: 4/20/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Family Life Today

Issue: Adoption

Time Aired: 7:30 PM

Duration: 30:00

Description: Paul and Robin Pennington, co-founders of Hope for Orphans, joined by Dr. Mary Bennett, a counselor and play therapist, talk about the needs of orphans in Haiti and the difficulties adoptive parents may have after bringing traumatized children into their home.

Date: 4/20/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Focus on the Family

Issue: Grandparenting

Time Aired: 7:00 AM; 7:00 PM

Duration: 30:00

Description: Carey Casey shares about the critical importance of grandfathers in the lives of their grandkids. He addresses how to bridge the relational gap between the generations and how to model integrity to grandchildren which will leave a lasting, godly legacy.

Date: 4/20/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Family Talk

Issue: Women's Issues

Time Aired: 1:00 PM

Duration: 27:00

Description: Sometimes women are looked down upon for standing up for their beliefs, but just like Queen Esther, standing up for your people can make a lifesaving difference. Listeners hear how they can take a firm and unwavering stand for biblical principles, while still being an advocate for the rights of women.

Date: 4/21/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: Family Life Today

Issue: Adoption

Time Aired: 7:30 PM

Duration: 30:00

Description: The challenges of the orphan crisis are many and varied, and every Christian man needs to step up and play a part in the solution. Rick Warren, Dennis Rainey, and Jedd Medefind discuss the problem and offer solutions from their own life examples.

Date: 4/21/2017 Station: FM

Program Name: The Point

Issue: Church Growth

Time Aired: 12:45 PM

Duration: :60

Description: The latest surveys reveal that churches that are growing in number are ones with "theologically conservative beliefs" and churches whose clergy "say it's important for non-Christians to become Christians." Also, 71% of those in growing churches read their Bibles daily, while just 19% in shrinking churches do. John Stonestreet concludes by saying, "It's no surprise. If you don't preach Christianity as the true story of reality, people will just stay in bed on Sunday."

Date: 4/21/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: The Public Square
Issue: World War I History
Time Aired: 5:00 AM
Duration: 60:00
Description: The story is told of a young man from Canada who left his home and family to serve in the Great War. The story is told by his surviving son, American author and businessman John D. Beckett in his book, "The War Letters."

Date: 4/22/2017 Station: FM

Time Aired: 1:29 PM
Duration: 28:00
Description: Marriage was intended to be a lifetime covenant. Guests Gary Thomas, Laura Story, and Voddi Baucham inspire and encourage listeners in their marriage commitments.

Date: 4/22/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Washington Watch Weekend
Issue: Government Funding of Religious Institutions
Time Aired: 12:30 PM
Duration: 30:00
Description: ADF's Vice President of U.S. Litigation, David Cortman, joins Tony Perkins to discuss Wednesday's oral argument in the Trinity Lutheran v. Comer case at the U.S. Supreme Court.

Date: 4/22/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Breakpoint This Week
Issue: Worldviews
Time Aired: 12:00 PM
Duration: 25:00
Description: The past week marked the fifth anniversary of the passing of Chuck Colson. John Stonestreet and Ed Stetzer reflect on his legacy as a minister to prisoners and a teacher of worldview. They say the last concept is particularly important right now. The very idea of Christian worldview is under attack in the New York Times by a scholar who calls it a refuge for alternative religious realities that insulate believers from the facts. And with another challenge before the Supreme Court about the place of churches in society, it's more important than ever that listeners understand what Chuck Colson and other worldview thinkers taught: that everyone approaches life with a set of beliefs. No one is on truly neutral ground.

Date: 4/24/2017

Station: FM

Program Name: The Point

Issue: Truth and Relativity

Time Aired: 12:45 pm

Duration: :60

Description: Are all religions basically the same? John Stonestreet remembers the Eastern story about six blind men who encounter an elephant. They each perceive a different theory about what an elephant is like by the part of the animal they touch. Though the moral of the story is meant to teach that everyone is right, Stonestreet points out that in reality, everyone is wrong because, as Trevin Wax at the Gospel Coalition points out, the parable is a contradiction because it assumes that the one telling the parable sees the whole elephant. In the same way, we can not all be right about conflicting views about God.

Date: 4/24/2017

Station: FM

Program Name: Family Talk

Issue: Working from Home

Time Aired: 1:00 PM

Duration: 27:00

Description: Carrie Wilkerson, the "Barefoot Executive," tells about the rewarding, hard work it takes to be a stay-at-home entrepreneur. She shares how it's possible to maximize profit and productivity, while still keeping a family's priorities intact

Date: 4/24/2017

Station: FM

Program Name: Breakpoint

Issue: Worldview

Time Aired: 10:25 AM

Duration: 3:59

Description: What Francis Schaeffer and Chuck Colson once called "a post-Christian" culture has become a "post-Christian-and-darn-proud-of-it" culture. Christians are still called to share their faith in these difficult days. John Stonestreet quotes Chuck Colson's words as he encourages believers to know more than just the Bible. Colson said, "we need to understand the issue and how to make that case in a way that is accessible to believers and non-believers alike." He cited Paul's sermon at Mars Hill which was his first foray into Greek culture. "He quoted Greek poets; he referred to Greek artifacts. He thoroughly engaged their culture. And then he used their beliefs to lead directly into the gospel." Stonestreet invites listeners to consider the nine-month training program now known as Colson Fellows, which is a great way for Christians to receive training to interact with the world around them

Date: 4/24/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Focus on the Family
Issue: Handling Emotions
Time Aired: 7:00 AM; 7:00 PM
Duration: 30:00
Description: In the busyness of every day life, it's easy to wind up yelling at the kids, snapping at the spouse and letting emotions derail everything! No one has to be a slave to raw emotions though. Listeners will hear how to stop reacting and learn to handle their emotions in a way that's healthy for them AND their family.

Date: 4/24/2017 Station: FM
Program Name: Family Life Today
Issue: Parenting

Program Name: Breakpoint
Issue: Science and Progressive Ideology
Time Aired: 10:25 AM
Duration: 3:59
Description: Eric Metaxas expresses concern that a critical word in our vocabulary is losing its meaning. "There was a time when 'science' meant the systematic pursuit of knowledge through experimentation and observation. But it's rapidly becoming a synonym for progressive politics and materialist philosophy. To be labeled a 'science-denier' in 2017 often just means you've upset someone who insists on teaching strict, Darwinian orthodoxy in schools, or who advocates particular climate legislation, or who supports ethically fraught research on embryos." Metaxas reminds listeners that language is powerful, words matter, and science is too important a word to lose its meaning.

Issue: Abortion
Time Aired: 10:25 AM
Duration: 3:59
Description: A distorted view of human beings always goes hand-in-hand with a distorted view of God. John Stonestreet comments on a new book by self-proclaimed "born-again" Christian, Willie Parker titled, "Life's Work: A Moral Argument for Choice." Parker, an OBGYN, has performed countless abortions. He describes working a circuit of Planned Parenthood clinics in the South, performing abortions "over and over, like the athlete who goes to the gym after practice to shoot three-pointers." He attempts to justify his philosophy by twisting the quotes of C.S. Lewis and even Jesus Himself. And as Stonestreet points out, "To embrace abortion requires rejecting what God has revealed about both Himself and about humanity."

Program Name: Breakpoint

Issue: Religious Liberty

Time Aired: 10:25 AM

Duration: 3:59

Description: We understand the government cannot "establish religion." But can it discriminate against it? Trinity Lutheran Church of Columbia, Missouri, operates a licensed pre school and day-care facility. Because of the material used on the ground, it has the potential for injury and lawsuits. The state of Missouri has a program which provides "funds for qualifying organizations to purchase recycled tires to resurface playgrounds." It seemed they had easily met qualifications until they were told that this would violate a provision in Missouri's state constitution that "no money shall ever be taken from the public treasury, directly or indirectly, in aid of any church, section or denomination of religion." The church sued the state government and the case is now before the Supreme Court. The question was posed as to how "extreme" amendments such as the one in Missouri are. Justice Breyer asked the lawyer defending the law if, under the constitution, a city could deny fire and police to places of worship while providing it for everyone else. The reply was a hedged semi-"yes." As Stonestreet points out, laws such as these could do more damage to religious freedom than just "skinned knees."

Issue: Transgenderism

Time Aired: 12:45 PM

Duration: :60

Description: In an article in the New York Times entitled, "My Daughter Is Not Transgender. She's a Tomboy," Lisa Davis writes that because her seven-year-old daughter keeps her hair short, likes "Star Wars," wears t-shirts, and plays sports, teachers, doctors, and fellow parents continually ask if she's transgendered. She always corrects people by saying, "She's a girl, really." John Stonestreet is amazed that society is conscripting children into its own sexual politics. Unfortunately this mom still "pays lip service to the LGBT movement, ready to give her daughter hormone injections if she changes her mind!"

Program Name: The Point

Issue: Evangelical Standards on Sexual Immorality

Time Aired: 12:45 PM

Duration: :60

Description: John Stonestreet gives alarming statistics presented by Joe Carter about the standards amongst evangelicals when it comes to adultery. "According to the study, just 31 percent of evangelicals thought watching pornography constituted 'cheating on your partner.' A mere seventy-seven percent thought a one-night stand was 'cheating.' And only 82 percent of self-identified evangelicals said regular sexual relations with another partner is 'cheating.'" Stonestreet reminds listeners that Jesus said, "lustful looking at someone else was already adultery." Those who bear the name of Christ should share His standards of holiness.

Description: According to the Pew Research Center, and reported by Christianity Today, between the years 2030 and 2035, for the first time in history, the total number of babies born to Christian mothers will be fewer than those born to Muslim mothers. John Stonestreet shares some of the ramifications of that statistic and encourages Christians to respond to the predicted Muslim baby boom. Lastly, he strongly suggests that they participate in the 30 Days of Prayer for the Muslim World which occurs each year during Ramadan and directs them to where they can find the prayer guide.

Issue: Evolution
Time Aired: 12:45 PM
Duration: :60
Description: Dennis Venema in the book he co-authored, "Adam and the Genome," makes the argument that the fossil record supports Darwinism precisely because Darwinism offers testable hypotheses, while design doesn't. But as Cornelius Hunter points out, this is a philosophical argument for the necessity of Darwinism, which itself isn't testable! It also relies on dismissing all the instances, like the Cambrian explosion, in which the fossil record defies Darwin. So in other words, evolution is mandated by evidence to which it's immune! John Stonestreet concludes that this is philosophy, and not very good philosophy, at that. In fact, it's not science.

Program Name: Breakpoint

Issue: Christianity in Europe

Time Aired: 10:25 AM

Duration: 3:59

Description: Eric Metaxas shares some interesting facts about a new trend that hints of change in the air in relation to European interest in Christianity. In a column in the U.K.'s Telegraph newspaper, Nick Spencer notes that one of the "most striking trends of the last generation or so is how many Christian politicians have risen to the top of the political tree." Metaxas also points to France in an even more surprising phenomenon which is occurring in the Catholic church. Churches are seeing packed services for Mass amongst "young families and children most of the time." This is according to Pascal-Emmanuel Gobry in the Jesuit magazine, "America." Admittedly, Europe has a long way to go, but Metaxas wonders if it could be the "cloud as small as a man's hand . . . Rising from the sea" Elijah's servant saw in 1 Kings 18. Europe is a thirsty land, and Metaxas encourages listeners to pray that God sends "much-needed rain to both sides of the Atlantic."

Time Aired: 10:25

Duration: 3:59

Description: Some college students at Pittsburgh's Duquesne University protested in March when the Catholic school announced that Chick-fil-A would be opening a store in the main food court. They claimed this would put their "safe place . . . at risk." Eric Metaxas encourages listeners to emulate Chick-fil-A president and COO who reached out to Shane Windmeyer, executive director of Campus Pride, and organization for LGBT college students, and built a sincere friendship. He concludes by saying, "Let's face it, folks, convincing people who've fallen for the new sexual propaganda that we're not out to scare or marginalize them won't be easy. Through long years of indoctrination in academia and popular culture, their minds have been closed to a Christian worldview. Sadly, they really do think we have horns and tails. Issue: Freedom of Speech and Opinion

Time Aired: 10:25 AM

Duration: 3:59

Description: The reaction of New York Times readers to an article by its newest columnist, Bret Stephens, shows how fragile their worldview is. Stephens went out on a limb by quoting a former Times environmental reporter who recently wrote that he "saw a widening gap between what scientists had been learning about global warming and what advocates were claiming as they pushed ever harder to pass climate legislation." John Stonestreet comments, "It is literally true: climate change projections are mathematical models whose possible outcomes are expressed as probabilities." Readers objected violently, storming social media and starting a campaign to cancel subscriptions to the Times because of the column. Stonestreet points to recent the "increasingly illiberal environment on so many college campuses where students, instead of debating with those whose views they disagree with, seek to silence them instead," as a dangerous mindset in which ". . . heretics must be silenced, and even, when possible, punished for their dissent."

Description: John Stonestreet comments on the executive order on religious liberty that President Trump signed on the National Day of Prayer. The president said that "No American should be forced to choose between the dictates of the federal government and the tenets of their faith." Mr. Stonestreet sees this as a "first step," but feels it is a very small one. The problem which really wasn't addressed is the increasing inability of Christians and other people of religious conviction to practice their faith Monday through Saturday. He goes on to say, "Yesterday's events suggest that, as I said after the election, the incoming administration has offered us a reprieve on religious freedom, but not a champion."

But while I have my thoughts on that too, I couldn't shake a far more important inconsistency in our country. Namely, how many would defend the so-called right of parents to abort an unborn baby with a similar defect, had it been discovered in utero." Issue: Abortion

Time Aired: 12:45 PM

Duration: :60

Description: While arguing for abortion at an event hosted by the school's pro-life club, Purdue professor David Sanders condemned those who display images of aborted fetuses. Usually, when a pro-choicer argues against graphic depictions of abortion, they'll say it's "disturbing, or "traumatizing to women." But Sanders claimed that photos of abortion's aftermath was "child pornography," because they show photos of naked, dead children. It's surprising that he used the word, "children" for this argument, something pro-choice people try not to do. As John Stonestreet points out, apparently it's o.k. to kill children as long as inappropriate pictures of the process are not shown. This reasoning is ridiculous, of course. Photography has been used against atrocities such as slavery, lynching and the holocaust. Why should people not show the atrocity of aborting children?

Description: Eric Metaxas says, "After eight years of seeming neglect, it appears that protecting religious liberty is back on the nation's agenda. Now folks can debate the strengths and weaknesses of President Trump's new executive order, but at long last America's first freedom is getting some long overdue recognition from the White House." He goes on to describe Russia's situation, which surprisingly is alongside regimes like China, Iran, and North Korea in its treatment of Christians. He encourage listeners to have determination, whatever the government does, to stand up for persecuted Christians around the world.

Description: Oregon legislature has passed a measure along party lines that mandates insurance companies cover the entire cost of abortion. Anyone, regardless of income, citizenship, or "gender identity" will soon be able to terminate the life of their baby in utero for free. The bill also sets aside half a million dollars to make sure immigrants who aren't covered by the state's Medicaid program can afford an abortion. John Stonestreet wonders why the state won't pay for life-SAVING surgeries, but will ensure that insurers pay for the taking of life?

Program Name: Breakpoint This Week

Issue: President Trump, Russia and the 2016 Election

Time Aired: 12:00 PM

Duration: 25:00

Description: This week, President Donald Trump set off quite a media frenzy by firing FBI director, James Comey, allegedly over his handling of the investigation into Hillary Clinton's emails. The move also inspired fresh speculation about whether he colluded with Russia to undermine the November election, and drew comparisons between Trump and president Richard Nixon during the Watergate scandal. In light of the president's encouraging judicial nominations to lower courts, listeners are encouraged to cautiously recognize when leaders accomplish good, but refrain from unconditionally defending them--even if they share one's party affiliation. Also discussed: the rise of teen suicide and the push for assisted suicide in the light of the controversial new Netflix series, "13 Reasons Why."

Issue: Abortion and Children with Down Syndrome

Time Aired: 10:25 AM

Duration: 3:59

Description: Ironically, though the French government recently banned an ad featuring a smiling, happy child with Down syndrome because they believed it was "likely to disturb the conscience of women" who had aborted babies with Down syndrome, Eric Metaxas tells the story of former French President and WWII hero, Charles de Gaulle's beloved daughter, Anne. Anne was loved and protected by both her parents and Samuel Gregg of the Acton Institute told readers of the Catholic World Report that, "de Gaulle was well aware of how the Nazis treated children like Anne, and this, in turn, inspired his refusal to surrender to the Nazis. His 'act of resistance' was a way of 'safeguarding his defenseless daughter from those who viewed her as sub-human.' As he later said, 'Without Anne, I could never perhaps have done what I did. She gave me the heart and the inspiration.'" Gregg goes on to say that de Gaulle's love for his daughter "helped restore France's honor, the same honor that was tarnished when, out of fear for hurting people's feelings, it denied the humanity of the people de Gaulle worked tirelessly to save."

Issue: Surrogacy Abuse

Time Aired: 10:25 AM

Duration: 3:59

Description: The Hulu series, "The Handmaid's Tale," based on Margaret Atwood's 1985 novel of the same name, has been called "timely" and "essential viewing for our fractured culture." It tells of a theocratic successor to U.S. government called "Republic of Gilead" where select women are "given as concubines to high-ranking officials for purposes of breeding." But a British feminist who goes by the pen name of "Glosswitch" finds it timely in another way. She cites another book published at the same time which predicted, "Once embryo transfer technology is developed, the surrogate industry could look for breeders--not only in poverty-stricken parts of the United States, but in the Third World as well. There, perhaps, one tenth of the current fee could be paid to women." We must wonder with "Glosswitch," "why, if the fate of the fictional [handmaid] is so horrifying to western feminists today, the fate of real-life women in surrogacy hostels is causing so little outrage?"

He concludes by saying, "Every day I see a strength in my wife that no man has, just as there are strengths unique to men. Strength does have a gender--two of them. They subsequently hired "Avengers" director, Joss Whedon, to produce a melodramatic and dishonest video ad suggesting that without the organization, women wouldn't get "basic health services" like STD prevention, birth control or cancer screening. It has since been revealed that Planned Parenthood supplies less than one percent of the nation's Pap tests and zero percent of the country's mammograms. They do, however, perform nearly 35 percent of the nation's abortions. Interestingly enough, the clinics which closed didn't perform abortions. Description: John Stonestreet shares the story of Paul McHugh, the Henry Phipps Professor and Director of the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, and Psychiatrist-in-Chief at Johns Hopkins Hospital from 1975 to 2001. In 1979 he ended "sex reassignment surgeries" at the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, saying that "producing a 'satisfied' but still troubled patient seemed an inadequate reason for surgically amputating normal organs." Later, in an influential essay in The Wall Street Journal, McHugh pointed to a study from Sweden showing suicide rates in those who had undergone such procedures to be 20-fold higher than in the "non-transgender population." He also cited a study showing that 70 to 80 percent of children with transgender feelings who received no medical or surgical treatment spontaneously lost those feelings. McHugh writes, "Given that close to 80% of such children would abandon their confusion and grow naturally into adult life if untreated, these medical interventions come close to child abuse." For holding this opinion, he has been labeled a "transphobe" and worse and has been accused of peddling "myths about transgender people," by the Human Rights Campaign, the world's largest homosexual-transgender lobby organization.

Description: Eric Metaxas tells of the plight of Christians in the Middle East and that their numbers have shrunk from 13.6% of the population in 1910 to the current 3%. This trend, Mr. Metaxas says, is bad for EVERYONE. "The exodus leaves the Middle East overwhelmingly dominated by Islam, whose rival sects often clash, raising the prospect that radicalism in the region will deepen," says Maria Abi-Habib in The Wall Street Journal. "Conflicts between Sunni and Shiite Muslims have erupted across the Middle East, squeezing out Christians in places such as Iraq and Syria and forcing them . . . abroad" to "Europe, the U.S. and elsewhere." Metaxas prompts listeners to be in prayer for Arab Christians.

Issue: Homosexuals and Loss of Religious Freedom

Time Aired: 12:45 PM

Duration: :60

Description: The city of East Lansing, MI, has banned the Tennes family from selling produce at the city's farmers market because their Catholic faith prohibits them from hosting gay weddings on their farm. John Stonestreet reminds listeners that Chuck Colson said in 2010 that so-called "gay marriage" would "spell the doom of religious freedom in America." Stonestreet calls them to support organizations like the Alliance Defending Freedom, which is suing East Lansing on behalf of the Tennes family.

Issue: Abortion and Planned Parenthood
Time Aired: 10:25 AM
Duration: 3:59
Description: Planned Parenthood continues its scare tactic campaign with a new high-budget ad showing a world as a dark and scary place where women would not have access to basic health services like contraception, cancer screenings and sex ed. However Planned Parenthood's 2014-15 annual report shows that they perform a meager 1 percent of the nation's pap smears, and less than 2 percent of all clinical breast exams. The pro-choice Guttmacher Institute reports that over 80 percent of teens receive sex ed instruction from somewhere besides an abortion clinic, and contrary to repeated claims by Planned Parenthood's leadership and advocates, they perform a grand total of zero mammograms according to the people at Save the Storks. Over a third of all abortions in America happen at Planned Parenthood.

Issue: Gender Dysphoria
Time Aired: 12:45 PM
Duration: :60
Description: John Stonestreet states that "transgender" is a word trying to re-create reality. He suggests that a Christian's worldview and vocabulary should not include the term "transgender," but rather gender dysphoria. As Andrew Walker at "Public Discourse" noted, we can't accept that people can "trans-ition"--literally move from one gender to the other, which he calls a "metaphysical impossibility."

Program Name: Breakpoint
Issue: Secular Humanism and Sanctity of Life
Time Aired: 10:25 AM
Duration: 3:59
Description: Eric Metaxas shares the story of Sarah Irving-Stonebraker, who's secular humanist perspective left her with a "strange intellectual vertigo" after listening to atheist, Princeton ethics professor, Peter Singer, who espouses that some forms of animal life have more worth than some human life. When another Christian professor asked her if she wanted to sit on her agnostic fence forever, she realized that "... If issues about human value and ethics mattered to me, the response that perhaps there was a God, or perhaps there wasn't, was unsatisfactory." She began observing Christians live out their faith and reading Paul Tillich and Reinhold Niebuhr and was struck by the intellectual depth and profundity of their Christian faith. After reading C. S. Lewis's "Mere Christianity," she asked Jesus to save her and become the Lord of her life. Mr. Metaxas reminds listeners of Chuck Colson's suggestion to help people follow their worldview assumption to their logical conclusion. The grim, atheistic worldview can't carry the weight of human significance on its shoulders.

Issue: Religious Test for Civil Service

Time Aired: 12:45 PM

Duration: :60

Description: Senator Bernie Sanders apparently thinks Christians don't belong in public office. As he was grilling Russel Vought during his confirmation hearing for a budget office position, he excoriated an article Vought wrote defending Wheaton College's statement of faith. Muslims, Vought wrote, "do not know God because they have rejected Jesus Christ, His Son, and they stand condemned." Sanders said " , , , this nominee is really not someone who this country is supposed to be about." So using this reason he believes that Vought should be excluded from service because he has excluded Muslims for their beliefs. There is no logic here. And Bernie Sanders could have been the president.

Issue: Technology and Procreation

Time Aired: 12:45 PM

Duration: :60

Description: After becoming a surrogate mother to twins, Brittneyrose Torres found out that she was instead carrying triplets. The man and woman who hired her are demanding she abort one of the children. She has refused. While John Stonestreet affirms her choice of life, he reminds us that these technologies have led to such things as destroying "extra" embryos, aborting intentionally implanted babies, and exploiting surrogate mothers, especially in the Third World. People are treating unborn human beings as commodities to be bought and sold, embraced or discarded. These are all clear reminders that the ends never justify the means.

Issue: Teen Depression

Time Aired: 10:25 AM

Duration: 3:59

Description: Eric Metaxas reports on the rising number of teens who suffer from depression. The question is why. He disagrees with the Moralistic Therapeutic Deism theory that says the historic Christian faith is corrupted and it's about feeling good, happy secure and at peace. They say, "It is about attaining subjective well-being, being able to resolve problems, and getting along amicably with other people." Mr. Metaxas states, "Somewhere deep inside, unhappy young people know that they were meant for more, much more, than this world can possibly offer. As Augustine said, 'Thou hast made us for thyself, O Lord, and our heart is restless until it finds its rest in thee.'"

Issue: Manipulation of Words in Current Culture
Time Aired: 12:45 PM
Duration: :60
Description: John Stonestreet compares the liberal agenda and their use of vocabulary to the totalitarian government depicted in George Orwell's "1984." He says, The way the left uses words these days would impress even Orwell. Killing babies in the womb or allowing men in women's bathrooms are "progressive" causes. Abortion opponents are "against women's health." Reserving women's bathrooms for women is "hating." These powerful words, he says, are being "powerfully misused."

Issue: Marriage

Time Aired: 10:25 AM

Duration: 3:59

Description: Eric Metaxas begins by giving dismal statistics about America's divorce rate which is "the highest in the civilized world." He believes it's "happening because too many of our neighbors have lost the biblical view of marriage: It's designed to be a monogamous, lifelong commitment--physical, emotional, and spiritual--intended for the nurturing of any children they may be blessed with." He recommends a program called Marriage Savers, founded by Mike and Harriet McManus, for couples contemplating marriage and those who are struggling, at the brink of divorce or trying to blend stepfamilies.

Program Name: The Point
Issue: Pro-Abortion Melodramatics
Time Aired: 12:45 PM
Duration: :60
Description: On Tuesday of last week, to protest Ohio bill SB 145, which would ban the brutal and bloody dilation and evacuation abortion method, a group of women dressed like handmaids from the new Netflix series and sat in on the Ohio state house. John Stonestreet asks the question, "So how again does banning an abortion procedure sentence women to a life as enslaved breeders, which is what the dystopian story describes as the fate of certain women?" He encourages listeners to not be intimidated by the melodramatics. He believes the pro-abortion forces are losing ground in the debate and are becoming desperate to save their cause.

Program Name: Breakpoint

Issue: Assisted Suicide

Time Aired: 10:25 AM

Duration: 3:59

Description: John Stonestreet believes the case of Michelle Carter's responsibility in the suicide death of her teenage boyfriend, Conrad Roy, is another example of what Wesley J. Smith refers to when he says, "society broadly accepts the agenda of killing as an acceptable end to human suffering . . . We eliminate suffering by eliminating the sufferers." The majority of physician-assisted suicide according to Ezekiel Emanuel, one of the architects of Obamacare, is "not to escape physical pain but psychological distress; the main drivers are depression, hopelessness and fear of loss of autonomy and control." "In this light," Emanuel continues, "physician-assisted suicide looks less like a good death in the face of unremitting pain and more like plain old suicide." Despite this, two-thirds of Americans believe that physician-assisted suicide should be legal. Mr. Stonestreet ends by saying, "What Carter did was reprehensible, perhaps even criminal. But while her actions were extraordinary, her belief that suffering is best dealt with by eliminating the sufferer isn't. Our culture is largely clueless about what gives life value and what gives us dignity. Because we don't know what a life worth living looks like, we don't know what a truly good death looks like, either."

Program Name: The Point
Issue: Teen Pregnancy
Time Aired: 12:45 PM
Duration: :60
Description: When Great Britain decided to cut funding for contraceptive-based sex education, many predicted the sky would fall. Funny thing though, the only thing that fell was teen pregnancy rates. John Stonestreet quotes Scott Phelps of the Abstinence and Marriage Education Partnership who argues these programs "normalize" teen sex, and "fail to even present the option of abstinence until marriage." Mr. Stonestreet points out that though it seems counter-intuitive, it is really a matter of understanding human nature. If kids are armed with contraceptives assuming they will do what they do, they won't surprise us. And subsequently pregnancy rates will rise.
