The Arkansas House is expected to consider funding for the state's Medicaid program today (Fri). The Senate approved the appropriation Wednesday. It follows a judge ruling by a federal judge that halted the work requirement. Governor Asa Hutchinson wants the U.S. Department of Justice to appeal the decision which involved rules in Arkansas and Kentucky. Arkansas was the first state to get a waiver to implement the work requirement. Department of Human Services Director Cindy Gillespie said yesterday (Thurs) during an interview nationwide on NPR's All Things Considered:...
