First Quarter 2016

KSYM 90.1 FM is a student staffed and operated non-profit college radio station. The Alamo Community College District owns and houses KSYM on the campus of San Antonio College. The station serves both the students enrolled in the Radio and Television Broadcasting Program and the community to which we broadcast our programming. As a non-profit station, KSYM has a duty to provide our listeners with information on events important to our community. Priorities are given to ACCD events, other local educational institutions, local community events, and national/international events respectively.

A. Public Service Announcements:

Public Service Announcements run once every hour. They are read live or pre-recorded to play from our automated system. This category covers events and information beneficial to the community emanating from local, state, or national non-profit organizations and governments.

Gary Becks was a Marine medic in Vietnam before becoming a fire fighter in San Bernardino, California. In the 1980's, he joined up with a medical mission to Honduras to put his medical skills to use. Gary was so shocked by the primitive conditions in the jungle villages of Honduras that he decided to quit his job as a fire fighter and dedicate his life to bringing medical and literacy resources to third world countries. Founded in 1988, Rescue Task Force now has four permanent medical clinics in Honduras that act as key access points for day-long mobile medical clinics into extreme remote jungle areas, women's literacy projects in Afghanistan that have graduated over 7000 women, as well as programs in Cambodia to promote youth literacy for victims of human trafficking and wheelchair donations for victims of land mines. In addition to these main programs, Rescue Task Force does more specific disaster relief missions worldwide. With the help of hundreds of volunteers, Rescue Task Force has provided aid to more than 150,000 people through medical and dental care, literacy projects, and wheelchair donations. A few years ago, Mary Stumpp's eight-year-old neighbor told her that some of his classmates couldn't afford to attend a field trip. This got Mary thinking about ways to help kids and teachers at Indianapolis public schools get additional funding for much needed classroom supplies and educational materials. She began to notice that not only were there a lot of aluminum cans on the ground and in trashcans that were going in to the landfill, but these aluminum cans could be turned in for cash the local scrap yard. In 2007, Mary started the Can Lady Project to collect discarded cans in schools and around town to raise money for elementary and middle schools in her area. Since they began, the Can Lady Project has diverted over 25,000 lbs of aluminum from the landfill and raised more than $14,000 for Indianapolis Public Schools. Length: 5:59@13:02

About ten years ago, Nancy Morgans-Ferguson was temporarily filling in as the secretary at her local congregational church when a homeless woman with a severe disability came in to the office. Though she was hard to understand because of her speech impediment, Nancy learned that those living on the street often experience humiliating treatment and prejudice when seeking medical care, and that there is a major lack of medical care options in general for the homeless. In 2007, Nancy founded the Shalom Free Clinic to provide free medical care in a comfortable, respectful, and anonymous atmosphere with the help of volunteer doctors, nurses, PAs, mental health professionals, med school students and mental health professionals. This community-driven effort has performed close to 40,000 patient visits and treated over 14,000 patients for myriad causes, including basic medical care, treatment and counseling for mental and behavioral health, and additional services such as massage, legal services, and even haircuts. After receiving his Master's degree in Business from Harvard, Philippe Houdard spent several years traveling around Latin America as a corporate business executive. In the course of his travels, Philippe became aware of the glaring divide between the rich and the poor in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, especially the plight of the children who lived in the shantytown slums there. When his grandfather passed away several years later, Philippe decided to do something to help those children. What started as a year-long sabbatical to build a school in Brazil became a full-scale non-profit organization that provides kids with access to basic education, vocational training, emotional support and basic computer skills to help them break the cycle of poverty, gangs and violence so prevalent in their hometowns. The Developing Minds Foundation was founded in 2006 and has worked with close to 35,000 kids, teaching them literacy and life skills, including helping former child soldiers reintegrate into civilian life.
