

Issues	Specific Issues	Date	Duration	Air Time	Story	Content	Reporter
Government	homeless	10/1/18	08:50	13:29:33	What's it like to be homeless? Ask a person who's been there	The Seattle-King County area has the third largest concentration of homeless people in the U.S., after New York and Los Angeles. The most recent count totaled nearly 12,000.	John O'Brien / Sonya Harris
Arts & Life	Full Record	10/1/18	50:18	Noon	"When they were good, they were very very good" - a Mariners	The playoff run that wasn't.	Bill Radke
Business	agriculture	10/1/18	03:57	3-6:30pm	Washington dairies to get a boost with new trade deal	The new United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement will make it easier for Washington dairy products to get into Canada.	Anna King / Casey Martin / Kim Malcolm
Arts & Life	politics	10/2/18	07:00	5-9am	My grandpa sang songs to fight an empire - and it worked	Last summer, he sang a song I hadn't heard before. He told me what the lyrics mean: let us dance, and let us sing folk songs, because we have achieved independence. At first I was confused. What independence? From whom? And what's going on here?	Medha Kumar
Arts & Life	sports	10/2/18	04:05	5-9am	Earl Thomas' bad break shows why players	You've seen it before: An injured player being carted off the field usually gives the thumbs up. Not this time.	Angela King / Jason Pagano

Arts & Life	Full Record	10/2/18	50:24	Noon	The fight for $15 has come to a warehouse near you	Amazon is raising its minimum wage to $15. Is it enough to placate Kshama Sawant (or Bernie Sanders, for that matter)? And when it comes to income inequality: is it enough, period?	Bill Radke
Education	homeless	10/2/18	04:48	3-6:30pm	Homeless students are struggling academically. And it's worse than we thought	Kim Malcolm talks with Liza Burell about a new report that looks at the academic challenges faced by homeless students in Washington state. Burell is program director with Building Changes, a Seattle non-profit.	Andy Hurst / Kim Malcolm
Race	family	10/3/18	04:09	5-9am	After a racist attack, my mom hid her trauma to protect me. Now I want to help her heal.	A young white guy, clean cut with dark hair, started shouting racial slurs and spit on her. Only one person checked to see if she was okay.	Leila Abe
Race	music	10/3/18	36:02	Noon	Pastor Pat Wright reflects on her legacy in Seattle	Today on the Record, we talk to Pastor Patrinell Wright, author Neal Bascomb, and Seattle Times reporter Joseph O'Sullivan.	Bill Radke
Environment	environment	10/3/18	07:17	5-9am	Seattle 'valve turners' hope for game-changing Minnesota trial	Seattle climate activist Michael Foster went to prison for shutting off an oil pipeline. He said the best part was being offline for six months. "I read 65 books in prison."	Amy Radil

Arts & Life	food	10/4/18	04:14	3-6:30pm	Angela Stowell carves her own career path	You may have heard of Ethan Stowell, the award-winning chef behind more than a dozen Seattle restaurants. But Angela Stowell, his business partner and wife, is the operational brains and often works behind the scenes.	Ruby de Luna
Arts & Life	race and equity	10/4/18	37:49	Noon	Alice Walker on tending to our sorrows, anger and despair	On this episode of The Record, Bill Radke speaks to novelist Alice Walker, writer Nicole Chung, and KUOW reporter Anna Boiko-Weyrauch.	Bill Radke
Government	politics	10/5/18	04:18	5-9am	Jay Inslee's dance with a run for the presidency	With the big midterm election just weeks away, is Washington Governor Jay Inslee warming up to the idea of making a run for the presidency in 2020?	Angela King / Jason Pagano
Arts & Life	Speakers Forum	10/5/18	43:53	09:04:32	'Don't be boring'	Johnson shares a few of his strategies when having difficult and divisive conversations with his fellow Americans.	Sonya Harris
Law	government	10/5/18	04:30	3-6:30pm	This Seattle U law professor says Kavanaugh should not be confirmed	Kim Malcolm talks with Seattle University associate law professor Sara Rankin about why she believes Brett Kavanaugh lacks the judicial temperament and impartiality to be confirmed to the United States Supreme Court.	Andy Hurst / Kim Malcolm

Arts & Life	Amazon / politics / sexual assault	10/5/18	30:39	Noon	This week we ask, does Kavanaugh have the votes?	Bill Radke reviews the week's news with journalist Joni Balter, Crosscut columnist Knute Berger, Seattle Times technology reporter Rachel Lerman.	Alison Bruzek / Bill Radke
Government	arts / music	10/8/18	17:19	Noon	Eric Idle	Bill Radke talks to actor and comedian Eric Idle about his Monty Python days and always looking on the bright side of life.	Bill Radke
Government	elections / government / politics	10/8/18	56:32	3-6:30pm	Cantwell, Hutchison slug it out in debate	Trade, immigration and semi-automatic rifles...  All topics that set the candidates apart in a debate Monday between Democratic Senator Maria Cantwell and Republican challenger Susan Hutchison.	Amy Radil / Paige Browning
Government	history / RadioActive / refugees / youth produced	10/9/18	06:32	3-6:30pm	How my 90-year-old neighbor, a Holocaust survivor, sees America today	One of the world's biggest cities was once a safe haven for Jewish refugees. During World War II, more than 18,000 Jews sought refuge in Shanghai. They witnessed the war from a perspective that often goes unheard. My neighbor Werner Glass is one of them.	Lila Shroff
Arts & Life	Full Record	10/9/18	35:03	Noon	Scoot your way to personal injury?	Other cities have thrilling electric scooter share: why not Seattle? The hidden danger of two-wheeling it.	Bill Radke

Arts & Life	Art of our City	10/10/18	04:05	3-6:30pm	How do you write down a dance?	Playwrights create written scripts; music composers write down scores. But how do you write down and save a dance?	Marcie Sillman
Arts & Life	Full Record	10/10/18	37:25	Noon	Can	Congestion pricing: the good, the bad, and the eye-popping pricetag of London's driving fee.	Bill Radke
Government	crime	10/11/18	04:32	3-6:30pm	Washington Supreme Court strikes down death penalty	The Washington state Supreme Court struck down the state's death penalty Thursday and converted all death sentences to life in prison.	Paige Browning / Patricia Murphy
Government	elections	10/11/18	04:22	3-6:30pm	How do we get the outside money out of Washington State politics?	Millions of dollars flood in to Washington State from all over the country, mostly for political ads.	David Hyde
Government	refugees	10/11/18	06:59	3-6:30pm	A Rohingya teen escaped genocide in Myanmar. This is how he ended up on Mercer Island.	The Rohingya are a Sunni Muslim ethnic minority in Myanmar. In 1982, the government of Myanmar revoked the Rohingya people's citizenship.	Meghana Kakubal
Arts & Life	Full Record	10/11/18	39:52	Noon	Washington joins a growing number of states in abandoning capital punishment	We now know, and the Supreme Court decision affirmed, that zip code and race are likely determinants of whether the accused is given the death penalty. There is nothing equal, fair, or just if that has occurred. And unfortunately, it has.	Bill Radke

Health	opioids	10/11/18	25:31	Web	This podcast explores solutions to our opioid epidemic	The drugs are not the problem, it's the pain of living that's the problem. And pain is driving this opioid epidemic.	Anna Boiko-Weyrauch / Brie Ripley / Kyle Norris
Arts & Life	Speakers Forum	10/11/18	57:23	17:20:53	Conjoined twin slaves and addiction: Poems from 'The Gramma'	This isn't your basic roses are red, violets are blue poetry reading. 'Gramma' is an independent poetry press based in Seattle that hosts the Gramma reading series.	Sonya Harris
Business	Amazon	10/12/18	03:50	5-9am	Poaching	But it could all go away.	Joshua McNichols
Government	elections	10/12/18	03:44	5-9am	Carbon initiative	A new Elway Poll shows 50 percent of Washington voters now back the carbon tax initiative I-1631 on the November ballot. Q13 political analyst C.R. Douglas joined KUOW's Angela King to discuss the initiative's prospects.	Angela King / Jason Pagano
Government	Week in Review	10/12/18	51:41	Noon	What's in a poll?	Bill Radke reviews the week's news with former Port of Seattle commissioner Bill Bryant, Gyasi Ross is a Seattle attorney and host of the podcast, Breakdances with Wolves and Monica Nickelsburg is the Civic Innovation Editor for Geekwire.	Amina Al-Sadi / Bill Radke

Environment	climate change	10/12/18	05:38	3-6:30pm	"How can we help you." UW's new Earth Lab hopes to solve our big environmental challenges	Kim Malcolm talks with Sally Jewell about EarthLab - a new project from the University of Washington. Jewell was U.S. Interior Secretary under President Obama. She currently chairs EarthLab's advisory council.	Andy Hurst / Kim Malcolm
Arts & Life	food	10/15/18	04:16	5-9am	Now legal, pot's getting fancy in Washington State	Here in Washington state, chefs and entrepreneurs are trying to elevate marijuana through food.	Ruby de Luna
Business	Region Of Boom	10/15/18	04:13	5-9am	U-District plan would give some streets to cars, others to pedestrians	Seattle's University District has four of the city's most dangerous intersections. More than 100,000 cars, bikes, buses and people all squeeze through the neighborhood's crowded arterials every day.	Joshua McNichols
Arts & Life	Full Record	10/15/18	51:13	Noon	Senator Warren takes the test	DNA testing is becoming increasingly widespread; in this instance, it's being used to bolster political bona fides and has sparked discussions about whether genes have anything to do with identity.	Bill Radke
Business	transportation	10/16/18	03:44	5-9am	Scooterless in Seattle - for now	Seattle is hesitant to add scooters for safety reasons. We sent out a reporter to try one.	Casey Martin
Arts & Life	life	10/16/18	08:22	5-9am	Paul Allen: His shredding life	Paul Allen's musical collaborator talks about what it was like to write and perform with him.	Angela King / Jason Pagano

Health	youth produced	10/16/18	05:26	3-6:30pm	Chronic illness sucks but here's how I deal with mine	The bathroom is a universal experience, right? Well, not for me. Instead, I am one of the very lucky 1.5 million with an inflammatory bowel disease.	Kamil Saad
Arts & Life	Full Record	10/16/18	51:22	Noon	A tale of two Smiths	The race is on for Washington's 9th. Also, we hear more about ballot initiative 1631 on carbon fees, and remember Paul Allen.	Bill Radke
Government	elections	10/16/18	04:44	3-6:30pm	With midterms approaching, is Washington's voting system safe from hackers?	Kim Malcolm talks with Washington Secretary of State Kim Wyman about election security in Washington state.	Andy Hurst / Kim Malcolm
Government	correction / elections	10/17/18	10:31	Web	Word for word, this is what Kathy Lambert said	The King County Council member took issue with a KUOW story about a campaign event for Sen. Joe Fain this past Sunday, during which she was interviewed. Here's the full transcript of that interview.	Isolde Raftery / Sydney Brownstone
Arts & Life	Full Record	10/17/18	51:07	Noon	Science for Curious Simpletons	You don't have to be a planetary exploration specialist to understand this science (but we talked to one anyway).	Bill Radke

Race	education	10/17/18	03:40	5-9am	Black students, white teachers: How lack of teacher diversity affects Seattle youth	"I began to think, maybe what they're saying is true. Maybe my people don't do good."	Selam Demile
Government	homeless	10/17/18	04:31	3-6:30pm	A possible solution for Seattle's homelessness crisis: really big tents	Kim Malcolm talks with Seattle city councilmember Teresa Mosqueda about why she supports the idea of using large tents as a way to provide temporary shelter for homeless people in Seattle.	Andy Hurst / Kim Malcolm
Government	elections	10/17/18	58:29	5-9am	Rossi and Schrier duke it out in 8th District debate	Republican Dino Rossi and Democrat Kim Schrier square off over health care insurance, trade tariffs, gun control and border policy in a wide-ranging debate.	Amy Radil / David Hyde / Gil Aegerter
Environment	animals	10/18/18	16:02	5-9am	Why did the sea lions skip out on an easy meal at the Ballard Locks?	Douglass McCrea wonders why he is seeing fewer sea lions at the Ballard Locks. We'll explore the mystery.	Deborah Wang / Matt Martin
Arts & Life	Full Record	10/18/18	51:50	Noon	What do you wonder about the Puget Sound region?	You asked, we answered.	Bill Radke / Deborah Wang
Environment	government	10/18/18	05:32	3-6:30pm	Ready for the Big One? Your earthquake questions, answered.	Kim Malcolm talks with Bill Steele, to answer KUOW listener questions about earthquake preparedness in the Puget Sound Region.	Andy Hurst / Kim Malcolm

Government	elections	10/19/18	04:01	5-9am	Initiative 1634	A statewide ballot initiative would stop local governments from passing any new taxes on food and beverages, like Seattle did with soda. Angela King gets into Initiative 1634 with political analysts C.R. Douglas and Joni Balter.	Angela King
Government	Week in Review	10/19/18	51:02	noon	Remembering Paul Allen, a political debate and metal balls attack Genesee Street	We remember the life and legacy of Microsoft co-founder Paul Allen.	Amina Al-Sadi / Bill Radke
Immigration	government	10/22/18	04:59	5-9am	A Kent church lost its undocumented pastor in January. But he's still evangelizing to his followers through Skype	When Pastor Carlos Galdamez and his wife, Reina Aquino, left their home in Washington to get a visa in Mexico this past January, they thought it was the last stop on their path to U.S. citizenship.	Sydney Brownstone
Law	elections	10/22/18	03:55	5-9am	Washington's notorious "malice" standard for police is headed for ballot....and legislature	I-940 is backed by families of people who died in encounters with police. But whether it passes or fails, many law enforcement groups are ready to work on a compromise over charging police officers for misuse of deadly force.	Amy Radil

Government	transgender	10/22/18	04:09	3-6:30pm	Defending trans rights in Seattle	The White House is considering rolling back federal protections for transgender people. We spoke to Seattle's LGBTQ Commission about what that would mean.	Casey Martin / Kim Malcolm
Arts & Life	Full Record	10/22/18	51:07	Noon	The Record: Monday, October 22	The 'grocery tax' might not be all that it seems.	Bill Radke
Arts & Life	Speakers Forum	10/23/18	50:15	10:34:27	Sally Field in Seattle: 'Democracy is messy'	Actress Sally Field has amassed a colorful assortment of characters over her decades-long career: the Flying Nun, Mary Todd Lincoln and most recently a role in Netflix' new series Maniac .	Sonya Harris
Education	music	10/23/18	04:00	3-6:30pm	Why this Boeing test pilot keeps a flute in her toolbox	I go to a special high school with a focus on aviation. Although I love my school, sometimes I feel like I don't get to explore my creative side. So I started asking questions: What role should art play in STEM education? And how can creativity help us to be better scientists or engineers?	Braeden Swanson
Arts & Life	Full Record	10/23/18	50:41	Noon	October 23rd: Get counted	This month on the show, we've been answering your questions about tight races and ballot initiatives. But why does Washington vote the way it does at all?	Bill Radke

Government	elections	10/23/18	04:27	5-9am	Independents - sick of Trump, wary of Dems - rise up in eastern Washington	Washington state could end up with its first ever Independent member of the House.	Ashley Ahearn
Arts & Life	Full Record	10/24/18	51:25	Noon	Wednesday, October 24th: When should the police shoot to kill?	When an officer kills someone, how do we know whether they acted illegally? What should the standard be, and how do we train officers to avoid it? Also: becoming a parent can be incredibly isolating. How can we combat the loneliness?	Bill Radke
Government	politics	10/24/18	04:29	3-6:30pm	Will Trump provoke a backlash with Washington State voters this year?	Enumclaw resident Jeannie Bystrom's face screwed up when asked about President Trump.	David Hyde
Education	guns	10/25/18	13:01	Web	Why shooting range next to school?	A shooting range next to a middle school? This episode will look at why some in Issaquah think that is completely normal and why others are looking to move the guns.	David Hyde / Deborah Wang

Government	homeless	10/25/18	04:03	5-9am	People are aging in place in permanent supportive housing	Permanent supportive housing is an effective intervention that gets many people who are chronically homeless and dealing with significant issues off the street, and keeps them off the street. It's been around for a few decades. The issue people in Seattle, and across the US, are now facing is how to continue caring for people as they're aging in place in this kind of housing.	Kate Walters
Government	elections	10/25/18	04:25	3-6:30pm	Will young voters turn out in WA? Some signs point to yes	Kim Malcolm talks with Emilio Garza and Will Kittel with The Washington Bus about what's motivating young Washington voters during this election season.	Andy Hurst / Kim Malcolm
Arts & Life	dance	10/25/18	04:30	3-6:30pm	How one transgender dancer challenges the Bollywood binary	Everyone longs to be their truest self. But what if being your true self means you have to give up the thing you love most?	Keya Roy
Government	elections	10/25/18	04:51	3-6:30pm	On the ballot: San Juan County grapples with affordable housing	Kim Malcolm talks with Lisa Byers about the lack of affordable housing in San Juan County.	Andy Hurst / Kim Malcolm

Arts & Life	Full Record	10/25/18	51:06	Noon	October 25th, 2018: "Our political ideas describe a world that no longer exists."	What tech is the city of Seattle using to surveil its citizens? What does today's charter school ruling mean for education in Washington state? And how will we grapple with the increasing overlap between technology and the state?	Bill Radke
Government	elections	10/25/18	04:07	5-9am	Deep state' or deep sixed? The Washington Supreme Court race that's getting buried	Six years ago, Steven Gonzalez's last name likely cost him votes in his first race for the Washington Supreme Court. He won nonetheless.	Austin Jenkins
Technology	Amazon	10/26/18	04:17	3-6:30pm	What if Alexa broke up with Seattle?	Some have suggested that Amazon might move its mighty artificial intelligence division elsewhere. But the roots of AI in the Seattle region predate Amazon. And Seattle's AI industry, in turn, has become bigger than Amazon.	Joshua McNichols
Government	economy	10/26/18	03:31	5-9am	How Washington state makes it harder for people to make it on their	New numbers show that Seattle's middle class is slipping, and it's not because people are making less money. It's because their money doesn't go as far in rent, taxes and the cost of living.	Carolyn Adolph

Government	guns	10/26/18	05:03	5-9am	I-1639	Initiative 1639, a measure that would make changes to how Washingtonians buy and own firearms, is the only statewide gun control measure on a ballot anywhere in the upcoming midterms.	Angela King / Jason Pagano
Health	homeless	10/26/18	04:44	3-6:30pm	As Seattle's homeless population grows, how many are actually from here?	Paige Browning talks with Scott Greenstone of the Seattle Times about how many homeless people in King County are from the area.	Andy Hurst / Paige Browning
Government	Week in Review	10/26/18	46:39	Noon	This week	Bill Radke reviews the week's news with Knute Berger columnist for Crosscut and Seattle Magazine, Joni Balter host of Civic Cocktail on the Seattle Channel and Monica Guzman co-founder of the Seattle newsletter The Evergrey.	Amina Al-Sadi / Bill Radke
Arts & Life	Full Record	10/29/18	51:26	Noon	The case for American intervention	When should the US intervene in foreign affairs, and when should we stay out of it? We also speak to two leaders in the Seattle Jewish community and check in with journalists ahead of tomorrow's Political Mischief event.	Bill Radke

Religion	race and equity	10/29/18	04:10	3-6:30pm	With anti-Semitism on the rise in the Seattle area	Kim Malcolm talks with Miri Cypers about the increase in anti-Semitic incidents in the Puget Sound region.	Andy Hurst / Kim Malcolm
Education	transportation	10/29/18	00:55	5-9am	Seattle Schools adds 15 buses to reduce delays	The district is exercising a clause in its contract to force First Student to pay for additional buses and drivers from competitor Durham Bus Service.	Ann Dornfeld
Arts & Life	drugs	10/30/18	05:02	Web	Sober for 27 years. Now her son is experimenting with drugs.	When Adina was 15 years old, she started trying drugs. Not just weed and alcohol but molly, LSD, and once, crack.	Enya Garcia
Race	guns	10/30/18	08:16	3-6:30pm	My name is Millionaire Lavish. I'm 18 and this is why I carry a gun	I remember when I didn't think about guns.	Patricia Murphy / Willard Jimerson
Law	guns	10/30/18	04:29	3-6:30pm	It's not good to be on the other side of the barrel because the bullet don't have a name on it."	I got shot August 17, 2017, in my lower back. I was going to one of the homie's houses to play video games and eat pizza."	Patricia Murphy / Willard Jimerson
Arts & Life	homeless	10/30/18	03:55	3-6:30pm	Chefs to the homeless community	"Our organization is like 'Chopped' every single day."	Ruby de Luna
Parenting and Education	guns	10/30/18	04:27	5-9am	Seattle parents are having tough conversations with their kids about violence	Kira Dorrian co-hosts a podcast about parenting. It's not about religion, or cultural identity, but after the shootings at the synagogue in Pittsburgh, Dorrian couldn't avoid it.	Joshua McNichols

Arts & Life	Full Record	10/30/18	50:58	Noon	With great talent comes mental illness, says this psychiatrist	King County Executive Dow Constantine takes our questions and yours. Also, can Washington state lawmakers block anyone on their social media accounts? We also talk to a psychiatrist who embraces his 'crazy'family, and two Seattleites who are creating a map of the weird inside city limits.	Bill Radke
Government	elections	10/31/18	10:42	Web	Scary campaign ads! Can't we get rid of them?	Our special Halloween edition of SoundQs looks at what can be done to get money out of politics (spoiler alert: not much) and how campaign spending can be made more transparent, so voters will be better informed about who's lurking behind those political ads.	David Hyde / Deborah Wang / Matt Martin
Government	refugees	10/31/18	04:02	5-9am	Which buildings are doomed in a big earthquake?	Our search for an answer takes us to Chinatown International District and one woman's renewed relationship with her late father.	Anna Boiko-Weyrauch
Government	elections	10/31/18	10:42	Web	Scary campaign ads! Can't we get rid of them?	Campaigns are spending record amounts of money on ads that border on the ghoulis.	David Hyde / Deborah Wang / Matt Martin

Government	elections	10/31/18	04:01	5-9am	State	The Blue Wave that's forecasted to swell in the coming midterm elections could also reach the statehouse. Olympia correspondent Austin Jenkins tells KUOW's Angela King what the Democrats might do with an expanded governing majority.	Angela King
Law	guns	10/31/18	04:12	3-6:30pm	I never heard a gun like that before. I'm running, and then shroom, bam! Hit me like a jet."	Seville was 12 when he was shot after a basketball game at a park in South Seattle.	Patricia Murphy
Arts & Life	Full Record	10/31/18	51:01	Noon	Like so many of our neighbors, do you feel unsheltered?	Novelist Barbara Kingsolver's new book explores what happens when you do everything right and still can't find the ground beneath you. Separately: what should you do if you see a spider in your home? And for teens who carry guns: why? And is there a better way?	Bill Radke

Arts & Life	gender	10/31/18	04:10	5-9am	I didn't know my mom was non-binary until I started to question my gender identity	When my mom was young, at the age of five, she started thinking about herself as a boy. My mother was assigned female at birth, but when she was little, she had the classic childhood experiences of a transgender boy. It was almost stereotypical. She thought about being a boy before she was even in kindergarten.	Marceline Flynn
Technology	politics	10/31/18	04:49	3-6:30pm	After tragedies, conspiracy theories spread online quickly. Here's why	Kim Malcolm talks with University of Washington assistant professor Kate Starbird about how conspiracy theories spread online, in the wake of tragedies.	Andy Hurst / Kim Malcolm