It's a record-breaking amount, and half of the food went to Life Source the other half went to Tri Cycle Farms. Twenty percent of Arkansans are food insecure, meaning they don't know where their next meal is coming from. It's something Don Bennett has experienced himself and he is now working to change the statistic through working with Tri Cycle Farms. Thanks to today's donations, families in need filled up a sack of fresh food for free.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention issued a warning about a life-threatening illness caused by "kissing bugs" known as Chagas, typically spotted in Texas and Virginia. The Arkansas Health Department says they are in the process of getting it listed as a reportable disease. But not all of the kissing bugs carry the disease. That's 38 cents for an average single strip. Ten years ago, bacon rang in at almost half that price. So what's driving the most recent sudden spike in price? "We have a big need for healthcare for our children and where better to serve them than at school," said Misti McCoy, director of nursing for the clinic. "Immunizations protect our children from disease and they can actually save your child's life." The clinic will fill you in on the shot requirements, your child's vaccine record and make sure you're up to date on the immunizations.
Travel	Fox 24 News Edge	7-Aug-14	9:00pm	:37	fueling station located on Savannah Street is one of two stations in Fort Smith. Officials say with "CNG" becoming more popular in the river valley, the second station is needed and they are happy to provide it. "It's very exciting to see the growth. I mean, not only from the fact that it's a clean energy, but the fact that we don't import compressed natural gas or natural gas, we are producing that right here in the United States," said AOG Chief Executive Officer, Mike Callan. Compressed natural gas is about a dollar-fifty to two dollars cheaper than regular gasoline. Experts say to expect more privately-owned fueling stations popping up in our area in the future.

"Most primary care offices are not open on the weekend, and so, first instinct is going to be to go to the emergency room." Bryant says urgent care clinics offer a less expensive option.
