Quarterly Issues Programs List for Stations

October 1-December 31, 2023

Section I. Issues

Townsquare Media Bismarck has identified the following issues as significant issues facing our community in this quarter:

- 1. Mental Health. In a land where winter can rule six months a year, North Dakotans need to brace themselves annually for what could be another long, lonely winter. Seasonal affective disorder can get to even the most experienced winter veterans. In 2022-2023 Bismarck nearly tied the record for annual snowfall. In those types of years, the difficult travel conditions often for weeks at a time hinders wellness checks from friends and family. When weather permits, we still need to encourage a variety of social activities to avoid the so-called winter blues
- 2. Child Development. North Dakota ranks in the top twenty states in regard to levels of childhood obesity. According to State of Childhood Obesity, Fifteen percent of kids aged 10-17 in the state have obesity. Like all adults across the country, we casually attribute these rising rates to the sedentary nature of kids today. "Why in my day we would have been outside all day". That's no doubt true, but through promoting kids' participation in activities, we can promote social participation which can lead to getting out of the house! Trouble is North Dakota ranks in the top ten for adult obesity. So, leading by example is a good suggestion.
- 3. Food Inequity In December 2023 our region experienced and ice storm that paralyzed the area for days. People were hunkered down with no-travel advisories. This resulted in local grocers facing a dilemma with perishable food items. Thankfully, Bismarck has established a Dream Center that connects the community with access to these goods when available. Year round, the Dream Center has been able to provide free quality produce and food to those in need and preventing it from simply being thrown away. These types of community initiatives greatly benefit our citizens will reducing needless waste.

- 4. Incarceration Local social media sites are filled with area people fighting for their survival based on the limitations presented based on their criminal past. From finding work to finding housing, felons face a steep uphill climb back into society. Rehabilitation should begin while incarcerated, but should certainly extend into their reacceptance into society. Groups like Bismarck’s Ministry On The Margins provide much needed resources to allow these individuals a path to future success. Important work is being done daily right here in our communities and their efforts certainly require our continued support.
- 5. Elections In November of 2022, North Dakota voters truly shook the political pillars by passing a term-limit ballot. Many legislators have spent decades in office truly bolstered by name recognition alone. Although the measure does not apply to those already holding office, in the long run North Dakota should see the benefit of new candidates and new ideas entering the political landscape. The 2024 presidential election sees both party’s front runners advancing to or exceeding 80 years of age. Now, at least locally in the future, North Dakota can see leadership opportunities more easily presented to candidates from a variety of generations.
