				15:04 min	Spoken Word Productions is designed to encourage kids, teens and young adults to write more, to unlock a part of the brain that society wants to keep closed. With everything going so fast in the world with social media and challenges, Spoken Word Productions wants to combat that. By slowing their targeted demographic down to think and to write, they feel having workshops and writing competitions (short stories, poems) will get the mission completed. Scott Victor visited us to talk about their mission as well as their added benefit of the chance to win a writing scholarship to go towards school needs (books, fees, etc) makes it appealing to the students. We also produce Spoken Word open mics and Poetry shows that are local in Wichita Kansas. For more information visit Spoken Word Productions on Facebook
