The U-S Navy says it's having the same hard conversations. Now, the Navy is putting a task force together to combat discrimination and barriers.
17	Law Enforcement Minority Issues	4p	7/2/2020	4:15	WAVY News 10 at 4p	Courageous Conversations- The former chief of police in Virginia Beach will tell you we have an obligation to redress our grievances. But Jim Cervera also says that comes with a civil responsibility, so everyone's voice can be heard. Part of that responsibility lies with police whose role is protect and serve. But what happened to George Floyd sparked an outrage that flashed across the nation. Jim Cervera has been a police officer for nearly half a century, the last 11 years spent as chief of Virginia's largest city before retiring this year. And in a culture where police often walk a thin blue line between hero and villian, Cervera says "human" is a more accurate description.

More back talk? Acting out of character? Well, as we move farther into the pandemic, a number of families are experiencing that right now. I went back to Justin Ray & Megan Sweeney of Fairfield Psychological Associates in Virginia Beach for their adVice on pandemic parenting.
17	Economy	6p	7/29/2020	3:10	WAVY News 10 at 6pm	We're just one week away from the deadline to apply for another round of relief for small businesses. Since April – the hundreds of billions of dollars of government-backed loans have been pumped into the economy, meant to help keep people on the payroll. But until very recently – we knew very little about where that money went. When you find out a bigger business that obviously probably should've had better financial resources than I, that does sting a little bit. Congresswoman Elaine Luria says she's also been hearing from vulnerable businesses frustrated by the process for months -- especially those that are veteran, woman or minority owned. That's why she's pushing the SBA to release all of the data.
17	Health COVID-19	5p 6p	7/29/2020	1:50	WAVY News 10 at 5p WAVY News 10 at 6p	Whether you're exposed at home or in public - contact tracing is a vital next step after a positive Coronavirus test. Yes, Dr. Norman Oliver, who is the state health commissioner, says contact tracing is valuable, even though there are some delays in the turnaround time. He also shared information on the new app the state is launching to help. Dr. Oliver also said -- the antibody tests are showing that about 2-point-4 percent of adults are testing positive for antibodies, which is what he expects.

17	Education COVID-19	6p	9/10/2020	2:45	WAVY News 10 at 6pm	As you'd guess it can be a lot for someone who's just out of school and teaching for the first time. But there's a whole new layer on top of what they already have to prepare for when the pandemic gets in the middle of things. Teaching virtually during a Pandemic 101 - not exactly a class you can sign up for in college. Well Andrew Holt and Tucker Blythe had to learn to adjust to a brand-new assignment as first-year teachers at Kempsville High School amid a pandemic.
17	Health Economy COVID-19	11p	9/10/2020	1:45	WAVY News 10 at 11pm	Governor Ralph Northam announced today he's lifting the targeted restrictions on bars and restaurants. Those restrictions have been in place for nearly 6 weeks after a spike in cases earlier this summer - but those numbers have been declining. Northam's announcement means alcohol sales are no longer cut off at 10 pm, restaurants can stay open past midnight and gatherings of more than 50 people are allowed.

17	Health COVID-19	5p	9/14/2020	1:35	WAVY News 10 at 5pm	Health experts have warned against broad based testing for coronavirus because it ties up resources and may give people a false sense of security since the test result is only accurate for that one day. So who then, should be tested and who should quarantine? That was the topic of my Coronavirus Digital Discussion this afternoon with Dr. Todd Wagner, Director of the Western Tidewater Health District.
17	Health/Healthcare	6p	9/14/2020	2:45	WAVY News 10 at 6pm	Ticks in Virginia are common. Many people have stories of hiking through the woods and finding one on their clothing or skin. But what's not as common is a red meat allergy that people can get after getting bitten by a tick. Research about this red meat allergy has really increased over the last ten years or so. They tell me the allergy is a big problem for people in Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Missouri. Dr Jeffery Wilson, an assistant professor of allergy and Immunology at UVA, says the tick bite is the sensitizing event. It's this bite that changes your relationship with a sugar called alpha-gal. He says this sugar is present in meat and dairy.

Tonight Superintendent Dr Jared Cotton announced the district is going to wait and see how that plays out before phasing in more grades. Roughly 200 Chesapeake public schools students returned to campus on Monday. The students are English language learners and some who receive special education related services. Superintendent Cotton says so far so good!
17	Environment	5p	9/15/2020	2:00	WAVY News 10 at 5pm	Pink confetti and Nature Preserve are two things that definitely do not go together. But just a few days ago people say this part of the Pleasure House Point Natural Area was covered in pink confetti. It's so tiny that it's going to immediately diffuse into the environment. And plastics last, depending on the plastic, hundreds or thousands of years. That's why we say it's effectively permanent. Protecting areas like this is incredibly important. It really is one of the last wild spaces here in the city
17	Health/Healthcare COVID-19	530p	9/15/2020	1:40	WAVY News 10 at 530pm	Cancer diagnoses are down since the COVID pandemic started. But health experts fear that is not good news. While doctors have prescribed social distancing to protect from COVID now-- skipping cancer screenings could cost thousands of lives in the long run. The Jennings Diagnostic Center at Chesapeake Regional typically does 8 to 900 mammograms a month but under the Governor's order they - like other institutions - cancelled preventative screenings for two months at the beginning of the pandemic.
