We believe that the most significant issues facing our community as far as children are concerned are crime, drug awareness, children's safety and health, both physical and emotional, environmental concerns, literacy, plus the continuing challenges to our educational system. We incorporate positive and educational information through PSA's that are aired daily.

Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming. Much of the food Americans eat is produced by farmers and ranchers in the country's heartland, but many children don't know how it's produced. "America's Heartland" provides information about the people and processes responsible for the availability of food and fuel across the country and around the world. The show's reporters and producers tell stories in topics that include farm families, consumer issues, animal welfare and crop sustainability. Children will learn about the production of the food and fuel they consume. Some episodes also take the show abroad to countries such as Egypt and Taiwan, to show the impact American agriculture has on the global economy. This program airs on our station's secondary digital channel, 24.2.
