

Issues-Program List, July - September, 2018

From “Main Street”

July 9

306pm

Immigration attorney Anna Stenson joins us for a conversation about immigration issues in the news and what an immigration lawyer is able, and unable, to help with

14 min

July 13

306 pm

Earlier this week, NDSU held its fourth annual Conference on Food for Health. Bill Thomas talks with some of the participants, and with Kalidas Shetty, conference organizer. The conference featured international food scientists and regional people working with indigenous foodways. The themes included food security, public health, climate resilience, and environmental sustainability.

24 min

August 1

333pm

Fargo native Jennifer Baumgardner is the founder of Dottir Press, which takes a feminist approach to publishing and artistic production. The first set of books will launch this fall. Baumgardner is a writer, activist, filmmaker, and lecturer whose work explores abortion, sex, bisexuality, rape, single parenthood, and women's power. She is the former Executive Director/Publisher at The Feminist Press and was the youngest editor of Ms. Magazine.

20min

August 20

306pm

Last week the Environmental Working Group release results of testing that found the herbicide glyphosate in popular foods made with oats. Here to tell us more about the EWG organization and to discuss the concern about the chemical appearing in food is toxicologist Alexis Temkin.

13 minutes

Sept 4

306pm

We continue our conversations with the statewide candidates in North Dakota with Republican Congressman Kevin Cramer, who's looking to move into the Senate.

24min

Sept 12

333pm

Problem gambling is an underreported addiction. Addiction professionals say embarrassment can prevent addicts from seeking help. Lutheran Social Services of North Dakota launched Gambler

Healing: The 12 Steps to Gambling Addiction Recovery, an online program. LSSND hopes the ease and anonymity of following the program online will lead to more people coming forward for help. We learn more from LSSND counselor Lisa Vig and Andi, a Gamblers Choice Program participant.

20 min

From the News Department

- Board of Higher Education governance – “Some Board of Higher Education members oppose ‘tiered’ system of governance” – 9/28/18, 2:15
- Utility rates – “MDU, Otter Tail Power Customers to benefit from federal tax cuts” – 9/27/18, 3:10
- Reorganization of social service delivery – “Social Service ‘zones’ proposed” 9/24/18, 2:31
- Affordable housing needs – “HFA Director hopes to find builders interested in affordable housing” 9/18/18, 2:20
- Opioid abuse – “NDSU, Pharmacists roll out ‘One RX’ program to help prevent opioid abuse” 8/16/18, 2:40