

Issue	Date	Time Aired	Duration	Show	Segment Title	Description
Race	6/26/2015		15	Morning Amp	Former skinhead Christian Picciolini talks Hate Group Ideologies	Christian Picciolini, author of "Romantic Violence: Memoirs of an American Skinhead," offers insight on Dylann Roof and the ideologies and recruiting methods of hate groups in America.
Arts	6/26/2015		60	Barber Shop Show	Barber Shop Show 220: Looking Back and Looking Forward	On this week's Barber Shop Show, we heard Richard Steele speak with Kai El'Zabar about an exhibit called "Journey to Empowerment" that's celebrating 110 Years of the Chicago Defender. That exhibit closes this weekend in the Special Collections Exhibit Hall on the 9th floor of the Harold Washington Library Center. The exhibit shares images and memorabilia from the newspaper's first 110 years. It is a glimpse into the history of news making in America and the impact of journalism on the African American community.
Arts	6/19/2015		15	Morning Amp	ESSO! Afrojam Funkbeat celebrate cultural unity through musical fusion on self-titled debut	ESSO! Afrojam Funkbeat is Chicago-based ensemble celebrating the fusion of music, dance, cultures and unity. ESSO members Armando and Ezra joined Jesse Menendez to talk about their socio-political leaning music and celebrating the release of their self-titled full length.
Race	6/12/2015		60	Barber Shop Show	Barber Shop Show 218: African-American Music Appreciation Month	Back in 1979, President Jimmy Carter decreed that June would be Black Music Month. On this installment of the Barber Shop Show, host Richard Steele talked about the evolution of the observance, as well as a local event that will celebrate what is now known as African-American Music Appreciation Month.

Education	6/9/2015	15	Morning Amp	WBEZ's Becky Vevea with and Education Update June 2015	WBEZ Education reporter Becky Vevea brings us a dense update on education in Chicago. Byrd-Bennett resignation, charter school expansion, and her Curious City feature about whether schools in Chicago were ever any good.
Community	5/29/2015	60	Barber Shop Show	Barber Shop Show 216: Youth Shout Out Against Violence	This week, host Richard Steele discussed a new initiative called Youth Shout Out. The project aims to create a youth think tank to curb violence.
Economy	5/28/2015	60	Practically Speaking	Practically Speaking 60: The Places We've Been	Not many Americans travel extensively outside of the country, whether constrained by finances or lack of interest. Of those who have left the country, many have not ventured off of the North American continent or the Caribbean. And many more who have traveled abroad have not ventured too far from American-style eateries or popular tourist attractions. Though traveling can be an incredibly rewarding experience, there are still challenges for travelers of color, in particular.
Arts	5/28/2015	15	Morning Amp	Crime Scene explores the roots of violence and shares stories of healing through docudrama	Collaboraction Theater company is currently presenting The Crime Scene: The Next Chapter, a docudrama that explores the roots of violence in Chicago and how its effects can sometimes elicit positive change within a community. The production is running now through June 21st at The Flat Iron Building in Wicker Park. Collaboraction's Artistic Director Anthony Moseley and actor Luis Crespo joined Jesse and Jill on The Morning Amp to talk about the presentation.
Arts	5/19/2015	15	Morning Amp	Poet, author and activist Harold Green discusses Flowers For The Living and recites a love poem	Poet, author and activist Harold Green stopped by The Morning Amp and spoke with hosts Jesse and Jill about his performance at Rahm Emanuel's inauguration, and his spoken word / music event series Flowers For The Living. At the end, he treated us to one of his love poems.

Health	5/4/2015	15	Morning Amp	Mental Health Awareness Month	May is Mental health Awareness month. Paul Gionfriddo is the CEO of Mental Health America, he talks with the Morning AMP about the stigma around mental health.
Community	5/1/2015	60	Barber Shop Show	Barber Shop Show 212: North Lawndale, Community of Change	This week on the Barber Shop Show, Richard Steele talked to Sam Israel about his recent report on the history of North Lawndale. They also talked about parallels between the aspirations of Jewish residents and, later on, black residents who migrated from the Deep South.
Technology	4/29/2015	15	Morning Amp	TeenSafe App co-founder Ameeta Jain	Ameeta Jain, co-founder of the app TeenSafe talks with the Morning AMP about the parenting app that some say is an invasion of privacy.
Social Justice	4/23/2015	40	Morning Amp	Peace Prize Thursday: The Rekia Boyd Shooting & Reckless Cop Conduct	On this edition of Peace Prize Thursday, Brian and Jill discuss the outcome of the Rekia Boyd case. In 2012, Chicago police officer, Dante Servin, fired shots into a group of people near his home. The bullet struck and killed an unarmed woman, Rekia Boyd. Just last week the trial came to a close as the judge acquitted Servin of any homicide-related charges. Brian and Jill share their thoughts and speak with a caller, and we hear a report from WBEZ's Chip Mitchell.
Social Justice	4/16/2015	40	Morning Amp	Black Masculinity: Shantrelle P. Lewis, Curator of "Dandy Lion"	Today on Peace Prize Thursday, Jill and Luis talk with Shantrelle P. Lewis, curator of the new exhibition at Chicago's Museum of Contemporary Photography, "Dandy Lion: (Re)Articulating Black Masculine Identity." The exhibition highlights the Black Dandy phenomenon, a trend in popular culture that is redefining stereotypes on black masculinity.
Community	4/14/2015	15	Morning Amp	A Makeover for Chicago's Riverfront ? Josh Ellis Dir. of the Chicago Metropolitan Planning Council	Josh Ellis from the Chicago Metropolitan Planning Council stops by The Morning AMP to talk about the MPC's Great Rivers Chicago project which will create a unifying plan for all of Chicago's rivers (Chicago, Calumet and Des Plaines) and their many uses.

Arts	4/7/2015	15	Morning Amp	Alonzo Alcaraz On Diversity In Films and The Latino Film Festival	It's Cash Money Tuesday here at The Morning Amp and today Brian and Jill are talking with longtime friend of Vocalo, Alonzo Alcaraz. He talks about directing the film "Lex," which is premiering in Chicago's Latino Film Festival. They also discuss diversity in films, as well as #Lactors and #MakeYourOwn.
Community	4/3/2015	60	Morning Amp	Barber Shop Show 208 Homan Square Story Share	This week, host Richard Steele spoke with folks working with The Homan Square Story Share project, sponsored by the School of the Art Institute of Chicago. The project gathers stories from North Lawndale community members from all walks of life. They're are working with the community to create a record of the community's oral history.
Politics	4/2/2015	40	Morning Amp	Chicago Mayoral Election & Voter Engagement With ChicagoVotes' Rebecca Reynolds	It's Peace Prize Thursday here on The Morning AMP and we have only a few days until Chicago's mayoral runoff election comes to a close. This week we are speaking with Rebecca Reynolds, Executive Director of ChicagoVotes. She talks election details, voter engagement, and getting young Chicagoans to get out and vote.