FYI ISSUES REPORT-HOMLESSNESS/VOLUNTEERISM

Date: 6/18/2017

Duration: 24:00

Description: Laterras R. Whitfield is on a mission to change the face of homelessness in Dallas.

He began his effort by spending his own money to grant a homeless man's wish: to have a new tent. From there, he started helping people find jobs. He also paid for them to get makeovers, to help them feel better about themselves and to be less intimidating to others.

In this program, FYI introduces Laterras and his work. We also see how people live in one homeless camp.

The program continues with a makeover. A man called "Pops" initially tries to speak to someone on the street with a simple request, but most people are hesitant to engage with him.

Pops gets a shower, a change of clothes, and a haircut/beard trim. He's barely recognizable from the man we saw earlier.

On the street with his new look, Pops approaches people and gets friendly responses. He spirits are much higher and he vows to do what it takes to find work and get off the streets.
