Problem # 2: We All Need Help

Seeking help should be the norm, not the exception.

Cleveland Browns wide receiver Josh Gordon recently announced he'll miss training camp to focus on his mental health. Gordon has received multiple suspensions for substance abuse, but hopefully is now seeking real help and heading toward lasting recovery.

It's not rare to hear about professional athletes or celebrities with addictions. It's far more rare to hear them admit they need help.

It's worth a look in the mirror: How quick are we to seek help for our addictions—to alcohol, porn, or losing our tempers?

Why don't we? Is it pride? Shame? Is it fear that our sins will become known? Many Christian leaders conceal their sins only to descend into sexual scandal. What if they'd sought help and accountability early on?

Seeking help should be the norm for believers, not the exception. And we can always be ready to help a brother or sister in need. That's the Body of Christ. We are our brother's keeper. And our brother is ours.

Problem # 3: How To Develop A Savings Mindset

The first time I taught my sons how to ski was a little bit of a disaster. Lesson one was learning to steer with your shoulders, mainly away from the trees and other people!

See, my boys felt out of control until they learned how to point their skis in the right direction.

You may feel the same way about your finances – out of control, not sure what direction you're headed, and maybe about to crash.

But just like your shoulders can direct your skis on the slopes, a budgeting mindset can direct your financial future.

Even if you're starting on the bunny slopes, adopting a budget will bring purpose and order to your finances. It will keep you out of danger!

Crown's easy-to-use Budget Guide can help you put this mindset into practice. Download it for free today at crown.org/money.

Problem # 4: (Re)Learning To Read

So, what's your page limit these days?

A page shouldn't be a tough thing to turn, but for countless smart-phone owners, reading books—either in paper or digital form—has become really hard.

"Last year, I read four books," admits Hugh McGuire in the San Francisco Chronicle. "I needed a little something else...Something to scratch that little itch at the back of my mind—just a quick look at e-mail on my iPhone; to write, and erase, a response to a funny tweet..."

You see, he's describing the battle that we all face in this age of distraction. Constantly available electronic stimulus in various forms is rewiring our brains—it's making it difficult for us to read, and to think, deeply.

But here's the good news: electronic detox is possible. McGuire went on to describe how banishing mobile devices just from his bedroom offered him the mind space he needed to settle back into books. To really love God with all our minds, and to deeply engage His book—and any others that are worthy of our attention—may mean that we do likewise.

Problem # 5: 13th West Nile Virus Case Reported in Mobile County

The Mobile County Health Department is reporting another person has tested positive for West Nile Virus, bringing the total number of confirmed human cases in the county to 13 this year.

A confirmed lab test result has come back as positive for West Nile Virus (WNV) in the community, the Mobile County Health Department's Infectious Disease & Outbreaks (ID&O) division has reported. Since the initial lab-confirmed case was announced in August, there are now 13 humans with the disease.

"The public should assume that there are mosquitoes carrying the disease throughout Mobile County," said Dr. Bernard H. Eichold II, Health Officer for Mobile County. "Don't let your guard down."

Humans with WNV and other mosquito-borne diseases often have symptoms of high fever, severe headache, nausea, stiff neck, confusion, muscle weakness, paralysis, disorientation, and seizures that are severe enough to require medical attention, Dr. Eichold said. In rare cases, WNV can cause coma or death. The seriousness of an illness may depend on a person's health and age.

Problem # 6: How Do We Live Content Lives?

Contentment, contrary to popular opinion, is not simply being satisfied where you are. I have a better definition.

The world would like to tell you that more, bigger, better, faster will make you happy – make you content. But Scripture says the opposite!

According to Ecclesiastes 5:10, He who loves money will not be satisfied with money, nor he who loves wealth with his income; this also is vanity.

Contentment comes from knowing God's plan for your life, having the conviction to live it, and believing that God's peace is greater than the world's problems.

True contentment comes from above, not from our circumstances.
