

WOUB Radio
Issues/Programs List October to December 2023

This quarter, news and events were dominated by a special election concerning Ohio constitutional amendments, an abortion rights constitutional amendment, upcoming election issues, statehouse legislative moves, and national politics. In addition to our daily news reports and special features, WOUB broadcast news stories focused on local actions and news related to the pandemic, the opioid epidemic, economic innovation, and energy security. We continue to provide a national and international perspective with newscasts from NPR through the day, and PRI's The World at 7pm.

Our AM service continues to present Conversations from Studio B, providing information on a wide variety of topics of interest for and from the community and the University community. In addition, the daytime music format is feature rich, with features drawn from the Studio B programs, the Ohio Valley Resource, and from PRX.

We base our programming and production decision on a number of factors, including news stories and events in the region, letters and phone calls from listeners and efforts to find local angles to important national or international stories.

Story: Solar Feature

Description: We hear climate change warnings almost daily and calls to reduce fossil fuel emissions. One possible solution is solar power. Solar farms remain relatively rare in Ohio, but advocates hope they become more common.

With a report on the state of solar power in Ohio, here's public radio member station WOSU's Allie Vugrincic (Voo grin sick) .

Story: Issue 2 Feature

Description: While the constitutional amendment on reproductive rights on next week's ballot is getting most of the attention and money, the second question is a big one too. Issue 2 would make Ohio the 24th state to legalize and regulate the growing, manufacturing, testing and sale of recreational marijuana to people over 21. Statehouse correspondent Karen Kasler runs down some of the arguments for and against it.
