Description: This was the first program of the new year in which we reflected on the many programs and issues we covered in 2015. Pennsylvania is entering the new year six-months into the state's 2015-2016 fiscal year without a budget. We discussed several programs, both before June 30, 2015 and after, talking to various officials about the budget process, the shortfalls in last year's budget, how to balance the new budget, and the haggling between Republicans and Democrats that has prevented the passage of a spending plan and tax package. We talked about airports and airshows, community policing and law enforcement, education, the arts and our heritage, community celebrations, violence against women, and many other important issues. We had interviews with mayors, senators, representatives, police officers, heads of community organizations, and many other leaders. The last few years it has been tradition on the turn of the year program to be one of our frequent guests on this show, Mount Pleasant Mayor Gerry Lucia.

Guest: Mary Bach

Description: Area consumer advocate Mary Bach provided consumer affairs information for our listeners. In these difficult economic times it seems there are more scams and ways to cheat people. Bach gave information on how to safeguard against scams. In addition to being a consumer watchdog, Ms. Bach serves as the chair of the consumer issues task force for the Pennsylvania chapter of the American Association for Retired Persons. She spent considerable time discussing I-R-S and internet scams which have become problematic recently for many area residents, especially senior citizens. She also gave information on ways to keep credit card information more secure. Bach also discussed the state and federal do not call list and explained how to enroll your phone number for the do not call lists.

Guest: Stephen Limani

Description: Trooper Stephen Limani, the Public Information/Public Relations officer for Troop A of the Pennsylvania State Police, talked about a number of state police and law enforcement matters. So far this winter has been above average temperature wise and well below normal snow wise. But with heavy snow forecast for next week the focus of the program was Winter driving and Winter Driving tips. Limani explained how and why vehicles handle differently on wet, snow, and ice covered roadways. He said the two most important things you can do to avoid winter traffic accidents is slow down and allow more space and time to react. Trooper Limani explained other traffic laws and general safe driving matters.

Guest: Judy Schwank

Description: State Senator Judy Schwank discussed matters of interest and importance to our listeners. In part one of this two part series Senator Schwank talked about how Pennsylvania's addresses domestic violence. Schwank says domestic violence affects not only the person abused, but their families and others around the person abused. Legislation is being proposed to address domestic violence. Senator Schwank discussed the Marcellus Shale gas well industry. She says there are about six-thousand Marcellus Shale wells already drilled in Pennsylvania. Schwank said hearings are being held to determine what affect the industry has had on the air, water, infrastructure, and health. She says there is no reporting system to track any health issues from "unconventional well drilling." The Senator said we need state employees and health care professionals with specialized training to determine any health issues positively identified as Marcellus Shale related and track those cases. Schwank also discussed efforts to raise the state's minimum wage. She said raising the minimum wage would help the economy.

Guest: John Ventre

Description: In December of 1965 a UFO of some sort landed in Kecksburg. There has never been an official explanation of what the object was. There have been many theories about what landed or fell from the sky. It has become somewhat of a local legend with various versions of the story. It has even grown to include one witness who says he saw a scaly, three fingered hand come out of the top of the UFO. Our guest, John Ventre, the multi-state director for the Mutual UFO Network, researcher, and columnist, and Mechanical Engineer Owen Eichler believe they have solved the mystery. Mr. Ventre spoke at length about the original event, the news coverage of the event, and the facts and stories surrounding the UFO. Ventre says they believe the Mount Pleasant Township UFO incident was most likely the a crash and retrieval of a GE Mark 2 reentry vehicle launched two days earlier. Owen spent ten years researching the theory and is certain he is correct. The GE Mark 2 RV was a spy capsule that was kept secret until 1991. He says there are many reasons the military may have wanted to retrieve and keep secret this spy capsule. He believes no one official will confirm their theory as it would be embarrassing to the U.S. to now admit the existence of this spy RV they have denied since 1965.

Description: Trooper Stephen Limani, the Public Information/Public Relations officer for Troop A of the Pennsylvania State Police, talked about a number of driving, state police and law enforcement matters. The winter of 2015-16 had a slow start with the first major snowfall not coming until mid-January. With more ice and snow forecast for this week, we thought it a good public service to review good and safe winter driving techniques and habits. Much of the program was devoted to a discussion of Winter driving and Winter Driving tips. Limani explained how and why vehicles handle differently on wet, snow, and ice covered roadways. He said the two most important things you can do to avoid winter traffic accidents is slow down and allow more space and time to react. Guest: Tim Solobay

Description: Pennsylvania Fire Commissioner Tim Solobay discussed a number of issues of interest and importance to firefighters, government officials, and area residents. The commissioner discussed in great detail the dwindling number of volunteer firefighters across the state. Solobay says in the mid-70s there were more than three-hundred-thousand volunteers across the state and now there are only about 50-thousand. He referenced two state reports, the Senate Resolution 60 Report and the General Assembly's Legislative Budget and Finance Committee's resolution 148 report, which focused on problems of the volunteer fire service in Pennsylvania. Solobay discussed the findings of these two reports. He said the volunteer fire service in Pennsylvania is at a critical juncture. The commissioner said the volunteer system faces significant challenges in overcoming a growing lack of both human and financial resources. Solobay cited skyrocketing costs of fire equipment which has increased much faster than the rate of inflation and cost of living. He said protective clothing for a firefighter has risen to about three-thousand dollars per fireman. Breathing apparatus used to enter burning buildings has increased to about 75-hundred dollars. Fire-engines cost over a half-million dollars and ladder trucks about one-million. He pointed to the over 150-hours for essential basic new firefighter training as another reason people are not volunteering.

Guest: Stan Gordon

Description: Local U-F-O researcher Stan Gordon talked about U-F-O's, Big Foot, and other unexplained matters which seem to fascinate many area residents. Gordon has been interested in U-F-O's and investigating them since 1959. He founded the Westmoreland County U-F-O Study Group in 1970 and is a former director of the Mutual U-F-O Network, an organization from which he won an award. He has written several books and magazine articles, produced videos, and spoken as an expert on TV programs and at conferences about the unexplained. He is a featured speaker this coming weekend at the Monroeville Expo Mart. He discussed at length his involvement in and investigation of the famous Kecksburg, PA U-F-O incident in December of 1965. He offered his opinion on two other researchers who believe they have solved the mystery of the Kecksburg incident. Gordon gave information on his investigation into "Big Foot" sightings in the tri-state area. He talked about other unexplained incidents he has investigated.

Guest: Gina Cerilli

Description: Our guest was the Chairman of the Westmoreland County Board of Commissioners. Ms. Cerilli was elected to her first political position as a member of the three-member Board of County Commissioners last year and took office in January. She has her B.A. and M.A in business administration and has just completed her Jurist Doctorate. She is also a former Miss Pennsylvania. She said it was during her reign as Miss Pennsylvania while doing her public service work she decided she wanted to run for public office and be of service to the public. We talked with Ms. Cerilli about what she considers to be the biggest problems facing Westmoreland County and county government. Cerilli is very concerned about the growing drug abuse problem in the area. She talked about the various agencies and departments under the control of the Commissioners. She explained how some agencies are pass-through agencies that are mandated by the state or federal government and just administered by the county. There are other "row" offices and the courts which the commissioners are responsible for funding but are also mandated by law.

Guest: Roland "Bud" Mertz

Description: Our guest was Westmoreland County's Director of Public Safety Roland "Bud" Mertz. Mr. Mertz traced his history from being a Greensburg firefighter from the time he was a teenager, a Greensburg Police Dispatcher, State Police Dispatcher, Deputy Director of the State's Department of Homeland Security and Pennsylvania Emergency Management Official before accepting the Westmoreland County position. The Westmoreland County Department of Public Safety is an umbrella agency responsible for a variety of agencies including 9-1-1, Emergency Management, Park Police, and others. He talked about the importance of the 9-1-1 center which operates 24 hours a day 365 days a year. He said 9-1-1 is the link between people who have emergency problems and the first responders (police, fire, ambulance) who are coming to render aid. He spoke of upgrades and improvements to the Computer Aided Dispatch (CAD) system and countywide interoperable radio system that links all agencies with the center and one another. He explained the Local Emergency Planning Committee (LEPC), a committee of appointed volunteers, who have responsibility for looking at and helping recommend plans to respond to potential emergencies. The volunteer Hazardous Materials Response Team also operates under the direction of the Department of Public Safety.

Guest: Russell Redding
Judy Schwank

Description: Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Russell Redding and State Senator Judy Schwank discussed a number of topics. Portions of the program were recorded at the 100th Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg which is the largest indoor agriculture show in the country. The Secretary and Senator, who is Chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said agriculture is critical to the economy of the state because it is one of the largest industries in Pennsylvania. Agriculture is worth billions of dollars in terms of the export value of the products Pennsylvania farms grow and produce. Not only does Pennsylvania grow a lot of food and raise a lot of animals, but the state is number one in processing snack foods. The Secretary said we must continue to do a good job educating our future workers in agriculture. He said there are many levels of education available including high school, technical schools, colleges and universities, and graduate schools. Agriculture is big business, a big employer, and a big part of Pennsylvania's economy.
