Fred Fox, Superintendent: Wynford Local School District.

Fred Fox, Superintendent of the Wynford Local School District was the guest today giving an update on the end of school year activities taking place and the status of the school structures, modular buildings currently being used, that are going to have to be replaced and the next school board meeting.

At the March 16, 2017 school board meeting Superintendent Fox recommended to the Wynford Board of Education that they pass a resolution asking that they call upon the Ohio School Facilities Commission to come in and study the situation with the modular buildings and what they would recommend regarding repair, or replacement. The purpose of the OSFC is to get a look at the school structures and in particular the modular structure situation at the school and come up with recommendations. The next step is for the board to hire a pre-bond architect to deal with the many technical issues involved. Once the OSFC receives the request from the Wynford Board of Education, the commission will put together a proposed plan as to the specific needs and potential costs by no later than July 2017.

At that point, July 2017, a decision will have to be made by the board to proceed with a school levy, get the levy on the ballot and approved by the voters within a one year time frame. After approval of the levy at the ballot box, the OSFC will be informed that the districts share of approximately 58% of the funding has been approved. Then a proposed timetable for construction will be put into motion.

The most pressing issue facing the district in 2017 is the continuing deterioration of the modular school structures. In particular, the modular classrooms that were eventually used for class space are now rapidly deteriorating to the point that they may be deemed unsafe according to the Crawford County Health Department. In addition, they are inefficient to heat, potential fire hazards and may be too costly to fix. The Wynford administration and board have a dual responsibility of being responsible to the taxpayers and to providing a safe, secure and good learning environment for students.

The eighth grade students will be taking their field trip to Washington in early May.

Superintendent Fox gave a report on the Leader In Me program which Wynford is now completing the second year of using in the elementary school. They are pleased with the outcomes they are seeing coming from the program and thanked Advance Fiber Technology and United Ohio Mutual for the financial support of the program.

Council at Large representative Mark Makeever was the guest on the Spotlight program this morning giving an update on the progress regarding the Outdoor dining in the Business District issue here in Bucyrus.

Proposed outdoor dining in the business district of Bucyrus has been proposed and a draft of this legislation will go to Rob Ratliff the City Law Director regarding the legislative wording in the proposal. It will then go the Platting Committee for any changes and passage. After this procedure the legislation will move on to the planning commission for any changes or concern. Once it clears these hurdles the legislation will move to the full council for approval. Among many parts of this legislation, in order to have outdoor dining in these areas a business will have to fill out an application and a written plan with the Planning and Zoning Administrators Office (John Rostash). Once this has been completed properly the request will go to the Zoning Appeal Commission for Approval.

The public is really getting tired of dealing with the outdoor dining issue primarily since the process started in July 2016. The host shared the councilpersons concern that the public wants to see a resolution of this situation.

Beth Hartzler, Volunteer Coordinator, Turning Point

Beth Hartzler, Volunteer Coordinator from Turning Point was the guest today providing an update on the services of Turning Point.

Turning Point deals with helping those who have been victimized by Domestic Violence. They are involved in trying to stem the tide of domestic abuse in Crawford, Delaware, Marion, Morrow, Union and Wyandot counties. Currently, they have a domestic violence shelter located in Marion County. They are also establishing another shelter in Delaware County which is likely to open in the first quarter of 2018. One day they hope to establish a shelter in each county Turning Point serves.

One of the busiest times of the years at Turning Point is when the school year ends. This is often when the victim of domestic violence will seek to flee their abuse with their children. It is estimated that nearly a third of all females and a quarter of all males will encounter some form of domestic violence in their lifetime. Roughly 85% of domestic violence victims are women and 15% are male victims. It may take anywhere from seven to ten attempts before a domestic violence victim can break from their domestic violence that they are experiencing.

All of Turning Points services are free of charge and confidential. Services are available to any victim of domestic violence and is committed to providing and being a safe zone. Services provided by Turning Point may be food, clothing, transportation, shelter, individual/group education and support, victims' rights advocacy, information and referral, transition to independence, children's programs, community education and a 24 hour crisis line. The average stay at a victim's rights shelter averages one hundred days. Some may only be in a shelter for a few weeks and others as long as a year and a half. Each situation is depends on the individual circumstances surrounding each case.

A Turning Point Advocate can familiarize clients with Ohio laws that pertain to their situation. A victim's rights advocate helps to answer questions regarding custody, criminal charges and protection orders. In addition they can answer other questions regarding dissolution and divorce as well as property issues for victims. In general, an advocate can help victims to understand the judicial process.

An advocate is not an attorney but can provide referrals to affordable or even free legal services. Advocates also provide other services to clients as needed.

Turning Point can always use volunteers to spread awareness in Crawford County. In addition, donations of items and financially are welcome by Turning Point. To volunteer a person may contact Beth Hartzler at 740 382-8988, Extension 105.

Turning Point is dedicated to helping those victimized by domestic violence. ## Fred Fox, Superintendent: Wynford Local School District.

Fred Fox, Superintendent of the Wynford Local School District was the guest today giving an update on the end of school year activities taking place and the status of the school structures, modular buildings currently being used, that are going to have to be replaced.

At the Wynford Board of Education meeting the board passed a resolution asking that they call upon the Ohio School Facilities Commission to come in and study the situation with the modular buildings and what they would recommend regarding repair, or replacement. The purpose of the OSFC is to get a look at the school structures and in particular the modular structure situation at the school and come up with recommendations. As a part of this process, the board moved to hire a pre-bond architect to deal with the many technical issues involved and is required by the OSFC. Once the OSFC receives the request from the Wynford Board of Education, the commission will put together a proposed plan as to the specific needs and potential costs by no later than July 2017.

At that point, July 2017, a decision will have to be made by the board to proceed with a school levy, get the levy on the ballot and approved by the voters within a one year time frame. After approval of the levy at the ballot box, the OSFC will be informed that the districts share of approximately 58% (this is an estimated percentage at this time) of the funding has been approved. Then a proposed timetable for construction will be put into motion.

The most pressing issue is the continuing deterioration of the modular school structures. In particular, the modular classrooms that were eventually used for class space are now rapidly deteriorating to the point that they may be deemed unsafe according to the Crawford County Health Department. In addition, they are inefficient to heat, potential fire hazards and may be too costly to fix. The OSFC will determine whether a repair or replacement is the best option for the district. The Wynford administration and board have a dual responsibility of being responsible to the taxpayers and at the same time a mandate to provide a safe, secure learning environment for students.

It was noted that the eighth grade students successful completed their field trip to Washington in earlier in May.

Additionally, the sixth grade classes also successfully concluded their field trip to the Mohican Outdoor School.

Parents, students and staff can stay informed by checking the districts website at www.wynfordroyals.org . Parents and interested citizens may also reach the school at 419 562-4619. The Wynford High School is located at 3300 Holmes Center Rd, Bucyrus.

Congressman Jordan has represented the 4th Congressional District in the United State House of Representatives since 2007 after successfully serving in the Ohio House and Senate. He serves on the House Judiciary Committee and the House Oversight and Government Reform Committee, where he serves as Chairman of the Subcommittee on Health Care, Benefits and Administrative Rules.

He was asked about his support for the American Health Care Act that narrowly passed the U.S. House of Representatives. He originally opposed the bill because it did not do enough to replace Obamacare as it wasn't a full repeal in Representative Jordan's opinion. The bill did get rid of the employer mandate and the individual mandate that everyone must have health insurance or pay a penalty. He also felt that there were enough safeguards in the bill to protect those with preexisting conditions. Some have estimated that 1.9 million could lose their health care insurance. He did, in the end, reluctantly vote for the AHCA. It is his hope that when, and if, the Senate votes and passes the bill it will go through further changes in the joint House/Senate Conference Committee before becoming law.

Beth Hartzler, Volunteer Coordinator, Turning Point

Beth Hartzler, Volunteer Coordinator from Turning Point was the guest today providing an update on the services of Turning Point.

Turning Point deals with helping those who have been victimized by Domestic Violence. They are involved in trying to stem the tide of domestic abuse in Crawford, Delaware, Marion, Morrow, Union and Wyandot counties. Currently, they have a domestic violence shelter located in Marion County. They are also establishing another shelter in Delaware County which will open in the first quarter of 2018. It is hoped that one day, Turning Point will be able to establish a shelter in each county Turning Point serves.

One of the busiest times of the year at Turning Point is early summer when the school year ends. This is often when the victim of domestic violence will seek to flee their abuse with their children. It is estimated that nearly a third of all females and a quarter of all males will encounter some form of domestic violence in their lifetime. Roughly 85% of domestic violence victims are women and 15% are male victims. It may take anywhere from seven to ten attempts before a domestic violence victim can break from their domestic violence that they are experiencing.

People need to be aware of the signs of domestic abuse which is not always a physical situation. Sometimes it may be that someone is withholding money or has placed absolute control over the actions of another person. Turning Points website is a good source of reference as far as listing the signs of domestic abuse in a relationship.

All of Turning Points services are free of charge and confidential. Services are available to any victim of domestic violence and is committed to providing and being a safe zone. Services provided by Turning Point may be food, clothing, transportation, shelter, individual/group education and support, victims' rights advocacy, information and referral, transition to independence, children's programs, community education and a 24 hour crisis line. The average stay at a victim's rights shelter averages one hundred days. Some may only be in a shelter for a few weeks and others as long as a year and a half. Each situation is depends on the individual circumstances surrounding each case.

A Turning Point Advocate can familiarize clients with Ohio laws that pertain to their situation. A victim's rights advocate helps to answer questions regarding custody, criminal charges and protection orders. In addition they can answer other questions regarding dissolution and divorce as well as property issues for victims. In general, an advocate can help victims to understand the judicial process. An advocate is not an attorney but can provide referrals to affordable or even free legal services. Advocates also provide other services to clients as needed.

Turning Point can always use volunteers to spread awareness in Crawford County and elsewhere in their service area. In addition, donations of items and financial donations are welcome by Turning Point. To volunteer a person may contact Beth Hartzler at 740 382-8988, Extension 105.

Turning Point is dedicated to helping those victimized by domestic violence. ## Oakwood Greenhouse....

A few years ago a young man walked into the museum office on a Monday afternoon and asked me if I had ever heard of the Oakwood Greenhouse. I replied that I had not ever heard of it and most of the others on the office staff had not heard of it either. So, this year the thought of that greenhouse came into my mind and I went looking for someone who could tell me about this almost forgotten business of the rich history of this city.

The Oakwood Greenhouse was located on five lots between Euclid Avenue and West Southern Avenue.

When this greenhouse was started in 1937 by Forest and Ethel Adams there was not too much developed in the area. Oakwood Cemetery was there as well, as the Mausoleum. No other streets were developed at that time. The Beer residence at Spring and Southern was there. This home is now owned by Mike and Sharon Zahn. It is likely that possibly a few of the old mansions on the south side of Southern Avenue between Spring and Grove were standing, but not too many of them.

Forest Adams was always interested in growing and developing new strains of flowers. While in school he worked at Norton's Greenhouse on the other end of Kaler Avenue and Charles Street. From the Nortons, he learned a lot about the growing of flowers. This is where he learned how to develop different varieties of flowers. When Forest lived on Kaler Avenue, he had a small hot house where he grew lettuce, and tomatoes. This is when he decided he wanted to go into the business full time.

Forrest Adams with Granddaughter, Molly.

When Forest Adams started the greenhouse, he was joined by his wife, Ethel and son, Bud L. Adams. Business was good and soon the need for more greenhouses arose. There was a total of five greenhouses. An apartment was built over the area that served as an office and work shop for the operation. A nice retail area was also included in this double greenhouse.

Dorene Adams Gray whose grandparents were Forest and Ethel Adams, recalls that they grew most of their own flowers which were used when cut flowers were required in an arrangement. They had a large flower garden behind the main greenhouse. In this garden were various varieties of cosmos, zinnias, and dahlias. Everything grown in this area was for sale in the retail section of the greenhouse. They did a good business of making grave blankets and wreaths for many graves in Oakwood Cemetery.

Dorene also told of her grandfather, Forest, growing dandelions in the greenhouse for 'greens' he loved cooked wilted with bacon. He said this was real good eating.

Forest and Ethel had a large lemon tree in one of the greenhouses. The lemons on this tree were jumbo in size. It took both hands to hold one of them when they were picked off the tree. When the lemon tree was sold at the close of the business in 1963 it had six huge lemons on it. That lemon tree was the pride and joy of Ethel Adams, grandmother to Dorene.

At the end of one of the greenhouses was a large display of various cactus. Members of the family were always afraid of possibly falling into this display when they were youngsters.

One of the greenhouses had a large passion flower vine that went from one end of the greenhouse to the other end. This vine produced beautiful flowers each year.

When the decision was made to close the greenhouses in the fall of 1963, loyal customers came in to buy whatever they could as a remembrance from these greenhouses.

They were able to purchase many of the exotic plants and trees which Ethel Adams used for display purposes. Many rare cactus plants and Hawaiian flowering shrub with lily-type blooms were sold at this time.

October 28th, 1963, the property was sold to Weithman Construction, headed by Bernard Weithman. Immediately after the sale was complete, the razing of the buildings began. This was done so that three very modern apartment buildings could be built in that area. When these apartments were constructed they were 'state of the art' for buildings of this type. Each unit had central air, and a heating system. All of these units came with the standard equipment of electric heat, built in electric appliances which included a dishwasher, garbage disposal and laundry equipment. These apartments would be called 'Oakwood Arms'. Bernard Weithman said that since the area of Lavina Drive and Martha Avenue were developed as well as other areas close by, there was a need for upscale apartments like these in our city. Thus another early family business joined the ranks of all of the others as part of the rich history of this city.
