11am : Celebrating Our Puerto Rican Community in CT and NY

El Show de Analeh production team is proud to present special coverage of this year's Puerto Rican Parades in Connecticut and New York. We also applaud the countless hours and dedicated spirit of the volunteers and community leaders of The Connecticut Institute for Community Development (CICD) Puerto Rican Parade, Inc. Hartford Chapter and The National Puerto Rican Parade (NPRDP). They are committed to continue to promote the culture and heritage of the pioneering Puerto Rican community. In addition, friends from the CT Health Foundation will present information about the current perspective on the evolution of access to health care. Partner agency, Bridgeport Child Advocacy Coalition, presents information about the enrollment period and the benefits of health care insurance.

Guests: Sammy Vega, Mory Hernandez, Lazaro Corro Benites and Yolanda Caldera-Durant.
Co Host: Freddy Ramirez, Classico con las Estrellas

Saturday, July 11

El Show de Analeh will not air due to the special coverage of Pope Francis in Bolivia.

11am : Living with Lupus

Hispanics are two or three times more likely to be diagnosed with Lupus, an auto immune disease that occurs when the immune system becomes overactive and attacks healthy tissue. According to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Office of Minority Health, 90% of people with Lupus are women, and Hispanic women tend to develop symptoms at an age younger than women of other nationalities. Recently, the singer Selena Gomez reported that she suffers from Lupus since youth/teenager.

What are the symptoms? How is it diagnosed? What are the treatments? Guests representing the CT Lupus Foundation and Salud Primero respond to these questions. Friends living with Lupus share their own story. In addition, Hartford Hospital informs the community of the new Hartford Mobile Market, in partnership with Hartford Food Systems and Hispanic Health Council.

Guests: Juana Lopez, Irvin Garcia, Cheryl Trzcinski, Eilyn Nieves, Maria Rivera-Velez, Dr. Julian Nieves, Yvette Melendez and Michael Tommasi.

Saturday, July 25

11am : Children and Families Mobilizing To Conserve Energy

More and more families are taking advantage of the energy conservation programs available through the Weatherization Service provided by Community Renewal Team (CRT). But, many more need to benefit from this very important program that reduces the energy usage in the home. We also feature Leticia Colon, co-founder of the Green Eco Warriors (GEW), a non-profit Youth Ecology and Conservation. GEW's mission is to save the planet through education and motivation. The Analeh production is very excited to present a new health segment with Dr. Jose Azocar from CliniCare, "Tu Salud Al Dia." It's an informative segment that motivates the viewers to improve their quality of life by practicing preventive health measures and taking control of their health.

Guests: CRT Weatherization Representatives, Leticia Colon and students, Dr. Jose Azocar, Dr. Miguel Giannoni and Dr. Arley Diaz.

11am : Expanding Health Equity with the CT Health Foundation

What is health equity? If there were an easy answer to that question, there would also probably be an easy solution. But in reality, health equity is a complex and evolving concept. CHF informs our community that health equity is not just an aspiration for them, but is a framework for understanding problems and generating solutions that will help more people, especially populations of color, gain access to better health care.

El Show de Analeh, in partnership with the CT Health Foundation, will begin a series of informational and interactive TV segments featuring in depth coverage about health equity, health care partner agencies and the current perspective on the evolution of access to health care. The segments will air bi-weekly until November 2015.

This half-hour special features: Patricia Baker, Yolanda Caldera-Durant, Dr. Victor Villagra and representatives from the Hispanic Health Council.

Saturday, August 15

11am : Puerto Rican and Latino Studies Project at UCONN

Analeh visits with founders and leaders of the Puerto Rican and Latino Studies Project, a UCONN School of Social Work initiative. Established as a Focused Area of Study of Puerto Rican/Latino studies, the project helps prepare social workers to competently serve the Latino community and to advocate for changes that safeguard and enhance the quality of life and empower Latino individuals, families, and communities. The faculty also provide information about the importance of a career in Social Work for Latinos.

Guests: Professors Lirio Negroni, Catherine Medina, Lisa Werkmeister Rozas, Dr. Julio Morales y estudiante Lleidy.

Saturday, August 22

11:00AM : How to Protect Yourself From Scams

The phone rings and a voice on the other end tells you that you owe them money and need to pay up! The debt collection scam comes in a number of variations, but the common element in almost all of them is a claim that a consumer owes money on a debt and needs to pay or else face serious consequences.

Analeh presents representatives from AARP, who provide information on The AARP Fraud Watch Network, which gives access to information about how to protect yourself and your family. Non-members and members alike can get our Watchdog Alerts, stay up on con artists' latest tricks, and find out what to do if you've been victimized. It's free for everyone.

Guests: Atty. Jose Rene Martinez, Office of the Attorney General; Officer Juan Morales, State Police; Angie Martinez, Department of Consumer Protection; Byron Peterson, AARP Volunteer and Carmen Russo, AARP Volunteer. Felix Cruz, owner, Feliciano Deli, shares his experience with a recent scam.
