Southeast South Dakota Creates

by Katy Beem

This month, Dakota Life showcases just a taste of the art blossoming out of southeast South Dakota. Connected by the southern-most leg of I-29 and boundless creativity, artists in Sioux Falls and Vermillion are demonstrating canvases are to be found not just in bronze and brick, but in coffee cups and community.

EÚŃKICHETUPI: COME BACK TO LIFE WITH VERMILLION'S LATEST MURAL

Near the banks of the Vermillion and Missouri rivers, Vermillion's quaint, vibrant downtown bespeaks a community blessed by the creative milieu of a university town. Home to a sculpture walk and prodigious murals by artists Dick Termes and Rick Johns, two new public paintings have recently emerged on the walls of the Coyote Twin Theater. Eúŋkiçhetupi, meaning "Come Back to Life" in Lakota, was born of community meetings held by lead artists Reyna Hernandez, Inkpa Mani, and Liz Skye and assisted by Jenae Porter and University of South Dakota professor Amber Hansen. The issues and ideas that emerged in public conversations inspired lead artists to incorporate images and themes that address identity, motherhood, landscape, and water, among others. A tribute to women worldwide, the striking work tells the Sioux creation story while also addressing the contemporary tensions of living in modern and traditional culture. April Matson, who is Lakota and Alaska Native, and her two young daughters participated in the design and painting process. “The colors that we’re painting are very Indigenous colors,” says Matson. “The brown skin... it’s really overwhelming and emotional and beautiful.” Work for the second part of the mural, titled Wanáhca, (Lakota: “flower that blooms”) intensifies this spring.

See the mural and meet the artistic crew who stewarded the project, sometimes painting in 100+ degree heat, to bring the vision to life.

SCULPTOR DARWIN WOLF: THE HEALING PROCESS OF VERY PUBLIC ART

Art in the lobbies of buildings is not uncommon. Artists actively making art in the lobbies of buildings is less so. But sculptor Darwin Wolf likes to be mobile. One place he set up shop is the lobby of the Sioux Falls VA Medical Center to create a sizeable monument to the first female fighter pilots. “He’s located right outside our primary care waiting area,” says Erin Bultje, SFVAHCS Public Affairs Officer. “And so for the veterans to sit in the waiting area and have him to watch has been a really calming effect, is what some veterans have said. You know, they’re here for treatment and it can be a scary process. So for them to watch something and take their mind off of what could be happening, it’s been really nice for them.”

Working amidst the bustle of the VA, Wolf receives all kinds of input from the veterans. “The feedback here has been really, really good,” says Wolf. “Both on the critical side and the appreciation side. People who have really enjoyed it tell me their stories over and over again because I’m kind of telling them a story here. I’ve had three different pilots come and tell me, ‘Oh, my gosh that’s spot on.’ Or, ‘try this differently, that’s a bit off.’ They’ve been really helpful in helping me compose this and get everything really right and that’s what I want. So, their critique has been fantastic.”

ESPRESSO YOURSELF: MASTERPIECE IN A MUG

As one might expect, latte art contests, where the coffee is the canvas, are stimulating events. Baristas arrive to their coffeehouse coliseums armed with select weapons of the trade: favored stainless steel frothing pitchers and well-honed foaming techniques. SDPB captures the high spirits of camaraderie and competition at the Latte Art Throwdown, hosted at The Bean coffeehouse in Vermillion, where champion coffee artists and rising stars work deftly to turn espresso foam floating on the tops of coffee drinks into delicate but drinkable

Florida is famous for its beaches, blue water and year-round sun, but it also has a surprising wild side. It is home to pine forests, coral reefs and the famous Everglades wetland, the largest subtropical wilderness in the United States. Here, manatees swim in crystal-clear rivers, baby alligators practice their hunting skills and miniature deer roam free. But every year, this state faces the full forces of nature: from wildfires to flooding to powerful hurricanes. Now, a growing human population, climate change, and abandoned exotic pets, like the Burmese pythons that can eat alligators, also are threatening this wild paradise. With the help of pioneering scientists, can Florida's ecosystems continue to weather the storm? Find out on Nature Wild Florida.

Nash Hutmacher

The Polar Bear Becomes a Cornhusker

by Katy Beem

Blonde and burly at 6-foot-5 and 305 pounds, Chamberlain High School senior Nash Hutmacher has made a name for himself and then some. Dubbed “The Polar Bear” by wrestling parents as a sizeable freshman grappler, Hutmacher has embraced the term of endearment, hashtagging #ThePolarBear on his social media pages, including Tweets that officially announced he’s signed to play defensive tackle with the University of Nebraska this fall.

In the meantime, Hutmacher will finish out an impressive high school career wrestling for the Chamberlain Cubs. The Polar Bear hasn’t lost a match since eighth grade and has won four state heavyweight championships. This year he goes for his fifth individual state wrestling title.

The son of powerlifter Joe Hutmacher, Nash first hit the mat as a first grader. “I love competition, that’s kind of what drives me, honestly,” says Hutmacher. “Competition creates greatness. If you’re beating everybody by 50 points each time you played football or something, you wouldn’t get any better. Tight matches against good kids makes you better. I want to leave no doubt that I’m the best whether it’s wrestling, football, or any other place.”

To ensure he’s always testing his limits, Hutmacher literally goes looking to get beat, driving an hour to Winner or Mitchell to wrestle against different athletes and mix up his regular training. But he’s quick to credit the friends he’s met and the fun he’s had along the way. “Anyone on my team or anyone else, I’m no better than they are,” says Hutmacher. “I may be able to beat them in a wrestling match, but to me being a good athlete is also about being a good person. I don’t need to go out and brag or show off too much – you can let your talking be done on the mat or in the football game.”

When he’s not on the mat or gridiron, Hutmacher is also a shot-putter who likes to hunt and fish the Missouri. In fact, Nebraska coaches

Scott Frost, Ryan Held and Tony Tuioti took Hutmacher and his family fishing 20 minutes south of Lincoln during his spring official visit. Wooing aside, Hutmacher weighed his choices, which included Wisconsin and Oregon, carefully. “It was honestly a really, really tough decision,” says Hutmacher. “I’m really going to miss wrestling. With football, you’re on the field with your helmet and shoulder pads, you don’t really get to talk with the guys. At wrestling tournaments, you meet a lot of great people. I’m going to miss the camaraderie. But football is where I feel I have the most potential to succeed.” 🐻

SDPB livestreams and broadcasts all matches at the South Dakota State Wrestling Championships, February 27-29. See p. 24 for more information.

JOURNALIST SETH TUPPER JOINS SDPB NEWS

Tupper is the New Business and Economic Development Reporter

SDPB is pleased to announce that Seth Tupper has been named SDPB's new Business and Economic Development Reporter. Tupper is based at SDPB's Black Hills Studio in Rapid City.

Raised in Wessington Springs and Kimball, and a graduate of Kimball High School, Tupper earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from South Dakota State University. Tupper most recently reported for the Rapid City Journal, where he spent five years covering politics, Black Hills-based natural-resource management, county government and numerous other topics. Prior to his tenure at the Journal, Tupper worked for The Daily Republic in Mitchell and The Daily Globe in Worthington, MN. Tupper wrote the 2017 book Calvin Coolidge in the Black Hills (Arcadia Publishing), about the president's eventful three-month stay in 1927.

"Seth Tupper is an award-winning, investigative journalist and author who is respected and trusted by South Dakotans," says Cara Hetland, SDPB Director of Radio. "We are so fortunate to have him join the SDPB team. His knowledge of and passion for South Dakota is a bonus that will easily translate across all of our content platforms. For several years Seth has been a regular on SDPB's "Dakota Political Junkies" segment during In the Moment, and a contributor to South Dakota FOCUS, demonstrating that he's comfortable putting his voice to his stories and that he's passionate about being fair and balanced. I can't wait for our audience to get to know him and appreciate his storytelling and reporting skills first-hand."

"I've been watching and listening to public broadcasting as long as I can remember, starting in childhood with Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood and Sesame Street," says Tupper. "These days, I'm an avid SDPB Radio listener, and I frequently use the Passport app with my family to watch PBS and SDPB programming on our smart TV. As I make the transition to working with SDPB, I am excited to join a South Dakota institution that is run by South Dakotans for South Dakotans. And I'm eager to continue doing what I love, which is chronicling the people, places and history of this great state."🐾

PBS Now Live on YouTube TV

Public television is now streaming live on YouTube TV. Dedicated live channels for PBS and PBS KIDS, as well as on-demand programming, are now available to YouTube TV subscribers, expanding PBS's digital footprint and offering viewers additional ways to stream PBS content. To access the full line-up available in South Dakota, visit the YouTube TV live guide.

"Every year, more South Dakota households watch their favorite PBS programs in new ways," says SDPB Executive Director Julie Overgaard. "SDPB wants to ensure our trusted content is available to all South Dakota households across as many platforms as possible. We're glad YouTube TV recognizes public television's unique structure and worked with member stations to provide South Dakotans with more ways to watch the programs that they love."

"We are excited to partner with SDPB on this unique partnership to further our commitment to providing a best-in-class experience for our users," said Lori Conkling, Global Head of Partnerships at YouTube TV. "PBS and PBS KIDS are highly requested channels by our users, and we're thrilled to be able to add these to the YouTube TV lineup starting today."

YouTube TV represents SDPB's first local livestreaming partnership and includes episodes and on-demand content from locally produced shows and PBS favorites, including American Experience, Antiques Roadshow, Nature, and Masterpiece. PBS KIDS 24/7 on YouTube channel extends the organization's mission of helping prepare children for success in school and life through trusted, educational media, available anytime and anywhere. Kids can chose favorites like Sesame Street, Daniel Tiger's Neighborhood, and Odd Squad.

In addition to YouTube TV, SDPB content is available on all SDPB-branded PBS platforms, including PBS.org and PBSKIDS.org, as well as the PBS Video app and PBS KIDS Video app available on iOS, Android, Roku, Apple TV, Amazon Fire TV, Samsung TV and Chromecast. SDPB members are also able to view an extended library of quality public television programming via Passport.

We spend about one-third of our lives sleeping. Why? Believe it or not, scientists don't know for sure. But evidence is building that sleep may play a crucial role in strengthening memories and facilitating learning, not just in humans but in most animals. NOVA scienceNOW visits research labs at the University of Pennsylvania and MIT, where scientists are peering into the brains of dozing flies and rats to understand the connection between sleep and memory. Following the Civil War, all-Black towns emerged in what is now modern-day Oklahoma. By 1905, Black families seeking to make a new start enjoyed fellowship and got a reprieve from widespread racism. They acquired one and a half million acres of land in the state. Initially founded in an effort to convince the United States to create an all-Black state, most of these towns have since been swallowed up by nearby counties and cities, but a few cling heroically to life. Residents now fight to ensure that their towns retain independence and character. Local community members and historians give contemporary commentary as the story unfolds on America ReFramed Struggle & Hope.

Prince Among Slaves tells the story of Abdul Rahman, a trilingual military general and heir to a West African nation the size of Great Britain, who did not return to Africa for 40 years. In that time, he toiled on Foster's plantation. He married a fellow slave, Isabella, and they had nine children. Gradually, he also became the most famous African in America, attracting the support of President John Quincy Adams and Secretary of State Henry Clay. Abdul Rahman returned to Africa at the age 67, only to fall ill and die just as word of his return reached his former kingdom. Throughout a life of Shakespearean dimensions, Abdul Rahman maintained his dignity and hope for the freedom of his people.

On the morning of July 16, 1949, a young Lake County farm wife accused four young black men of rape. The case of The Groveland Four played out over several years, and led to a race riot, torture, multiple murders, two trials, a Supreme Court reversal and the assassination of a Florida civil rights leader. Remember the case that helped lay a foundation for the end of Jim Crow segregation and the start of the Civil Rights Movement.

New Schedule on Create-SDPB3

Hello, SDPB watchers and supporters!

In response to your input, Create now has more lifestyle genres, more public broadcasting icons like Rick Steves and Bob Ross, and more health and wellness.

In response, we've revamped the SDPB3 Create schedule. With dedicated time slots for viewer favorites, we're able to expand our genres. Create welcomes fitness content for the first time, joining healthy food shows to help viewers create healthier lifestyles. Because we know many of you are "weekend warriors" we have dedicated spots for fitness, gardening and home improvement.

From Fitness to Food, Weekly Showcases and Weekend Showcases, and popular content in dedicated timeslots, Create has something for everyone.

Let us know what you think! Send us an email at katy.beem@sdpb.org.

Thank you for watching and thank you for supporting SDPB.

MILES DAVIS

BIRTH OF THE COOL

JAS Quintet Plays Miles
Live on Jazz Nightly
Thursday, Feb. 13, 8pm (7 MT)

A visionary known for his restless aesthetic, Miles Davis is widely regarded as one of the most innovative, influential, and respected figures in music. With full access to the Miles Davis Estate, a gripping new documentary from American Masters, Miles Davis: Birth of the Cool, premieres Tuesday, Feb. 25, at 8pm (7 MT) on SDPB1. The film features never-before-seen footage, including studio outtakes from Davis's recording sessions, rare photos and new interviews. Quincy Jones, Carlos Santana, Clive Davis, Wayne Shorter, Davis's son Erin Davis and nephew Vince Wilburn, bassist and Davis collaborator Marcus Miller, and Ron Carter are just a few of the luminaries weighing in on the life and career of the cultural icon.

From award-winning filmmaker Stanley Nelson (Freedom Riders, The Black Panthers: Vanguard of the Revolution, Jonestown: The Life and Death of the People's Temple) the film takes an unprecedented deep dive into the world of a beloved musical giant, and earned a Grammy nomination for "Best Music Film."

To celebrate the premiere, the JAS Quintet will play a selection of Miles Davis and other artists on Jazz Nightly with Karl Gehrke, Thursday, Feb. 13, at 8pm (7 MT), at SDPB's Sioux Falls Studios. The event is free and open to the public.

"The JAS Quintet first explored the music of Miles Davis from his early days in bop to his first electric records for their Jazz Curators show in 2015," says Karl Gehrke. "They'll share some of that music live in our Sioux Falls studio for a fun evening of jazz talk and a live Jazz Nightly performance." 🎷

Karl Gehrke.

JAS Quintet features the classic jazz quintet instrumentation of trumpet (Jim Spiers), saxophone (Joel Shotwell), piano (Jeffrey Paul), bass (Andrew Reinhartz), and drums (Daniel Heier).

HOLIDAY SUPERHEROES
SEASONS GREETINGS

#Cindy Fuerst Keep it going. What a wonderful gift you're giving for these children and their families.

#Donna Dauwen Makes my heart happy.

South Dakotans Respond to SDPB Digital Shorts

Holiday Superheroes

In the season of giving, a time when families come together to celebrate, some families must spend the holiday season in a hospital.

Terry Mattke and Paul Hendrix are on an important mission, donning the roles of superheroes to bring joy to sick children. Mattke is "The Sioux Falls Batman" and Hendrix is "Captain America."

Parent Laura Burkhard says, "For my son to just have a moment of pure happiness and smile because he sees Batman while he is in the hospital is a lot more than I could ever hope for as the parent of a child that has spent so much time in the hospital."

Dakota Life: Recipes of Our Grandmothers

South Dakotans responded on Facebook as traditional dishes evoked memories of days gone by.

Transportable and easy to eat on the go, pasties were a mainstay of miners in the early days of the Black Hills.

Today, pasties are a "church basement" food tradition that brings the community together. Read the article at SDPB.org/blogs/dakota-life/the-pasty.

DAKOTA LIFE: RECIPES OF OUR GRANDMOTHERS

THE PASTY

#Deb Dufour The story behind pasties - interesting read. Now I know where the recipe came from. Grandma must have made these for grandpa when he worked in the mine.

#Roberta Styles Over 50 years ago we lived in Lead, I remember King's market. The pasties were great.

# William Jacob Stone @ Roberta Styles in the early years of King's pasties, Cornish pasties were made by Bessie Harrison in her kitchen on Peak Street. She would sell them at Kings 2 or 3 days a week. They were THE best. I remember several times going to Bessie's home to pick up a box of pasties my mother had ordered.

AEBLESKIVER

#Brieanna Franze One of my very favorites that my mother would make me growing up. She would take Aebleskiver and roll it in powdered sugar right away. Ohhhh how I love them!

#Laura Dahle I have the original Aebleskiver recipe from my Danish Great Grandmother. It starts with a dozen eggs. We had them every Christmas.

Also celebrate the Danish treat, Aebleskiver. Roberta Rasmussen and Kayla Nielsen share their family traditions and the history around the apple pancakes.

In the Moment Monday Mindset

If Ralph Waldo Emerson's suggestion that "you are what you think about all day long," rings true for you, start your week with SDPB for an opportunity to set your mind right.

Each Monday, writer, entrepreneur, and "professional encourager" Melissa Johnson joins host Lori Walsh on In the Moment for a short conversation about small changes that can add up to big things. Johnson, the owner of Sioux Falls-based Oh My Cupcakes! and author of Fingers in My Frosting, Johnson is a certified speaker from author Jon Gordon's (The Power of Positive Leadership) positivity camp.

Monday Mindset airs Mondays on In the Moment on SDPB Radio and SDPB.org.

Kevin Cole & Joe Obermueller

Monday, February 17

Loving Arms, a new play by University of Sioux Falls (USF) English professor Kevin Cole premieres at USF February 19. USF theatre professor Joe Obermueller directs the work, which explores art, relationships and the threat of violence as three strangers – an unemployed linguist, a city traffic manager, and a docent—forge an unlikely friendship in conversation about two paintings: one by Artemisia Gentileschi and one by Michelangelo Caravaggio while at a world famous art museum. As the three celebrate their newfound friendship, an American shooter enters. Can what happens next be considered parable, allegory, or just another day in America? Cole and Obermueller discuss staging the work.

Cole Allen

Born and raised in Minneapolis, Cole Allen is a gifted rock and blues guitarist known for his preternatural talent and physicality (Allen often plays his axe behind his back and above his head.) As lead guitarist for the Sena Ehrhardt Band, Allen has opened for B.B. King, ZZ Top, Dickey Betts, Robert Cray, Gregg Allman, REO Speedwagon, and toured with Johnny Winter during some of his final performances.

Catch Allen's electric performance filmed live this summer at the Levitt Stage in Sioux Falls on SDPB's No Cover, No Minimum.

Steves on SDPB Radio: A Virtual Café for Travelers

A lively mix of guest interviews and listener calls, Travel with Rick Steves goes beyond the Europe that Mr. Steves is famous for, with shows covering travel and cultures across every continent. The author of 30 travel guidebooks and longtime host of the Rick Steves' Europe TV series, Steves was attracted to radio because of its ability to interact with listeners in ways that TV cannot.

"Radio provides a virtual café for travelers to meet up, sharing tips, insights and discoveries," says Steves. "On my radio show, rather than being the tour guide, as I am on TV, I get to host the coming together of experts on various cultures and travel themes with our callers and listeners. Serving as the conduit for all this exciting travel information comes with a downside: now I want to travel everywhere our radio show does."

Travel with Rick Steves airs Sundays at 10am (9 MT) on SDPB Radio and SDPB.org.

NOVA DOG TALES

Dogs have long been dependable companions by our sides. But it wasn't always that way — and a look at their closest living relative, the wolf, makes it clear why. Researchers reveal how humans tamed fearsome canines over tens of thousands of years, and how modern dog intelligence and behaviors have made them indispensable companions.

NOVA CAT TALES

They may have stolen many hearts — and the internet — but cats can be perplexing pets. As much cuddly and playful as they are aloof and uncaring, they've often raised the question: Did humans ever really domesticate felines? And what more can science tell us about a relationship that predates history?

THE MIGHTY WEASEL

NATURE premieres The Mighty Weasel. Members of the weasel family are often portrayed as villains and associated with unsavory behavior. But do they deserve this bad reputation? To find out, this film follows the adventures of first-time stoat mom Bandita raising her kits in a unique garden set up; shows tiny orphan weasel Twiz on her journey back to the wild; discovers that a weasel's bite is even stronger than a tiger's; and how the fearless honey badger has brains and not just brawn. It's time to reveal the truth about the weasel family.

POLAR EXTREMES

Join renowned paleontologist Kirk Johnson on an epic adventure. Follow a trail of fossils found in all the wrong places, from beech trees in Antarctica to hippo-like mammals in the Arctic. What caused such dramatic changes at the ends of the Earth? And what controls the dial on Earth's thermostat? Today, the Arctic is warming faster than anywhere else in the world, and Antarctica has locked in its ice enough water to raise sea level by a terrifying 200 feet. Johnson uses Earth's history as a cipher to decode what is going on today, and what the future may hold.

FROM THE BARD TO NIOBRARA

Every summer since 2011, "the play is the thing" at Prentis Park in Vermillion. The South Dakota Shakespeare Festival stages a work by the bard in the park's stone amphitheater, an outdoor performance space constructed in 1937 by the WPA.

Actors and technical hands from throughout South Dakota and the U.S. converge in this town of 10,000 for several weeks of rehearsals, set-building, and costume creation. While in Vermillion, the cast and crew gather with South Dakotans for performances and workshops that transcend Shakespeare. Meet West Coast-based actor Kenny Ramos (Diegueño Iipay/Kumeyaay) who led students like Kendra Elk Looks Back of He Dog and Kevin Hare (Ihanktonwan) of Wagner through theatre workshops, including a reading of Mary Kathryn Nagle's play Return to Niobrara, about Chief Standing Bear's case against the U.S. "It directly deals with Ponca and Omaha histories and stories," says Ramos. "Bright Eyes, who is the daughter of Chief Iron Eye of the Omaha people, and here we are, in what is Omaha territory." Elk Looks Back and Hare share their experiences with fine arts and representation. "I played the dad in one of the plays," says Hare. "I got to experience what it's like for parenthood figures of Native American children to experience what it's like for their children to be discriminated against for who they are. It puts you in a place where you can experience it almost firsthand. You can see what it's like for other people to be in the situations that they're in." 🐦

Traverse to southeast South Dakota and appreciate the creativity in this little corner of the state, in an all new Dakota Life. Premieres Thursday, February 6, at 8pm (7 MT) on SDPB1 and rebroadcasts Sunday, February 8, at 1pm (noon MT).

SPONSORS SUPPORT OUR MISSION

"There isn't anything more effective we do marketing-wise than our sponsorship with SDPB."
– Carolyn Hofer, Independent Insurance Agents of South Dakota

"It's very easy to turn on the radio or television and just enjoy South Dakota Public Broadcasting. There are no commercials and the programming is of extreme quality. But that's not really fair. If we're able, we really should contribute. We, as a company, came together to underwrite programming on public radio and public television because we felt the need to contribute to help South Dakota Public Broadcasting in reaching its people." – John Fiksdal, Media One

"I always have confidence South Dakota Public Radio stories have been vetted and will be presented fairly and thoroughly."
– Vernon Brown, VP, Marketing & Communications, SDN Communications

SDPB IS LOCAL CONTENT AND STATEWIDE COVERAGE

SDPB reaches over 200,000 households monthly.<sup>2</sup> Our viewers are the most educated, influential and community-minded audience in South Dakota.

SDPB's Emmy-nominated local TV productions showcase South Dakota newsmakers, lawmakers, athletes and artists to create a personal connection with viewers from remote ranchlands to bustling city centers.

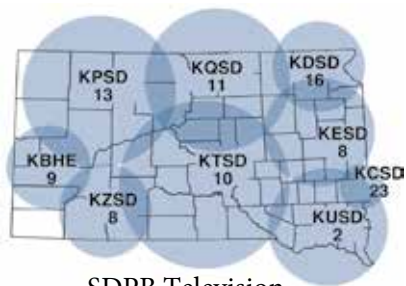

SDPB Radio is South Dakota's source for NPR and more than 30 hours of local news, issues, and arts programming.

SDPB provides statewide coverage – across I-90 and up and down I-29 and everywhere in between – 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.
