Segments:

Saving the DeSmet Newspaper

When the owner of the DeSmet and Lake Preston newspapers retired, members of the DeSmet community purchased both. Now the Kingsbury Journal serves the region and is run by a largely volunteer staff.

Dale Blegan – Former Owner/De Smet News, Tim Aughenbaugh – Volunteer/De Smet Development Corp, Nancy and Bob Montross – De Smet resident. Producer: Brian Gevik

Discovering His Roots

Even though rodeo has been a big part of the Andersen family near Viborg for decades, it wasn't a sport that Shane Andersen took seriously until recently.

Now as a high school graduate, Shane plans to continue his rodeo career as a college student-athlete.

Sandy Andersen – Shane’s mom, Shane Andersen – rodeo athlete, Rob Kessler – Shane’s Football Coach, Bill Andersen – Shane’s uncle, Leland Andersen – Shane’s Dad, Brooklyn Andersen – Shane’s sister.

Producer: Nate Wek

A Second Chance at Life

Lisa Casper received a heart transplant 30 years ago. Her doctor didn’t expect her to reach 40. She’s 52 now, her second heart has lasted longer than the first. Lisa and her family celebrated the mile marker and are thankful for the gift of life. Lisa Casper – Heart Transplant Recipient Producer: Brenda Wade Schmidt

Cabins in the Hills

Private cabins, public land. Decades ago, both the Forest Service and Custer State Park allowed people to move private cabins onto public land. Both programs have long since ended and no new cabin permits are being issued anymore, but hundreds of the old cabins still remain. Many cabins are passed down through generations of families, and many are uniquely historic and rustic. We’ll visit several of the cabins, talk to the owners, and talk to some officials who administer permits for the cabins.

Lloyd Marsden – Sheridan WY, Brad and Connie McKinney – Custer, Don and Stephanie King – Chadron NE, Mary Circa – Custer, Matthew Jurak – Black Hills National Forest Producer: Set Tupper

Going Dutch

Clear Lake, SD is home to a unique lakeside supper club. The Dutch Oven Group (dog) gathers once a month over the summer for a potluck dinner prepared over fire, typically with Dutch ovens. Typically, Carey Holt and Karri Kreger are the regulars, gatherings might vary from 10 participants to 30. Guests range from experienced Dutch oven cooks to folks just learning to others who are curious and bring a pan of bars, salad or other side dishes.

Karri Kreger - Dutch Oven Enthusiast, Carey Holt- Dutch Oven Enthusiast, Dustin Mattson - Dutch Oven Enthusiast, Sheila Pitts - Dutch Oven Enthusiast. Producer: Melissa Sievers
