1,000 companies in all 50 states Wednesday the government plans to inspect their hiring records. Businesses across the U.S. that rely on low-skilled labor are working to stave off Immigration and Customs Enforcement audits, which can lead to the loss of large numbers of employees, reduced productivity and legal expenses. Wednesday's surge in so-called silent raids drew criticism from both the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and immigrant advocates. It brought to 2,338 the number of companies audited by ICE in the fiscal year that began Oct. 1 and topped the prior year's record of 2,196. The audits, affecting such businesses as garment makers, produce growers and fast-food chains, result in the firing of every illegal immigrant found on a company's payroll.

HISPANIC GROUPS DISPUTE NEW CALIF. POLITICAL MAPS

JAIME GARCIA- LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

PKG 1:51

Hispanic advocacy groups in California are alarmed about new political maps that sketch proposed boundaries for congressional and state legislative districts, saying the changes will disenfranchise the fastest-growing segment of the population in a state where the number of Hispanic politicians has soared during the past two decades. The debate over that concern is likely to escalate in the coming weeks, as an independent redistricting commission takes public comment and wrestles with revisions before voting on a final version Aug. 15. Since the commission released its draft earlier this month, advocacy groups have begun organizing their members and are urging Hispanic voters to attend public hearings in force to voice their concerns. Several groups have submitted their own proposals, and the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund raised the possibility of legal action under the 1965 Voting Rights Act if it is not satisfied with the final results.

GEORGIA'S HARSH IMMIGRATION LAW COSTS MILLIONS IN UNHARVESTED CROPS

VO: 45

After enacting House Bill 87, a law designed to drive illegal immigrants out of Georgia, state officials appear shocked to discover that HB 87 is, well, driving a lot of illegal immigrants out of Georgia... Thanks to the resulting labor shortage, Georgia farmers have been forced to leave millions of dollars' worth of blueberries, onions, melons and other crops unharvested and rotting in the fields. It has also put state officials into something of a panic at the damage they've done to Georgia's largest industry.... The results of that investigation have now been released. According to survey of 230 Georgia farmers conducted by Agriculture Commissioner Gary Black, farmers expect to need more than 11,000 workers at some point over the rest of the season, a number that probably underestimates the real need, since not every farmer in the state responded to the survey.

WALMART SUPREME COURT
PABLO SANCHEZ. WAHINGTON, DC
PKG 2:10

Wal-Mart scored a big victory on Monday when the Supreme Court threw out the largest sex-discrimination case in U.S. history, but it has been forced to address the issues raised in the suit. Since the sex-bias lawsuit was given class action status in 2004 on behalf of 1.6 million women, Wal-Mart Stores Inc. has added more policies for advancing women in the workplace. As a result, Wal-Mart says the percentage of entry and midlevel women managers has increased over the past five years from 38.8 percent to 41.2 percent. Some analysts say Wal-Mart is moving in the right direction, but has a ways to go. They note that there is only one woman among CEO Mike Duke's 11 direct reports.

GEORGIA HB 87 LAW PROTEST
VO :20

A federal judge in Atlanta will hear arguments on an attempt by civil liberties groups to block Georgia's new law cracking down on illegal immigration from taking effect. The hearing before Judge Thomas Thrash is set for Monday. Thrash has indicated he may rule from the bench. Civil liberties groups have asked Thrash to block the law from taking effect until a lawsuit they filed earlier this month has been resolved. That lawsuit asked the judge to find the law unconstitutional and to keep authorities from enforcing it. Thrash will also hear arguments Monday on the state's motion to dismiss the lawsuit.

SAME SEX MARRIAGE
VO :20

Old-time, backroom politics faced down hundreds of chanting protesters from each side of the highly charged gay marriage debate in New York on Monday as the issue stalled again over whether religious groups could be protected from discrimination charges under a same-sex marriage law. And Albany's notoriously entrenched politics won, for now. After a three-hour conference behind closed doors, while groups from each side waited in a stifling hot hallway, Senate Republicans emerged without comment. A vote within the conference to even move the bill to the floor for final legislative approval was pushed to at least Tuesday as private negotiations continue between Republican Senate leader Dean Skelos and Democratic Gov. Andrew Cuomo, who made same-sex marriage a major initiative.

FORECLOSURES

LOURDES DEL RIO. MIAMI, FLORIDA

PKG 2:16

Millions of homeowners in distress are getting some unexpected breathing room - lots of it in some places. In New York State, it would take lenders 62 years at their current pace, the longest time frame in the nation, to repossess the 213,000 houses now in severe default or foreclosure, according to calculations by LPS Applied Analytics, a prominent real estate data firm. Clearing the pipeline in New Jersey, which like New York handles foreclosures through the courts, would take 49 years. In Florida, Massachusetts and Illinois, it would take a decade.

IMMIGRANTS SUE OVER LOSS OF GREEN CARDS

JAIME GARCIA. LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

PKG 2:24

A class-action lawsuit was filed against the State Department in federal court in Washington by immigrants from more than 20 countries who say officials mishandled the annual lottery of permanent resident visas. The New York Times reports that after notifying more than 20,000 foreigners this year that they had won the permanent visas, known as green cards, the State Department canceled them, saying a computer glitch had tainted the process. The immigrants, who are all living legally in the United States, had waited years for the green cards and were bitterly disappointed to have them granted and then taken away.

SOUTH CAROLINA PASSED BILL SB20

VO :23

A bill that requires police in South Carolina to check suspects' legal status and mandates that all businesses check their hires through a federal online system is one step from becoming law. The House voted 69-43 on Tuesday to agree with the Senate's changes and send the bill to Gov. Nikki Haley. Her spokesman says she will sign it. The bill expands on an anti-illegal-immigration law passed in 2008 that was considered among the nation's toughest. The bill requires officers to call federal immigration officials if they suspect someone is in the country illegally. The question must follow an arrest or traffic stop for something else. The measure bars officers from holding someone on that suspicion.

SOUTH CAROLINA SB20 IMMIGRATION BILL

JAIME ZEA - COLUMBIA, JAIME ZEA

PKG: 2:24

A bill that requires police in South Carolina to check suspects' immigration status and mandates that all businesses check their hires through a federal online system received final legislative approval Tuesday. The House voted 69-43 to agree with the Senate's changes and send the bill to Gov. Nikki Haley, whose spokesman confirmed she will sign it. House Speaker Bobby Harrell noted South Carolina is the latest in a string of states to place similar requirements on law enforcement. "If Washington refuses to effectively support our law enforcement officers by enforcing immigration laws, it is left up to the states to stand up and do what is right," said Harrell, R-Charleston. "That is exactly what South Carolina did today by making sure our officers have the enforcement tools they need during this time of federal indecision."

MENENDEZ RE-INTRODUCE IMMIGRATION REFORM BILL

JAIME GARCIA - LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

PKG: 2:10

Sen. Robert Menendez_(D-NJ) and six Senate Democrats introduced a beefed-up immigration reform bill Wednesday, legislation they hope will appeal to hawkish Republicans who have pushed for tougher laws. Menendez and his colleagues said the Comprehensive Immigration Reform Act of 2011 will focus on strengthening border security, tougher worksite enforcement, and a requirement that the roughly 11 million undocumented in the U.S. register with the government. The legislation was drafted, Menendez said, with the intention of making it more palpable to those in Congress who prefer a tough approach to immigration.

CHOLESTEROL AND DIABETES RISK
LUIS MEGID - SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA

PKG: 1:49

Cholesterol-lowering drugs called statins, which have been shown to lower a person's risk for heart attack, can also slightly increase a patient's risk for developing diabetes, particularly at higher doses. The findings, based on new analyses of five clinical trials involving 32,752 patients, raise new questions about how much we really know about the longterm effects of statins, which are the most widely prescribed drugs in the US. Doctors cautioned that patients should not overreact to the diabetes news, saying that the increased diabetes risk is very small, and that the benefits of statin therapy still far outweigh any side effects. "I don't think it's very clinically important," said Steven E Nissen, chairman of cardiology at the Cleveland Clinic. "What I worry about here is that people will read this story and say, 'I don't want to get diabetes so I'm going to stop my statin ,' and then they have a heart attack."

LAMAR SMITH BLACK EXEC ORDER IMMIGRATION
LOURDES MELUZA - WASHINGTON, DC

PKG: 2:14

Ostensibly to decrease the number of crimes committed by deportable noncitizen offenders who have served their criminal justice sentence, Rep. Lamar Smith (R-Texas) recently proposed an enhanced immigration detention bill that would allow the Department of Homeland Security to detain such noncitizens indefinitely, with very little judicial oversight. The "Keep Our Communities Safe Act of 2011" plays on our collective fears of the dangerous foreigner, the serious offender who presents a lifelong menace and should have been deported, or perhaps never been permitted to join us. It promises the safety we crave - at the expense of civil liberties and human sacrifice.\

FLORIDA SECURE VISAS ACT
LOURDES DEL RIO - MIAMI, FLORIDA
PKG: 2:11

The House Judiciary Committee today passed the Secure Visas Act. The bill (H.R.1741), introduced last month by Rep. Lamar Smith (R-TX), would unconstitutionally eliminate judicial review of executive branch decisions to revoke visas, running contrary to clear Supreme Court precedent and Congress' own legislation enacted in 2004. A similar bill eliminating judicial review has also been introduced in the Senate.

The chase began when Midland police tried to initiate a traffic stop around 4:30 p.m. near Interstate 20 and Lamesa Road. Police wanted to detain Baeza for suspicion because he is linked to another investigation, said Sgt. Rick Lewis, the Midland police officer in command of the pursuit.

SOUTH CAROLINA IMMIGRATION BILL

VO: 40

South Carolina Gov. Nikki Haley has signed an illegal immigration law that requires police to call federal immigration officials if they suspect someone is in the country illegally. That question must follow an arrest or traffic stop for something else. The law bars officers from holding someone solely on that suspicion. The Republican governor signed the bill Monday and said the new law won't lead to racial profiling. She stressed that her own parents were legal immigrants to this country. They are from India. Profiling is one issue the American Civil Liberties Union is raising as problematic in its vow to sue over the law. The legislation also makes it a felony to make fake photo identification for illegal immigrants.

GEORGIA'S NEW ILLEGAL IMMIGRATION LAW

MARTIN BERLANGA- MIAMI, FLORIDA

PKG 2:00

A U.S. federal judge Monday blocked key parts of Georgia's new illegal immigration crackdown from taking effect July 1. Judge Thomas Thrash issued a preliminary injunction halting Georgia from authorizing police officers to question criminal suspects about their immigration status. He also blocked portions of the measure, passed by the Republican-controlled state legislature and signed by Republican Governor Nathan Deal in May, that would make it a crime to knowingly harbor or transport an illegal immigrant. Enforcement of U.S. immigration laws traditionally is handled by federal, not state, authorities. But many Republicans fault federal efforts to stem illegal immigration. Georgia is latest U.S. state to pass tough immigration legislation only to have it blocked in the courts. Courts have also halted key parts of laws passed by Arizona and Indiana. Meanwhile, South Carolina Republican Governor Nikki Haley Monday signed into law a bill that requires police to check the immigration status of anyone they stop or arrest for another reason and suspect may be in the country illegally.

DREAM ACT

VO: 40

Congressional Democrats are making a push to pass the DREAM Act - the long-simmering legislation that would create a path to citizenship for illegal immigrants brought into the country as children - with the first-ever Senate hearing on the legislation set for Tuesday. Some big guns, including Education Secretary Arne Duncan and Homeland Security Secretary Janet Napolitano, are set to testify at the session chaired by Sen. Dick Durbin (D-Ill.) and hosted by the Senate Judiciary's Subcommittee on Immigration, Refugees and Border Security. The legislation, first introduced in 2001 and reintroduced several times since then, had earlier received the support of some Republicans but has fallen short of passage. Most recently, late last year, Senate Democrats attempted to fold the act into a defense-spending bill, only to see it filibustered. An effort to pass the DREAM Act separately also failed. The bill would make it possible for people brought into the country as children to apply for citizenship after spending several years in the country and completing two years of college or military service. Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid (D-Nev.) reintroduced the bill in May. This time, backers are focusing on the potential economic benefits of a path to citizenship.

Restrictions on eligibility for health care reform programs will result in the potential exclusion of up to 220,000 children from affordable health care coverage in California, according to a new policy brief from the UCLA Center for Health Policy Research. The number represents approximately 20 percent of all uninsured children in California. Of those children, up to 40,000 may be eligible for coverage but may not apply, due to confusion about new rules governing access to both the California Health Benefit Exchange and the state's expanded Medi-Cal program.
