Putnam County's Habitat For Humanity is expanding its service area by taking over operations of Overton County Habitat For Humanity.

To better inform church leaders here, a breakfast meeting was held April 10 (7:30 to 8:30 AM) during which members of the local faith community and members of Habitat staff could better get to know one another and learn how to work together to bring about good things for our community.

Churches were made aware (by attending this breakfast meeting) of their various opportunities to assist the new local Habitat organization.

This was an initial step toward involving as much of the local faith community as possible in Habitat's work – which will assist people with affordable home repairs and eventually lead to local housing construction to benefit and serve those who qualify under the established guidelines of Habitat and its committees.

Both our radio stations, (WLIV AM and WLIV FM) through our local news coverage, coverage on our community events segments and on our community calendar programs informed the public of this special breakfast session. This information aired on both WLIV AM and WLIV FM.

We have extensively used our facilities to inform the public about this issue of importance to community church leaders enabling them to get acquainted with Habitat officials and get on board with the new program(s) that are coming to our community.....programs to help people who often times have no other means to improve the quality of their living conditions.

Placed in the public file Second Quarter, 2018.
