Guest: Johnny Pressley

Topic: Newly re-opened Cumberland River Hospital

Area residents are served by fewer and fewer local, community-based hospitals in today's ever-changing health care marketplace.

After the closing of Cumberland River Hospital in Celina – and its remaining closed for several months – an Upper Cumberland man, Johnny Preseley, has re-opened the hospital in order to provide care for sick and injured in Celina and in surrounding areas such as Livingston, Gainesboro, etc.

To make the public aware of the re-opening of the facility, WLIV AM & WLIV FM have broadcast two different interviews with Mr. Pressley as part of our FOCUS ON COMMUNITY public affairs programming.

Mr. Pressley has outlined the services currently available as well as his long-term plans for making Cumberland River Hospital a center for top-notch health care in this rural region of Tennessee.

The second of Mr. Pressley's interviews was aired 11/8/19 and through the end of the month at various times on various days so as to reach as many listeners as possible and make them aware of this newly-opened center for healing and wellness.
