

KVSC News Features

Monday through Friday at 12:30 p.m.

May, 2018

May 1, T	With Good Reason, Cents and Sensibility: Jane Austen novels provide timeless insight into our virtues and vices, and Irish scholar and critic Theo Dorgan discusses the joys and challenges of reading Ireland's greatest literary son.
May 2, W	Planetary Radio, Yuri's Night: Host Mat Kaplan once again attends the worldwide party for space. Join him at the Los Angeles celebration under Space Shuttle Endeavour.
May 3, TH	With Good Reason, Cents and Sensibility part 2: Author Dan farhat tells us about what it'd be like to defend against vampires, and Jolanta Wawrzycka talks about the life of write James Joyce
May 4, F	SIDELINES – Live sports talk show featuring students at SCSU
May 7, M	With Good Reason: Counselors Without Borders: more than six months after Hurricane Maria Puerto Rican Residents are devastated, and Boris Kovatchev and Sue Brown are leading research into curing Type 1 diabetes.
May 8, T	With Good Reason: Pains of Recovery: Bill Petri explains a new epidemic of an infection related to antibiotics, and Judy Silberg discusses the genes behind diseases by studying twins.
May 9, W	KQAL: Frankenfest, 200 years ago, she created one of the most famous monsters of all time, Frankenstein, the Art Beat takes you to Frankenfest where writers and artists bring the monster to life.
May 10, TH	KFAI: Nooky Jones Live, Live from Minnesota features Nooky Jones to bring you some funky, fresh sexy soul.
May 11, F	KUMD: Untamed Mushrooms: From Filed to Table, Authors Michael Karns and Lisa Golden Schroeder talk about their book and how mushrooms are a fruit. KBXE: Paddle Minnesota: Interview with Susan Grace, producer Jim Gallagher talks with Alaska singer/songwriter Susan Grace.
May 14, M	WTIP: Border Country, Howard Greene and others took eight canoe trips between 1906 and 1916, Martha Greene Phillips tells us about her father's adventures.
May 15, T	WTIP: Thomas Ogren, Thomas Ogren is an allergy researcher who talks about what we can do to make our gardens and the world safer for those with asthma or allergies.
May 16, W	KQAL: Maria W. Faust Sonnet Contest 2018: Art Beat talks with Maria W. Faust Sonnet Contest Director Ted Haaland about how the contest started and how it grew around the world.
May 17, TH	KVSC: Diversity in Education: Josh Nguyen discusses the lack of diversity within education and how school administrations and classrooms are changing.

May 18, F	Planetary Radio; Why Mars? Host Matt Kaplan sits down with a panel to discuss the future and reasons for living on Mars.
May 21, M	Today's Feature comes from With Good Reason, Sam Blanchard is a digital artist who uses technology to interweave everyday objects into metaphors, and Artist Marcia Neblett talks about the process of woodblock printmaking and how she finds inspiration in fairy tales.
May 22, T	from With Good Reason:When Frances Mayes moved to Tuscany in Italy, she left behind her family and roots in Fitzgerald, Georgia. In her memoir Under Magnolia , the renowned author of Under the Tuscan Sun returns to her hometown to explore her coming of age in the Deep South.
May 23, W	Today's Feature comes from IdeaSphere, Elizabeth Partridge's new book is an in-depth look at key elements of the Vietnam War. Boots on the Ground tells the story of youth activists, racism, government scandals, and protests.
May 24, TH	Today's Feature comes from Sea Change Radio, Have you forgotten the days of $5 gas from a few years ago? Well prices are on the rise again and to explain the increase is oil expert Dan Dicker.
May 25, F	Today's Feature comes from Planetary Radio, The New Horizons mission was a triumph, revealing Pluto as an utterly unique and beautiful world. But the mission first had to survive challenge after challenge, and then narrowly avoiding disaster when it was barely a week from its destination.
May 28, M	Today's Feature comes from A Sense of Place, Professional soldiers in Fort Benning, Georgia talk of the challenges facing themselves and their families as they prepare to go to war.
May 29, T	N/A
May 30, W	Today's Feature comes from With Good Reason, Nearly 400 years ago, in 1619, the first Africans arrived in English-speaking North America. Cassandra Newby-Alexander explores how we should commemorate that history– and what's at stake when we ignore it.
May 31, TH	Today's Feature comes from Sea Change Radio, we will hear from Ginger Strand, a non-fiction writer who has written extensively on the American interstate and discuss the history of American roads over the past five decades.