Public Affairs Programs

THE Best of our Knowledge – is a 30 minute program produced by National Productions that is hosted by Bob Barrett. It highlights breakthroughs across disciplines and across the globe putting listeners at the forefront of their fields. Each week this program examines some of the issues unique to education, looks at the research and invites commentary from experts and administrators from all levels of education.

Viewpoints – is a 30 minute program produced by Media Tracks; moderator host, Shel Lustig. Program covers health care, crime reduction, economy, political issues, and many other important local and global issues.

Minnesota This week – is produced locally by Radio City Network News; hosted by Curtis Beckmann. Issues covered revolve around local issues, with an emphasis on social services/community involvement.

Martha Fast Horse Show– is a 30 minute program, hosted by Martha Fast Horse, The program covers local issues relating to the Native American communities including public and cultural affairs.

The following issues were addressed during this quarter:

1. Economy
2. Education
3. Environment
4. Health
5. Legal/Law
6. Miscellaneous
7. Urban

Economy

View Points	12/22/13	Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: John Gallo & Mick Barron. The housing market is coming back after five long years of financial distress. Still, many people are having trouble paying their mortgage for the expensive homes they bought during the boom. We talk to two finance specialists about mortgage modification plans and other options, and why it's important for families – and lenders – to have homes occupied rather than abandoned.
View Points	12/29/13	Host: Gary Price. Guests: Michael Fuljenz & Rod Gillis. A lot of people are facing big holiday bills, and they're tempted to sell some of the gold jewelry or coins that they have lying around the house. How do you get the best price for your treasures? Are the coins you have really all that valuable? We talk to two gold and coin specialists about how gold buyers assess the value of your items, which coins might be valuable and why, and how to find the best place to sell your valuables.

Education

View Points	10/6/2013	Host: Christopher Michael. Guests: Michael Sokolove, journalist, author of "Drama High: The incredible true story of a brilliant teacher, a struggling town, and the magic of theater," (www.michaelsokolove.com). During the school year, thousands of high schools will be staging plays and musicals. But not many will be doing it on the level that Harry S. Truman High School in Levittown, Pennsylvania is famous for. We'll hear how a teacher created a drama program in that school that challenged students and the community to explore difficult subjects, captured the attention of the biggest Broadway producers and helped young actors learn more about themselves, their world and become better all-around students.
View Points	10/6/2013	Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Gina Perry, psychologist practicing in Melbourne, Australia, and author of the book, "Behind the Shock Machine: The untold story of the notorious Milgram psychology experiments," (www.gina-perry.com); Dominic Packer, Professor of Psychology and Cognitive Science, Lehigh University, Bethlehem, PA. (www.lehigh.edu). Psychology and sociology students have studied The Milgram obedience experiments since the results appeared in a scientific journal in 1963. And almost since they made that first appearance, they've come under fire for the methods Dr. Milgram used, and the actual meaning of his findings. We talk to two psychologists who have studied Milgram's work about the morality of the study, the real findings and if they are still valid 50 years afterward.
The Best of Our Knowledge	10/23/2013	There is growing controversy around the country about the Common Core education standards that almost every state is adopting. Some of that controversy is just political posturing and blow-hardiness. But one element may be worth listening to: the teaching of cursive writing is not part of the standards.

Education

Best of our Knowledge	11/13/13	Filmmaker M. Night Shyamalan has entertained audiences for over two decades with movies like The Sixth Sense , Unbreakable and Signs . As founder of the M. Night Shyamalan Foundation he has lead initiatives to feed the hungry, empower women and provide children in Africa with lifesaving vitamins. Now, he is tackling one of the most hotly debated topics here in the US...schools.
View Points	11/17/13	Host: Christopher Michael. Guests: Matthew Pearl & Jon Gertner. We've come a long way technologically since the first telephone and the light bulb, but what did it take to get to where we are today? We talk to two authors about two of the most influential hi-tech incubators of the late 19 th and the 20 th centuries – MIT and Bell Labs. Our focus is on the philosophies and the people who brought us the inventions that revolutionized our lives.
Best of our Knowledge	11/20/13	Dr. Rebecca Gladding is an instructor and attending psychiatrist at UCLA. Along with Dr. Jeffery Schwartz she is the author of "You Are Not Your Brain - The Four Step Solution for Changing Bad Habits, Ending Unhealthy Thinking and Taking Control of Your Life". I spoke with Dr. Gladding about how it seems sometimes your brain can be your worst enemy. Plus a closer look at the superheroes in special education.
View Points	11/24/2013	Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Diane Glancy & Lani Hall Alpert. When it comes to popular literature, novels seem to get all the attention. The mysteries, love stories, suspenseers and historical family sagas sell millions of books and make some of their authors household names. Why is it that short stories don't enjoy some of that fame? We talk to a professor of English and also to a short story author about why these stories aren't top of mind with the public, what short stories bring to literature that longer writing doesn't, and we'll hear some advice for first-time authors on getting started writing short stories.
Best of our Knowledge	11/27/13	Flipping school could be the answer to underperforming schools. Bob Barrett speaks with Jerry Overmyer, mathematics and science outreach coordinator and a math teacher at the MAST Institute at the University of Northern Colorado, about saving a Michigan school.
View Points	12/8/2013	Host: Gary Price. Guests: Ken Burns. For many Americans, the history courses they took in school left them either bored or frustrated. All of those names, dates, and locations that had to be memorized made what should have been an exciting subject dry and uninteresting. We talk to filmmaker Ken Burns about a new venture he is undertaking with actor Tom Hanks and Audible.com that aims to bring history to life, by having talented actors create audio books from American literary masterpieces that present our history through personal stories of war, the settling of the west, slavery and The Great Depression.

Do you constantly split infinitives, start sentences with “and” or “but” and end sentences with a preposition? Have no fear, you’ve done nothing wrong. It seems many of the grammar rules that we’ve been following over the years are completely bogus. Today on The Best Of Our Knowledge, we’ll talk to an English professor about the seven bogus grammar errors that you don’t need to worry about...and a lot more about the state of writing in general.

Environment

Best of Our
Knowledge

10/1/13

Dr. Benjamin Weiss, Associate Professor of Planetary Sciences in the Department of Earth, Atmospheric and Planetary Sciences at M-I-T, speaks with The Best Of Our Knowledge’s Science Reporter David Guistina about his work studying the building blocks of planets.

View Points

10/6/13

Moderator Curtis Beckmann. Guest: David Nicolai, University of Minnesota Extension Educator in Crops. After a period of rain, the guest had new numbers to show that the 2013 drought has pretty much ended for significant portions of Minnesota. The coming harvest would be strong enough to moderate the drought’s impact on farm income in Minnesota.

Best of Our
Knowledge

10/30/13

Earlier this year we got word from NASA that, after traveling through space for nearly 35 years, the probe Voyager 1 has left our solar system and headed off into, well...we really don't know do we. However we are getting a better idea of what type of planets are systems are waiting beyond our solar system.

Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Alan Weisman. How many people can the world hold in a healthy, ecologically responsible way? Well, we’re heading to 11 billion by the next century, and with more and more land being used for farming, deserts increasing in size, and water becoming scarcer, we’re on our way to population overload. Why is this? Why can’t people just have fewer children? We talk to a population researcher who traveled around the world asking this same question – and the answers he got were far from simple. We also find out what will happen if we don’t rein in population – and soon.

MN This Week

11/24/13

Moderator Curtis Beckmann ENVIRONMENT Guest: J. Drake Hamilton, science policy director, Fresh Energy (St. Paul “think tank”), talked about the actual cost of coal power, a measure now required by the state of Minnesota utilities, as they contemplate increases in power production. It turns out that the most efficient source of power for Minnesota utilities is solar and wind power, the prices for which have consistently come down.

12/8/13

Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Jodi Sedlock & Don Mitchell. Bats are one of the iconic images of Halloween and hundreds of gothic novels and horror movies. They have a scary image and a bad reputation for carrying disease, but they are actually vital to global agriculture and health. We talk to a bat expert and a man who spent years working hard to create a safe habitat for one endangered species, about what these flying mammals are really like, the disease that is threatening their existence in the U.S., and their value to society.

MN This Week

12/8/13

Moderator Curtis Beckmann. Guest: Bob Moffitt, communications director, American Lung Association, Minnesota and Dakotas, talks about the Obama Administration's apparent decision to ease up on federal ethanol requirements, in exchange for its apparent decision to deny construction of the large Keystone oil pipeline. Minnesota is one of the largest-ethanol producing states in the U.S.

Health

MN This Week

10/13/2013

Moderator Curtis Beckmann. April Todd-Malmlov, Executive Director, MNSure. The guest headed up the Minnesota roll-out of its health insurance exchange, part of the Affordable Health Act's October 1st launch. She described what MNSure is, and what it isn't. It's a shopping mall for health insurance, for those who do not have health insurance.

Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Dr. Gregory Stock. We all want answers to the complicated questions in life, but sometimes just asking the questions are enough to make us think deeply about our lives and our world. We talk to a man who has made a living asking questions that sometimes have no hard and fast answers, or where the resolution changes depending upon our age or circumstances. He tells us how the process of coming to an answer is often more important than any one answer itself.

Host: Gary Price. Guests: Scott Lilienfeld & James Fallon. When we hear the term "psychopath," we usually think of serial killers or other nasty villains. Rarely does anyone think of the mild-mannered neuroscientist next door. We talk to a psychologist and to a neuroscientist who happens to be psychopathic, about what the term actually means in the medical world, how it's tested for in various people, the traits that most often set it apart from other conditions, and how many people who have psychopathic tendencies can function in a non-violent, productive way.

Legal / Law

MN this Week	10/20/13	Moderator Curtis Beckmann. Guest: David Schultz, Professor of Law and Political Science, Hamline University, gave listeners context for the government shutdown, why the shutdown occurred and what its costs would be.
MN This Week	10/27/13	Moderator Curtis Beckmann. Guest: attorney Mark Haase, V.P., Council on Crime and Justice. He talks about the council's goal to make some felony criminal records easier to get expunged so that the felon can develop a productive life, after prison.
MN This Week	11/3/13	Moderator Curtis Beckmann. Guest: Jeffrey Anderson, attorney who for nearly 30 years has represented victims of sexual molestation at the hands of persons in authority. He talks about prospects that some Catholic priests will be identified, under a court order.
Best of Our Knowledge	11/6/13	Can knowledge be patented? A series of court rulings in the past few years have given conflicting answers to that question. We'll speak to a patent attorney about some of the most prominent intellectual property patent cases of the last few years...including one that still not settled. We'll also find out if a university that was used as part of the Manhattan Project in the 1940s is radioactive today.

Miscellaneous

Best of Our Knowledge	10/9/13	Jim Ziolkowski, the founder and CEO of the non-profit buildOn, talks about his new book, "Walk In Their Shoes: Can One Person Change The World?" which tells the story of how he started struggling to get funding for a small school building project...and wound up founding the world wide non-profit buildOn.
MN This Week	10/13/13	Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Chris Pan Launois, son of the late John Launois, author of "L'Americain: A memoir," (www.theamericanbook.com). News magazines were big business during WWII until their demise in the 1970s, and the photographers who took the award-winning and poignant pictures for those magazines were the rock stars of their profession. We talk to a man who's father, John Launois, was one of the biggest, most successful American photojournalists of his time. We'll hear why and how the Frenchman came to the US, learned his trade, developed a love for America, and hear stories of his amazing career taking the pictures that defined history and the culture of the 60s and 70s.
View Points	10/13/13	Host: Christopher Michael. Guests: Stanley Weintraub, author of "Young Mr. Roosevelt: FDR's introduction to war, politics and life," (www.dacapopress.com). We know so much about Franklin D. Roosevelt through his presidency, but what about the years before? We talk to an esteemed historian and author about the young Roosevelt, his family life, his career in the Department of the Navy, as a state politician and a victim of polio, and learn how these experiences molded FDR's life and presidency.
Best of Our Knowledge	10/16/13	Dr. Gregory Stock has written new book, "The Book of Questions", which is a compiled book of thought and conversation provoking questions. Also on the program, an investigation of American nuns by the Vatican is discussed.
View Points	10/20/13	Host: Christopher Michael. Guests: Edward Vicenzi and Volker Rose. Photographs of the mid-19 th century are fairly rare – and they're getting harder to find every year. That's because many of them between the 1840s and 1860s used the daguerreotype process. That's where images were taken and preserved not on photo paper, but on thin metal plates. These pictures are subject to corrosion, and those that remain in private and public collections are in danger of being irreparably harmed or destroyed altogether. We talk to two scientists who are studying the problem at the nano level with state-of-the-art technology to find out how they corrode, and how they, and our heritage, might be preserved, and learn more about how corrosion develops in other materials we use on bridges, buildings and objects.

Miscellaneous

View Points	10/20/13	Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: David Johnson and Marian Walsh. It's frustrating when local government repeatedly rebuffs an average citizen when he or she wants to get something accomplished in their community. So if you can't beat them...why not join them and fight the good fight from the inside? We talk to two election veterans about why it's important for John and Joan Q Public to take part in their local government; how to go about starting a campaign and how to avoid some of the common mistakes first-time candidates sometimes make.
View Points	10/27/13	Host: Christopher Michael. Guests: Dr. Frank Farley, Catherine Zimmer, & Allen Grove. Halloween is here, and millions of Americans will be seeking out horror films and wearing monster costumes hoping to scare family and friends – and themselves. But why? What does a good fright do for us? We talk to three specialists in thrills and chills about the issue, how children process fright and get some suggestions on films and books appropriate for the holiday.
View Points	11/03/13	Host: Christopher Michael. Guests: Dr. Gary J. Kennedy & Alexander Pollatsek. As the elderly population continues to grow in the US, so does the number of older drivers. No matter how healthy and mentally sharp a person remains, age does eventually change their ability to drive. We'll discuss what these changes are, how they affect driving overall, how older people can learn to avoid errors, and how family and friends should approach the topic of cutting back on or quitting driving altogether with an elderly loved one.
View Points	11/03/13	Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Jim Ziolkowski, Allan Luks & Oliver Libby. We often hear people who help the poor and disadvantaged say how a donation or a helping hand by one person can change the lives of many. But can it? Can one person really make the lives of thousands – or millions – better? We talk to three men who have devoted their lives to public service about how it is possible for one person to be the catalyst for big change.
MN this Week	11/10/13	Moderator Curtis Beckmann. Guest: Lieutenant Eric Roeske, Minnesota State Patrol Public Information Officer, discussed the need for Minnesota motorists to once again familiarize themselves with their winter driving skills, the advance of recent winter weather.
View Points	11/10/13	Host: Christopher Michael. Guests: Chip Kidd & Chris Malone. Advertising is everywhere, and we're all susceptible to it – whether it's the sexy women selling beer during football game commercials; the cute duck that has your insurance needs in mind, or the super-sophisticated couple who emerge from the luxury car dressed in their designer outfits. Why do we fall for these ads? Is it just the images? Or is there more to it? We talk to a graphic artist and a veteran advertising professional about the visual and psychological aspects of marketing and advertising.

MN This Week	11/10/13	Moderator Curtis Beckmann. Guest: Lieutenant Eric Roeske, Minnesota State Patrol Public Information Officer, discussed the need for Minnesota motorists to once again familiarize themselves with their winter driving skills, the advance of recent winter weather.
View Points	11/10/13	Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Paul Levinson & Melissa Henson. What makes good children's television? Is it the story? The interactivity? The characters? And how is it that some tv shows have endured for decades, while others are just a flash in the pan? We discuss the issue with two media specialists.
MN This Week	11/17/13	Moderator Curtis Beckmann. Guest: Greg Owen, consulting social scientist, Wilder Foundation. Wilder conducts a survey of homelessness in Minnesota every three years. The numbers reported in November showed an improving situation for homeless veterans.
View Points	11/24/13	Host: Christopher Michael. Guests: Ron Kaufman & John Ragsdale. When your cable TV goes out or you need an adjustment on your credit card bill, sometimes the call to customer service is worse than the original problem. Why is this? Why can't businesses get better at dealing with their customers' requests? We talk to two customer service pros about why the problem is so widespread, what a company and a consumer can do to make service faster and more pleasant, and the cultural differences that arise when customer service is outsourced abroad.
View Points	12/1/13	Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Dave Eicher. This holiday season there's more sparkle to look at than the lights from Christmas decorations. The Comet ISON is scheduled to make its appearance in the early morning sky between Thanksgiving and Christmas. We talk to an astronomer and author about what comets are, why they're scientifically significant and where in the sky we might best see and photograph ISON.
MN This Week	12/1/2013	Moderator Curtis Beckmann. Guest: Chris Galler, CEO, Minnesota Association of Realtors, reports that the average value of Minnesota homes continues to climb, as the state emerges from the damaging effects of the recent recession.
Best of Our Knowledge	12/11/2013	The workflow in the microbiology laboratory is changing at a rapid pace, and microbiologists have the challenge of selecting the most appropriate, clinically useful, and cost-effective automation for their labs. Dr. Carey-Ann Burnham, an Assistant Professor of Pathology and Immunology at the Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis, and the Medical Director of Clinical Microbiology for Barnes-Jewish Hospital discusses. Plus Santa School, and the question of real or fake beards.

Miscellaneous

MN This Week	12/15/13	Moderator Curtis Beckmann. SOCIETY Guest: Jerad Morey, project manager, Discussion Groups, MN Council of Churches. The guest describes the program which brings together those of differing points of political view into round-table discussions, as a means to foster respect among the combatants. More than 1,500 round-table sessions were held around Minnesota between 2012 and 2013...the first issue for focus was the marriage amendment on the Minnesota election ballot.
View Points	12/15/13	Host: Gary Price. Guests: Jason Bond, Melanie Wagner, Sue Conley & James M. Cornelius. As we get ready to celebrate the holidays, we wondered how our founding fathers would have laid out their festive tables. We talk to three food experts and a historian about the kinds of foods and drinks Washington, Jefferson, Franklin and Lincoln might have enjoyed to celebrate holidays and other festive occasions in their lives.
Best of Our Knowledge	12/18/2013	If you spend any time at all watching football you know concussions are getting a lot more attention. Now, the NFL is partnering with GE and Under Armor to promote their second Head Health Challenge...with up to 10 million dollars at stake. We'll also find out how some students and trade school are dealing with student debt...listen to the music of the Furry Ambers, a group made up of developmentally challenged members...and spend an academic minute with frisky honey bees.
View Points	12/15/2013	Host: Marty Peterson. Guest: Beverly Harzog. There is such a temptation to be generous to others – and ourselves – during the holidays that many Americans end up in credit card trouble when the bills start rolling in. We talk to an accountant who was once in heavy debt from her cards about how she got there, how to spot the red flags of credit card overuse, and strategies for getting out of debt and learning how to use credit wisely.
MN this Week	12/22/13	Moderator Curtis Beckmann. FAMILY Guest: Deborah Clemmensen, family therapist, talks about family pressures before the holidays, pressures that mostly come from divorce.
View Points	12/22/13	Host: Gary Price. Guests: Stanley Weintraub.. Millions of Americans will be traveling home for the holidays, but even with crowded airports, even more crowded roads and bad weather, few will have as tough a time as General George Washington, did on his journey home after the Revolutionary War. We talk to a noted historian about Washington's trip back to Mt. Vernon, his emotional farewell to his men, and how his stopping and meeting with ordinary Americans along the way sealed his fate as the beloved Father of our country.

Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Lady Fiona Carnarvon
The hit PBS series, “Downton Abbey” is premiering soon in the U.S., and all of the intrigue, loves, heartbreak and wealth will be on display for the millions of devotees of the show. But what is shown in the series a true depiction of what really went on in the homes of aristocratic families during the early part of the 20th century? We talk to an author – and present resident of the “Downton Abbey” castle – about the actual Earls and Countesses who lived, loved and lost back then.

Duran tells us about his book, Condor and the Eagle: Uniting Heart and Mind in Search of a New World View. Available from www.Amazon.com. In this extensive work that reviewers have called a “treatise” and a “ground-breaking thesis,” I reflect on more than a decade of exploring the relationship between modern physics, particularly physical cosmology, and the knowledge and beliefs of Indigenous Peoples (descendants of the earliest surviving human populations in each area of the earth) who have always embraced a land ethic because the Earth sustains all life. Within its pages you will discover a new way of looking at physics and the facts and mysteries about the Universe. You will see how the quantum and relativity theories reveal the beauty, intelligence, and spirit with which nature is endowed; how intertwined, complex, and alive our Universe is, where “all things are connected” and “we are all related.” This book is intended for readers from all backgrounds.
