

FEATURE

The Texarkana regional Arts and Humanities council will host events this fall and winter beginning with an exhibit documenting the American Farmer beginning on the 10th of November – Sabrina McCormick spoke with Chris Wicker, the visual arts coordinator at TRAHC to discuss the exhibit and other activities on the schedule.

AMERICAN FARMER 3:52

C and C

Paul Mobley will be the featured artist in an upcoming exhibit documenting American Farm Life at the Texarkana Regional Arts and Humanities Council –

The exhibit features color and black and white photos of farmers across the country, TRAHC visual arts coordinator, Chris Wicker explains:

((((((((WICKER AMERICAN FARMER :14 Essentially Mobley travelled from Alaska to Florida and everywhere in between and documented these farmers in their trades in a way that not only highlights a large portion of America, but also provides insightful portraits of the farmers in question.))))))

The exhibit begins November 10 and lasts through January 7. Admission is free to the public. For information about the exhibit and other upcoming events visit TRAHC DOT ORG