WUAB EDITORIAL

Title: "Cleveland Clinic – 'Obamacare'"

Topic: Back in 2009, President Obama used the Cleveland Clinic as a benchmark of quality and care. Today, the Clinic is cutting expenses and conducting layoffs due to increase in costs and decreased revenue under "Obamacare". They are cutting $330 million from the budget. The Clinic says that these cuts were in the works and are not solely a reaction to the President's healthcare plan. It looks as though "Obamacare" isn't going to be "business as usual" for many institutions including the Cleveland Clinic.

Title: "Fitzgerald's College Hand-out"

Topic: Cuyahoga County Executive Ed Fitzgerald has a plan to give $100 to every childn who enters kindergarten in the Cleveland Public School system to encourage them to start saving for college. Editorial posits that this plan is laughable when one considers the condition and poor performance of most urban schools in the county. The real solution "isn't a handout by ambitious politicians. The solution requires courage, coordination, and hard work by elected officials, educators, and parents."

Title: "Seeing Red Over Chief Wahoo"

Topic: Liberal unrest over the Washington Redskins' name has sparked controversy over the Cleveland Indians' mascot "Chief Wahoo." USA TODAY printed a high-profile article while a Cleveland Plain Dealer column prompted over a thousand heated responses. The Oneida Indian Nation turned its attention to the storied Washington football franchise early in 2013 and is trying to force the team's owner to scrap the almost 100 year-old name as they allege that it is "racist and derogatory."

WUAB-TV Broadcast EditorialsOctober 1 through December 31, 2013 (continued)*WUAB EDITORIAL*Title: "Speed Cameras"

Topic: In just a week's time, 4,600 drivers were nabbed by Cleveland's new portable speed cameras – among those caught were the city's own safety director, Marty Flask. Five of the portable cameras are now in service with ten more planned – these are on top of the many stationary traffic cameras already in place. The addition of these portable cameras appears to be nothing but a municipal money grab. State lawmakers are considering a bill to put the brakes on traffic cams and – in the opinion of this editorial – "passage of the bill can't come soon enough."

WUAB EDITORIALTitle: "Parking Meter Collectors"

Topic: The city of Cleveland has 3,000 parking meters, but only three employees assigned to empty the meters. A Carl Monday investigation recently found the coin collectors are short-changing the taxpayers – spending only a couple hours a day actually working and most of the day loafing, hiding in their vehicles, and sleeping their shifts away. With the highest job losses in the nation, the editorialist wonders why the city can't find people who want to put in a full day's work for a full day's pay?

WUAB EDITORIALTitle: "Blowing Hot Air"

Topic: Mayor Frank Jackson and Congresswoman Marcy Kaptur are among those pushing for wind turbines off Lake Erie. Some environmentalists are concerned about freshwater contamination and the danger to birds and bats, but the bigger concern is the impact to the lake itself. The National Renewable Energy Laboratory estimates that it would take 11,000 wind turbines to power about 1/3 of Ohio's homes and – incredibly – that would fill half of the lake.

WUAB GUEST EDITORIALTitle: Editorial response by Linda Fleming

Topic: Guest editorialist was Linda Fleming who was responding to Bill Applegate's editorial entitled "Speed Cameras." In her response, Ms. Fleming questions the accuracy of the cameras being used by many municipalities to cite drivers. These cameras can be affected by interference factors and there can be other mitigating circumstances that could have impact on the validity of the citations.

Naming the new inner belt bridge the "George Voinovich Inner-belt Bridge" is, however, a self-aggrandizing gesture that needs to go away. Topic: Cleveland Mayor Frank Jackson and the Cleveland Browns negotiated a deal to upgrade First Energy Stadium. This deal will saddle the taxpayers with a $30 million tab. The NFL will pay most of the $120 million in upgrades, but Cleveland taxpayers will still have to pay $2 million a year for the next 15 years. Editorial posits that these tax dollars could be put to better use.

WUAB EDITORIALTitle: "Welcome to the Hotel Taxpayer"

Topic: The new convention center and medical mart was finished ahead of schedule and under-budget – which should have been good news for taxpayers as $93 million in tax money was left over. Rather than refund the taxpayers, though, Cleveland city leaders decided to use the money to build a 600 room convention center hotel at a cost of $260 million. Six privately-owned hotels are now being built downtown – editorial questions why the county feels the need to be in the hotel business and proffers that the savings should be rebated to the taxpayers.

Topic: Cuyahoga County Executive Ed Fitzgerald picked Lt. Governor Eric Kearney to be his running mate in his bid for governor of Ohio in the next election. Mr. Kearney has since stepped down in a firestorm over back taxes and missteps by the Fitzgerald campaign. In the opinion of this editorial, the fiasco raises some legitimate questions about Ed Fitzgerald's ability to make the quantum leap from County Executive to Ohio Governor.

Topic: Downtown Cleveland was promised much more than the temporary casino that is located at the old Higbee Building. Dan Gilbert told voters that Phase Two would be a $700 million casino built on 16 acres behind Tower City. Phase One opened in May 2012 with the promise of Phase Two in 2014. Gilbert was to have concrete plans for the second phase on the Governor's desk in 2014. It will be "wait and see" for Cleveland residents in 2014.
